SPENDING SPREE ATTAINS RECORD 8 BILLION PACE

Annual U. S. Outlay Nearly Doubled.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—As the budget for the 1940 fiscal year, which President Roosevelt will submit to congress in January, begins to assume tentative form, it is becoming apparent that the federal spending "plateau" has reached 8 billion dollars a year.

During his first term, President Roosevelt talked about a necessary spending "plateau" of 6 billion dollars a year, in contrast to the 4½ billion dollars spent in the last full year of the Hoover administration, and promised that expenditures would be leveled off at that figure. Later a "plateau" of about 7 billion dollars, irrespective of the fluctuations of relief spending, came to be regarded as the desirable standard in White House calculations.

May Reach 9 Billion.

But now the "plateau" is at least 8 billion dollars, based on the irreducible minimum of expectations for the fiscal year 1940, and 8 billion 985 million dollars based on the latest official estimates for the current fiscal year.

Thus it appears that the "plateaus" are really steps on the way up to higher and higher peaks of federal expenditures.

The tentative estimates of expenditures during the fiscal year to begin next July 1 total 7 billion 860 million dollars, with only 1 billion 300 million for recovery and relief and 1 billion 300 million for national defense. Both these figures are subject to upward revision pending further studies by President Roosevelt and his advisers. Relief and recovery expenditures for the current fiscal year were estimated at $2,149,350,000 by President Roosevelt in his July budget summation.

Figures Face Scrutiny.

The figure of 1 billion 300 million for national defense would represent an increase of only 250 million over the estimated outlay during the current fiscal year. President Roosevelt's program for greatly increased armaments, which still is in the formative stage, may call for a much larger increase. Army and navy experts have put the figure at 1 billion dollars over and above the current national defense figure of 1 billion 50 million dollars, but the full amount would not necessarily be expended in one year.

President Roosevelt's national defense program is expected to be scrutinized with suspicion in the next session of congress, not only by pacifists, but by the isolationists and many anti-New Dealers who believe in adequate preparedness. Especially will their suspicions be aroused if Mr. Roosevelt couples his national defense proposals with a demand for a special income tax levy, as proposed by Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board under the Wilson administration, after his recent conference at the White House.

Looking Ahead to 1940.

The national defense program, in that case, would be looked upon as a cloak to disguise new sources of revenue for general spending and hence increased political power for the 1940 presidential election year.

Great significance was attributed to Mr. Baruch's proposal for drastic new income taxes because he broke a precedent and permitted himself to be interviewed after the White House conference. It was assumed that Mr. Baruch, a man of great discretion, would not have permitted himself to be interviewed on the subject without the President's approval.

The Roosevelt social security program was suspected by many at the time of its submission to congress as a scheme with exalted ostensible purposes designed primarily to tap vast new sources of spending revenue sorely needed at that time because the Supreme court had pronounced unconstitutional the AAA processing [consumer] taxes.

Urge Pay as Go Basis.

There is an increasing demand among senators and representatives in sympathy with the social security objectives to put the system on a pay as you go basis and eliminate the mythical old age reserve account. Under the existing system, government bonds, or IOU's, are substituted

Signs Request to Enroll at College with Footprint

Oberlin, O., Oct. 30. (AP) Oberlin college officials stared perplexedly today at an enrollment application signed with a footprint, then filed it away—for reference about 18 years hence. The footprint was the "signature" of Wesley Sage Cox, three days old, son of Budd Cox, Oberlin's freshman football coach. The prospective enrollee's application said he expected to be graduated from "some town high school, some town, U. S. A., in 1956."

1938 CAMPAIGN DEVELOPS INTO POLITICAL FREAK

It's 'Anything Can Happen' Affair.

BY PARKE BROWN.

With only one week of campaigning left, leaders of both major political parties yesterday declared that the fall campaign of 1938 is a freak one, in which there is much more likelihood than usual of decisive eleventh hour developments.

The state, congressional, legislative, and county election has been hot, with New Dealism as an issue in most of the races. The Republicans are winding up a hard drive that started as soon as the April primary votes were counted. The Democrats, long delayed by hostility that continued after their primary, have just gone into action and are putting up a strong show amid shouts of harmony.

G. O. P. Program Settled.

The Republican program for the final week is settled and there probably will be no big deviation from the charted course. But they, and many Democrats as well, are trying to guess what will happen to the Democratic harmony setup. Below the surface, Democratic leaders admit, there still is serious discord. The question is whether it will break forth or, if an outburst is to be prevented, what methods the party organization leaders will use to block it.

Republican leaders such as Justis L. Johnson, one of the downstate managers, assert that the Democratic policy throughout the campaign has been to avoid bringing out a big vote. Johnson insists that with a light vote the Democratic machine has a better chance of winning and therefore started its campaign late and is making it a pussyfoot affair.

Contrast in Tactics.

The Republicans have planned a huge demonstration at the Coliseum tomorrow night, a great red fire rally from every ward in the city and every one of the thirty suburban townships, while the Democratic headquarters say they will have only their regular ward organization meetings. There will be none of the old style noon meetings in loop theaters on either side, but the modesty of the Democratic program for this week has strengthened the belief that anything may happen in the last forty eight hours before the polls open.

The contrast between the battle tactics of the two parties was heightened by figures obtained from their headquarters. Republican state headquarters said, for example, that Richard J. Lyons, nominee for United States senator, has delivered 465 speeches in 389 cities, villages and towns in his four months of active downstate campaigning. He traveled 45,000 miles.

Lucas in 76 Cities and Villages.

Democratic headquarters at Springfield said his opponent, Congressman Scott W. Lucas, traveled 4,194 miles and spoke in seventy-six cities and villages during his one month of real campaigning downstate.

This difference in the conditions in the two parties has existed since last winter, since before the primaries. One one side the regularly elected Republican committee took full charge of the party's affairs and nominated agreed state and Cook county tickets.

The Horner downstate organization put up its own state ticket. The Cook county Democratic committee under

U. S. Runs Rich Indian's Widow from Mansion

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—For eighteen years the United States government has been fighting Mrs. Jackson Barnett and for the first time today it actually won a clear-cut victory. She is the Kansas widow who in 1920 took Jackson Barnett, the wealthiest Indian in the world, from Oklahoma to Kansas and went through a marriage ceremony with him.

The government's victory over Mrs. Barnett today was in ejecting her from the palatial Wilshire boulevard home Barnett built here fifteen years ago, but it took the United States marshal, twelve men deputies and two women deputies and tear gas to win.

When the court eviction order was served upon her ten days ago, she barricaded herself in the house with her daughter by an earlier marriage, Maxine Sturgis. Efforts of United States Marshal Robert Clark to persuade Mrs. Barnett to leave peaceably were unsuccessful.

Mrs. Barnett Hurls Hachet.

In the quiet of the early Sabbath, Clark and his deputies advanced upon the house and fired a charge of tear gas. Then they forced their way in the front door. Mrs. Barnett stood at the top of the stairs, a hatchet in hand and defied any one to come up and get her. Then she hurled the hatchet at the massed deputies below.

Another charge of tear gas was showered upon her. Then she collapsed and the deputies rushed the stairway. Mrs. Barnett and her daughter were dragged out of the house.

The government's fight against Mrs. Barnett started the day after she and Barnett went through the marriage ceremony in Coffeyville, Kas., Feb. 24, 1920. She was arrested and accused of having kidnaped Barnett, who then was 78 years old, from his shack in Henrietta, Okla. She then was 39 years old.

Settles $550,000 on Her.

At that time Barnett's wealth was estimated by his federal guardian at $1,000,000. His income was $150,000 a year.

In 1923 Barnett settled a trust fund of $550,000 upon his supposed wife and a like amount upon the Baptist Home Mission society. The government, in August, 1929, filed a suit asking for annulment of the marriage. On March 31, 1934, a federal court held the ceremony of 1920 was fraudulent. Barnett died two months later when 92 years old.

There are no known heirs. If none is found the estate will escheat to the United States government.

200 LADIES AT A DOOR MAKE SLOT MACHINE SEEKERS PLENTY SORE

The ladies who held their annual Halloween party in the Moose club at 616 Washington street, Waukegan, Saturday night, were all smiles yesterday. Investigator Claude Warner and his aids, on the other hand, were all gloom.

Warner, who is investigating gambling in Lake county for Special State's Attorney Charles E. Jack, heard that the ladies at the Moose club were playing slot machines. He got a search warant, mustered four special constables, and hastened to the place.

When the ladies saw who the visitors were 200 of them blocked the door. It was a party for women only, they insisted as they kept Warner in a prolonged conversation. When the raiders finally got inside no slot machines were found.

AUTOMOBILE HITS TAVERN AND PINS CUSTOMER TO BAR

Five persons were injured last night in an automobile collision in which one car hurtled into a tavern. Earlier in the day, in another odd accident, an automobile plunged into a house.

The collision last night occurred at Belmont and Meade avenues. The drivers of the cars were Dr. Paul K. Kent, 6332 Belmont avenue, and Ray Moran, 3259 North Oak Park avenue. Dr. Kent's car crashed into the tavern at 6101 Belmont avenue, pinning a customer, Anton Sagmeister, 51 years old, of 6118 Melrose street, against the bar. Sagmeister, Moran, and Marshall Kent, 12, son of Dr. Kent, were seriously injured. The doctor and another son, Henry, 9, also were injured.

The other accident shook up the house of Mrs. Pauline Kiolbassa, 2451 North Central Park avenue. It happened when a helpful motorist gave Charles Greene's stalled car a push. Greene's car shot ahead, across the sidewalk, and into the front of the Kiolbassa house. Greene lives at 4343 North Monticello avenue.

Frank Buck Got Him Once; Now It's Up to the Cops

He weighs only eight ounces and has a tail fifteen inches long. He hasn't a name because he ran away before he could be christened by his new owner, G. W. Borkland of 715 South 6th avenue, St. Charles. He is a marmoset — monkey to you — which was purchased from Frank Buck, the animal catcher. If you see him the St. Charles police will try to take him back alive, just as Mr. Buck once did.

Henry Gets Up Early to Visit a Good Neighbor

Residents of Lisle, the oldest village in Du Page county, haven't been sleeping well lately. They've been afraid of fire. Twelve times since July the big electric siren of the volunteer fire department has been sounded, each time for a blaze that apparently was started by a pyromaniac.

Then, at 5 a. m. yesterday, Foster Buck happened to open a rear window of his home for some fresh air.

Mr. Buck, one of the village's good citizens, saw a man walk quickly away from his garage.

He Finds a Visitor.

He went out to investigate. The visitor was Henry Lorenz, 25 years old, a neighbor and a member of the village volunteer fire department.

"I thought I saw somebody in your garage," said Lorenz, "and came over to see if everything was O. K."

After breakfast Mr. Buck found some newspapers piled against the garage wall. He called Sheriff Arthur Bennett.

Bennett went to the Lorenz home. There he spied sections of newspapers corresponding to those in the Buck garage. He arrested Lorenz. Later he found that the papers from the garage bore Lorenz' finger prints.

Ready for a Touchoff.

"I was getting ready for a touchoff," said the prisoner, after confessing setting five fires. "But when it was all ready Buck threw up his window. That scared me."

Lorenz, who was charged with arson, said he had set fire to one empty building four different times, but he added: "Don't believe all you hear, sherif. I didn't set all the fires. Some of them must have been naturals."

And then he said:

"It was a lot of fun sounding the siren. I liked to fight fires, too, even if Lisle doesn't pay its firemen anything."

Killer's Heart Will Be Filmed as Bullets Hit

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A condemned man will join a Utah scientist tomorrow in an experiment to determine how long a man lives after a bullet pierces his heart.

John W. Deering.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Shortly after dawn in Utah's state prison yard John W. Deering, 40 years old, will go to his death before a five man firing squad for the death of Oliver R. Meredith Jr., Salt Lake City business man. He has agreed to cooperate with Dr. Stephen H. Beesley, state prison physician, in the experiment Beesley believes is the first of its kind.

A device called an "electro cardiograph" will take a moving picture of Deering's heart before, during and after four 30-30 caliber bullets crash into his body. Only four of the five guns will be loaded so that no man may know for sure that he fired one of the death dealing bullets.

Doctor Explains Experiment.

"The primary purpose of the experiment is to see the action of the heart at the time it is pierced by the bullet," said Dr. Beesley.

"We do not know, although there are a number of theories, just what happens at that time. Neither do we know when sensation ceases after the bullets tear into the heart. It might be a shorter or a longer time than we now believe."

Deering, who asked for the death penalty for the May 9 holdup-murder of Meredith, also has offered his body to the University of Utah; his eyes to any one who might want them for their cornea.

When he is strapped into the high backed, wooden chair near the south wall of the prison, a physician will go to him, place a stethoscope to his heart and then point its position to a prison guard who will pin a white cardboard target to the spot.

Wires Lead to Device.

Then Dr. Beesley will fasten wires to each wrist. The wires will lead to the electro-cardiograph device in a black box placed on a table. Near by will be Dr. Beesley.

Each beat of Deering's pulse will shoot electrical impulses down the wires into the box and actuate a tiny beam of light which plays on a roll of sensitive film. The film will record each beat of the heart until it stops.

"The only trouble is, I won't be able to see the picture," Deering said. "Otherwise it's a swell idea."

SKULL CRUSHED IN STREET NEAR EVANSTON HOME

Police Hunt Mystery Clews in Vain.

A young and attractive Evanston mother was found dying under strange circumstances at a street intersection in the suburb early yesterday. She was clad only in knitted pajamas and frayed stockings. She was suffering from head and shoulder injuries. After twenty hours of investigation detectives last night were unable to say how she had incurred her fatal injuries.

The victim was Mrs. Marion L. Nichols, wife of Richard W. Nichols, 1235 Wesley avenue, Evanston, a research engineer, and the daughter of Prof. William H. Timbie of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. She was 30 years old and the mother of a daughter, Wendy, 2.

Part of Clothing Missing.

Mrs. Nichols was found unconscious at Lee street and Asbury avenue, three blocks from her home. A coat and slippers which she wore when she left her home shortly before were missing.

Whether Mrs. Nichols was struck by a hit and run car; whether she fell or was thrown from a moving car; whether she stumbled while walking or running and struck her head, or whether she was bludgeoned by some unknown assailant— all these were questions which the police were trying to answer.

Further mystery was added by an account of her last known movements as related by her husband to Lieut. Carl Eckman. Nichols, who is 31 years old, took a lie detector test which confirmed the truth of his statements.

In Highly Nervous State.

After mentioning that his wife had been in a sanitarium for a nervous breakdown ten years ago, Nichols said she had been in a highly nervous condition Saturday evening. She frequently asked permission to leave the house for a walk alone. He refused because of her condition.

Mrs. Nichols twice tried to outwit him, he said, first by attempting to climb through a bathroom window, and next by trying to creep down the basement stairs. She fell in the latter attempt, injuring her head, he said.

Later, Nichols said, he persuaded his wife to give up the idea of going out for a walk alone, and to accompany him on an automobile ride. He took her to a restaurant. There she ordered a dinner, but touched none of it.

Finally Consents to Walk.

They returned home soon afterward, and retired. Shortly after midnight, he said, he saw his wife preparing to go out. He reluctantly gave his consent then, he said, but insisted that she take their large German police dog with her. Immediately after she left with the dog Nichols telephoned their family physician, Dr. Harry E. Clyde, 860 Hinman avenue, and told him what had occurred. The physician promised to prepare some sleep inducing medicine for Mrs. Nichols.

Then Nichols left the house, and started out in his automobile to find his wife. His intention, he told police, was to take her to Dr. Clyde for the medicine.

Just about that time Mrs. Nichols was found unconscious at Lee street and Asbury avenue by Kenneth Smith, 6516 North Maplewood avenue, a motorist. He notified police, who took her to St. Francis hospital. She died there later.

Faithful Dog Stays at Spot.

Nichols reached the intersection while the crowd that had gathered was still there. His wife already had been taken to the hospital. The dog was still there.

The dog figured in the investigation by minimizing the possibility that Mrs. Nichols was the victim of an unknown assailant. Nichols told police the dog would have attacked any one who attempted to molest his wife.

Police theorized that had Mrs. Nichols been the victim of a hit and run driver she would have suffered more injuries, and her clothing would have been disarranged. A post-mortem examination showed she died of a skull fracture.

This left two remaining possibilities —that she fell or was thrown from a moving car or stumbled while running or walking. Nichols was questioned about the former possibility in the lie detector test.

That Mrs. Nichols had been running was suggested by the fact that the bottoms of her stockings were worn through and that she had lost her slippers. The disappearance of the slippers and her coat completely puzzled detectives.

Mrs. Nichols' coat was found hours later at Dempster street and Asbury avenue, three blocks from where she was found dying. John Poulsen, 707 Ingleside place, Evanston, who found it, turned it over to police last night after he read accounts of the case. Police still were baffled, however, because it was found so far from where Mrs. Nichols lay.

Nichols, a former Williams college student, and his wife were married in the east nearly four years ago after they met in the Timbie home in Newton, Mass. Mrs. Nichols was a graduate of the Connecticut College for Women, New London, Conn. Her parents, Prof. and Mrs. Timbie, left for Chicago by plane yesterday.

G-MEN NAB BANK ROBBER OF BENTZ GANG; ADMITS 15

George Slade.

Agents of the federal bureau of investigation announced yesterday that they had captured George Slade, bank robber and last of the notorious Bentz gang. Slade was seized last Wednesday in a west side rooming house.

D. M. Ladd, chief of the Chicago office of the G-men, said Slade had admitted 15 bank holdups in which $110,054 had been stolen. His most spectacular job was in the First National bank of Milford, Pa., in 1935. He also was involved in jobs in Missouri, Wisconsin, Georgia, and New Jersey.

Edward Bentz, George [Blackie] Carter, and John Gardiner, other members of the band are serving sentences in the federal penitentiary.

HOLD EXTORTION SUSPECTS FOR FURTHER INQUIRY

Two men accused of kidnaping and extortion seized by the police Saturday, were held at the detective bureau yesterday for further investigation. They are Richard Hendrick, 40 years old, a prohibition booze runner, and Ray Rydell, 21, of 2943 Throop street.

They were arrested after Thomas Blondell, 532 West 48th street, a fire insurance adjuster, told police they had forced him into their automobile Friday night and demanded $10,000. They released him after five hours when he turned over $150 and promised to have $500 more the next day. Then Blondell notified police.

Both men were taken to the showup at the detective bureau yesterday.

UNION APPROVES ANTI-BOSS SIGNS —FOR A $100 FEE

G. O. P. Discloses What a Little Money Can Do.

Republican county candidates who wish to advertise under the slogan used last spring by the Horner-Courtney forces—"Smash Kelly-Nash Boss Rule"—disclosed yesterday what the payment of $100 did for them.

For $100 they got the official stamp of approval of the bill posters' union for the bills the union men refused to post. So, starting today, the candidates will advertise the Horner-Courtney slogan with an addition—"Smash Kelly-Nash Boss Rule; Vote Republican"—and with the union label.

$100 Paid for Label.

Otto Krueger, business agent of the union, informed Edward F. Moore, Republican county chairman, that his men would not put up the "Smash Kelly-Nash" literature for fear of offending the administration of Mayor Kelly. But, it was learned, Peter Manello, representing the union, received $100 from Moore for the stamp privilege.

It is customary in political campaigns for officials of the bill posters' union to charge for stamping cards that are to be hung in windows or tacked on walls. Campaign literature not put up by union men or bearing the union stamp is frequently branded "scab" or "nonunion."

Decide to Equip Trucks.

So, it was explained, when the candidates were forbidden by Business Agent Krueger to use the "Smash Bossism" slogan in the city, they had to resort to unusual means. They decided to equip a fleet of trucks with signs advocating: "Smash Kelly-Nash Boss Rule; Vote Republican," and to have the trucks circulate in all wards. They also arranged to have such a sign on a boat that is to go up and down the river.

"The bill posters union refused to handle our advertising in the city but will do so in the county outside Chicago," Chairman Moore explained. "We are making the same plea to the voters that Horner-Courtney Democrats made last spring.

"By spending $100 we get the union's stamp on the signs to be used on the trucks and boat. It's little enough to pay for the privilege of fighting boss rule."

A SIMPLE WORD MAKES HE-MEN OF SCHOOL BOYS

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Pretty soon "sissy" will be a forgotten word in the vocabulary of Dean E. Dreyer's pupils in Commercial High school here. For he is teaching them how to be he-men by mental suggestion. Dreyer tells his pupils to think of themselves as very masculine. And to help them with the change in their voice, he has them repeat the word "the" in a deep bass voice. In this way, he says, the whole voice soon settles down into a manly profundity.

Dreyer is the same teacher who has been helping his classes to overcome girl shyness by having the school boys drape materials on girl models, clad in bathing suits. He finds this helps them to become less awkward and more self-assured.

PRE-PRIMARY JOB HOLDERS TELL OF SOLICITING VOTES

Fired After Counting of Ballots, They Say.

District Attorney Michael L. Igoe and his first assistant, Warren A. Canaday, are expected to confer today on a program of action against state officials alleged to have padded their pay rolls just before the primary election last spring. It was hinted that indictments might be sought.

Canaday asserted Friday that the state highway department added 450 extra men for the primary season, and that 70 of them did no work for the department. Instead, he said, they spent most of their time ringing bells and soliciting votes for the Horner-Courtney-Jarecki candidates on the Democratic ballot.

Federal Money Involved.

Many of the temporary payrollers have received letters from Igoe requesting that they visit his office and tell the exact status of their employment. Igoe is interested because the state highway department, headed by F. Lynden Smith, expended federal aid funds. Smith was Gov. Horner's downstate campaign manager in the primary. The Public Works administration and the Sheppard senate committee have started investigations of the alleged pay roll padding.

Three of the pay rollers told their stories yesterday to a reporter for THE TRIBUNE. The first was Max Fulaski, 1921 North Sawyer avenue, a former Horner precinct captain in the 34th ward.

Decides to Help Jarecki.

"When the regular Democratic organization dropped Judge Jarecki last January," he said, "I felt sorry for him, and decided to help him. Since I had no job I naturally expected something for the work I would do in the campaign.

"A relative took me to see John Rusch [election board clerk], and he gave me some petitions and told me to get signatures for Jarecki. When I asked about a job, he said he had to look after people in his own ward first, but would keep me in mind.

"I got 1,000 Jarecki signatures. At ward headquarters they talked sweet to me and said it was swell. Still no job. Finally, a month later, I was called to the city hall. In a room there were other precinct captains and ward workers. We were told we had jobs with the state highway department.

Gets $72 in Eighteen Days.

"I worked eighteen days and made $72. I raked the parkway and dug holes for trees along North avenue. Most of the others were Jarecki workers, too. At nights I was tired, but I kept soliciting votes for Jarecki, because I wanted to see him get a break.

"But my work didn't do me much good. On April 13, the day after the primary, we all reported for work and were told there were no jobs. Now both sides are together again and I'm sorry I ever started in politics. It wasn't worth the effort."

John Popelka, 2627 South Sawyer avenue, member of a Young Democratic club, said he was told, three weeks before the primary, that a "lot of jobs were coming up in the state highway department."

"I went to ward headquarters," he said, "where they gave me a job. Some precinct captains there said they were too busy working for Jarecki to take the places. I only worked four days, building embankments in Palos Park. The work was too hard and it was too cold."

Tells How He Got Job.

Thomas Sheehan, 845 West 54th street, former employé of the water pipe extension department, said he got his job through Mike Costello, 14th ward Horner leader. They met in the Horner-Jarecki headquarters at 50th and Halsted streets.

"About three weeks before the primary," Sheehan said, "Costello told me all sorts of jobs in the highway department were available. I asked for one. He told me to report the next day. I worked at 111th street and Western avenue fixing streets. It was cold and I was so tired at the end of each day I couldn't do much bell pushing. I got fired, along with a lot of other Horner-Jarecki workers, the day after the primary."

BOARD OPPOSES LIFTING OF GUILD BARS FOR YEHUDI

Yehudi Menuhin.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Proposals that Yehudi Menuhin, young violinist, be permitted to fulfill two engagements this week with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra without joining the American Guild of Musical Artists, were voted down today by the western executive committee of the guild.

L. T. Carr, assistant executive secretary, said the committee had dispatched a telegram to Lawrence Tibbett, guild president, urging "firm action to protect A. B. M. A. and its members against attacks of Menuhin and his representatives."

Tibbett has called a meeting of the board of governors in New York tomorrow to decide whether the membership provision shall be waived in Menuhin's case. Today's executive session was presided over by Chairman Frank Chapman.

PRISON THREAT TO HUSBAND OF HILL GIRL, 10

Kentucky to Call Halt on Child Marriages.

Prestonsburg, Ky., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Fleming Tackett and Mrs. Grace Columbus may be prosecuted here as a warning to Kentucky mountain folk that the state no longer will tolerate child marriages. Tackett, who is 34 years old, married Mrs. Columbus' daughter, Rosie, 10 years old, last Monday.

Mrs. Columbus, who obtained the marriage license without either of the principals being present, swore that her daughter was 15 years old. Therefore, according to the authorities, she is liable to prosecution on a charge of perjury. Authorities also said Tackett is guilty of a crime if he has cohabited with Rosie, whether or not they are married, because Rosie is under the legal age of consent. The minimum marriage age in Kentucky is 14 years.

Prosecutor Is Aroused.

County Attorney Forrest D. Short and County Judge Edward P. Hill will confer tomorrow to determine the nature of the prosecution.

"The seriousness of this situation cannot be exaggerated," said Short. "Mrs. Columbus committed a fraud when she swore that Rosie was 15 years old, and under state law a void marriage has been performed."

Judge Hill declared he is willing to issue a warant for the arrest of Tackett.

"If it can be shown that Tackett cohabited with the girl, I will issue a warant for his arrest," said Hill. "I believe there is a basis for criminal prosecution, and this case should be made an example for all the people living in the mountains of Kentucky."

Health Officer Exposes Fraud.

Tackett and Rosie were married by The Rev. W. G. Ratliff, a coal mine blacksmith. He said the license appeared to be legal and that he performed the ceremony without question.

The fraud was exposed when word of the ceremony reached Paintsville, Ky. The curiosity of Dr. L. B. Sheppard, Johnson county health officer, was aroused because he recalled that the bride had been born near Paintsville. He looked up the record and found she was born Feb. 12, 1928.

Rosie is a shy child, 4 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 70 pounds. She attended school in the first grade from time to time but never passed into the second grade.

"She can go back to school for a spell," her husband said. "I can write and figure a little, but I can't read much."

CITY HAS CHILD BRIDE PROBLEM; SHE IS ONLY 12

Child marriage is not confined to the mountains of Kentucky, the backhills of Tennessee, or the dark recesses of India, it was learned yesterday. Chicago, too, has followers of the custom.

Chicago's child bride is Jennie Renelli Rota, 12 years old. Until Aug. 30, when she gave her age as 18 that she might be married to Frank Rota, 24 years old, she was in the seventh grade at school. Now she is about to become a mother.

The story of Jennie's marriage will be told before Judge Frank H. Bicek in the Juvenile court today when Rota, jobless and a boarder in the home of Jennie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Renelli, 1220 Harrison street, is arraigned on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The child's father, Anthony, opposed the marriage, which was performed by a justice of the peace in Valparaiso, Ind. Her mother, Jennie, however, has retained Attorney Robert E. Romano to plead for the court's sanction of it.

Dies in Chair for Killing Bride and Father-in-Law

Bellefonte, Pa., Oct. 31 [Monday].—(AP)—Mumbling a prayer, Antonio Peronace, 36 years old, a coal miner, died in the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary early today. He was convicted of killing his bride of six months and her father, Vito Mariello of Kulpmont, in an argument over a wedding gift. Peronace had won seven stays of execution since he was sentenced on May 12, 1937.

FINE FEATHERS MAKE FINE BIRDS AND FINE LADIES

Tons of Plumes Sway in Fashion's Breeze.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Feathers have come back. Feathers from turkeys, geese, chickens, parrots, eagles; feathers in singles, in pairs, and in coveys are in style again, and half a million quills pierce the air each day on Chicago's streets.

Ostrich plumes, forgotten since the lush pre-war days, once more curl cozily around necks and shade coquettish eyes. Aigrettes, long illegal, are being simulated with acid and goose feathers. Pheasant feathers, once standard on headgear of matrons, again perch on well dressed heads. In Chicago alone 5,000 pounds of feathers have come to roost on hats turned out by milliners. Every second hat has had them.

Ostrich Plume Heads List.

Of them all the ostrich is queen. Lovelier and fuller after years of neglect, a fine plume this fall often costs a milliner $5. The longest and silkiest are imported from Africa, carefully packed, and gingerly handled in the process of curling to avoid breaking. Domestic plumage, hatmakers say, is skimpy and thin.

Only the ostrich feather is singled out and sold by the plume. The plumage of other birds and fowl is sold by the pound. Except for wing and tail feathers, somberly striped by nature in biege and brown, most of the feathers from birds of many description are pure white when they are unpacked on arrival from Australia and Africa.

They dye easily. Soft white rooster neck feathers become the coveted hackel when they have been worked. The tail of a rooster, stripped and lackered and tinged with irridescent color, becomes coq. His wing changes into brilliant graceful spikes, those soldierly lances that marched untouched through the feather depression.

Feather Workers Busy.

In the feather workrooms, business is better than it has been for years. Orders have begun to come in for feather muffs halos, hair ornaments for wedding parties. Costume turbans are being glued, feather by feather, to match dress swatches.

"We can trim anything with feathers," boasted Miss Mary Kruk, in the feather business at 39 South State street, as she glued a beak to a handmade canary, "and we do. Everything except men's hats. Those little tufts you see in their hat bands are not feathers. They're—I hate to admit it—they're badger fur."

BURNED AT PLAY, GIRL DIES.

Jean Douglas, 6 years old, 409 South Spaulding avenue, died in the County hospital yesterday of burns suffered last July 15 when her dress caught fire while she was playing near a stove in her home.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Hazel Bucholtz, appearing in Superior Judge Leslie Still's court clad only in a bathrobe, explained that her husband took all her other clothes when they separated last Sept. 15. The judge ordered Richard O. Bucholtz, a restaurant owner, to pay his wife $35 a month pending trial of her divorce suit.

TROPHY FOUND, SKIPPER REVIVES HOPES FOR PRIZE

Boston, Mass., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Capt. Angus Walters, fiery skipper of the Canadian schooner "Bluenose" which recently defeated Gloucester's "Gertrude L. Thebaud" for the championship of the North Atlantic fishing fleet, has been partly mollified by the recovery of the missing international fishermen's trophy.

Capt. Walters now hopes that the race committee may be able to produce the $3,000 prize money which is due him. Payment was not made after the final race last Wednesday because, the committee said, the money was not immediately available.

The trophy cup, which was missing at the presentation ceremony, was found Saturday on the doorstep of an orphanage with a bit of verse attached which indicated that well wishers of the Thebaud abstracted the cup as a prank.

QUIZZED IN WINDOW SMASHINGS.

Robert Farrell, 22 years old, 839 South Ashland boulevard, was questioned yesterday by Des Plaines street police about four window smashings in the district Saturday night.

INCREASED TAX WARNING GIVEN BY CIVIC BUREAU

Local and State Budget Threats Revealed.

The coming budget meetings of the various local governments and the session of the Illinois legislature carry a threat of increased taxes unless taxpayers are alert and active. This warning was given yesterday in the annual report of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency.

Two of the major governments—the board of education and the park district—will be compelled to seek aid from the legislature as their pegged levy grants will expire at the end of the year, the report points out.

Obviously, the report continues, these governments again will have to seek legislation increasing their very low statutory tax rate limit in order to continue their present activities.

Express Taxpayers' Concern.

"The taxpayers will want to know," the report states, "whether or not in seeking necessary adjustments these governments will make legislative requests for amounts which will threaten an increase in taxes of one kind or another for the community."

In regard to city expenditures, the report declared that only the firmest handling of the contemplated 1939 corporate expenditures can balance the 1939 budget without jeopardizing Chicago homeowners and taxpayers.

"In view of present conditions and previous history," the report states, "the coming budget and legislative sessions suggest possibilities for plenty of tax trouble.

"This danger can be averted only by the watchfulness and united effort of taxpayers and courageous cooperation of public officials who are willing to place general welfare above other considerations."

The federation report noted considerable improvement on the part of the local governments in their presentation of helpful and understandable budget information.

Park Debt Within Limit.

In another report on park district finances, Robert J. Dunham, president of the park board, said the total bonded indebtedness of the Chicago parks is within the limit prescribed by law for the first time in ten years.

This means, among other things, that the district now may issue new bonds if it so desires. However, no new bond issues are contemplated, Dunham said.

At the time the parks were consolidated in May 1, 1934, the bond debt was $107,746,325. Last Sept. 30 it had been reduced to $95,764,349. Dunham said strict application of bond money to bond retirement has been responsible for the district's return to financial soundness.

REALISTIC RADIO BROADCAST GIVES PUBLIC A SCARE

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Flocks of monsters from Mars who smashed down into the state of New Jersey [in a radio play] and proceeded to wipe out civilization gave the public a pre-Halloween chill tonight.

The monsters were described in a coast-to-coast program of the Columbia broadcasting system and long before the hour's entertainment ended, the Associated Press, newspapers, and police headquarters were swamped with calls from frightened customers.

Was it true? No, it wasn't but lots of folks were frightened, especially those who tuned in late and didn't know it was only a play entitled "The War of the Worlds," by H. G. Wells.

DEMOCRATS REST AS G. O. P. WHIRLS ON LAST STRETCH

Lyons Hurls Communism Protection Charge.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Republican candidates made a series of sharp thrusts yesterday at communism under the New Deal, while Democratic ticket leaders rested.

Scott W. Lucas, Democratic nominee for senator, made no public appearances. But his backers said he was preparing for a whirlwind finish the last eight days of the campaign. Plans were being discussed for him to speak in several downstate cities next Saturday. He will campaign here until then. Today Lucas will address the City club in the Hotel Sherman at noon. In the evening he will talk over the radio and at four ward meetings.

At Lucas' headquarters it was said that he was scheduled some time ago to make a radio speech tomorrow night on Americanism. A former national judge advocate in the American Legion, he will express his views on the bill of rights and foreign philosophies of government at this time, it was said.

Lyons Keeps Up Fast Pace.

Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for senator, led many of his colleagues on the state ticket in maintaining the strenuous pace of the entire G. O. P. campaign.

At six meetings and on the air Lyons assailed communistic activities in this country in blunt language.

"We did not ask communists to the United States," said Lyons, "and if they don't like our form of government, I say—let them get out. I regard the communist opposition to me as a personal compliment."

Lyons received tremendous applause from 1,500 persons who crowded a hall and stood outside listening to his speech from the G. O. P. white trailer amplifier at 5124 Fullerton avenue. The audience, predominantly Polish-American, came from an area considered Democratic.

Charges New Deal Protection.

"Communism is not the feeble party of other days," said Lyons. "It has flourished and grown dangerous by and with the consent and protection of the New Deal.

"To those who may say that the talk about communism is just a political cry, let me call your attention to the meeting for Comrade Earl Browder in the Chicago Stadium next Friday night.

"This is the largest convention hall in the middle west, yet there are enough communists in Chicago not only to fill that space, but to pay 25 cents per person for admission."

Lyons displayed pamphlets and handbills advertising the communist meeting and saying that the Republican candidate must be defeated "at all costs."

Under the New Deal the ideals of communism have come close to realization, Lyons said.

Lyons pledged himself, if he is elected, to have the deportation laws strengthened and enforced so that every alien who seeks to overthrow the American form of government will be sent back to the country from which he came.

"The surest way to stop foreign propaganda is to make our people the happy, contented, and hard working Americans they once were," said the Republican nominee. "They must have jobs. They must have security."

Constructive Program Urged.

He emphasized that the Republican program is constructive—to end competition from cheap foreign factory and farm products, to crush communism and boss rule, to take government out of competition with industry, and to free both business and individuals from New Deal taxation.

Lyons wound up his day at meetings in Lemont, Lockport, and Joliet.

William R. McCauley, Republican candidate for state treasurer, told audiences that the present state taxes are ample to pay old age pensions of $30 a month in place of the present $17 average.

Co-op Halts Milk Delivery to Five Springfield Dairies

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Frank Roberts, secretary-treasurer, said tonight the 487 members of the Sangamon Farmers' Milk Coöperative association had shut off their milk supply to five Springfield dairies which had not met their terms on price and marketing agreements. The blacklisted dairies delivered milk today and their officials declared there was no danger of a shortage.

Budget Plateaus

Plateaus representing the budget levels for three stages, showing how the figure has reached 8 billion dollars a year in President Roosevelt's plan for the 1940 fiscal year.

BRANDS PLANNED ECONOMY THE FAILURE OF AGES

Planned economy, a dismal failure through the ages, cannot restore business to normal, James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, so declared yesterday before a conference of the Illinois Business and Professional Women's clubs in the Palmer house.

"Real reforms cannot be accomplished hastily, by ill conceived legislative enactments or burocratic pronouncements," he said. "Each new regulation should be the result of careful inquiry and should be instituted gradually."

The artificial measures employed by the Roosevelt administration, he said, are not new, nor are the ideas behind them. Both the ancient Chinese and the Romans had a fling at "synthetic prosperity," he said, and their systems of planned economy collapsed.

3 Bandits Seize and Rob U. of Chicago Student

Mark Hutchinson, a graduate student at the University of Chicago, was robbed of $30 last night by three bandits. They forced him into their automobile at 57th street and University avenue and drove him to 56th street and Greenwood avenue, where they robbed him and put him out of their car. Hutchinson lives in the fraternity house at 5615 University avenue.

in the reserve account for cash, and the pay roll taxes on employers and employés are made available for current general spending.

Apart from their suspicions of Mr. Roosevelt's spending intentions and political ambitions, the isolationists in congress will oppose the new national defense program because they do not trust his chameleonic foreign policy. For the same reason, the President's program authorizing a billion dollar expansion of the navy was vigorously opposed in the senate last spring. The isolationists said he wanted a big navy for the purpose of coöperating with Great Britain in a world policing adventure.

The isolationists took the position in the last session that the western hemisphere was in no danger of invasion by the European dictatorship powers.

Increase Is Predicted.

While the 1940 estimates are regarded by official budget makers as possibilities, it is extremely unlikely that the relief and recovery expenditures can be held down to 1 billion, 300 million dollars. Even if the January budget contains only 7 billion, 860 million dollars for expenditure, the total will be greatly increased before congress adjourns if previous experience under the Roosevelt administration is an indication.

The 1940 budget is being predicated on the expectation of prosperity, which would permit a reduction of expenditures. The 1939 budget, submitted last January, also was predicated on fairly prosperous conditions. It allowed only 6 billion, 869 million dollars for expenditures. Then came the realization of the Roosevelt depression and the President proposed his 4 billion dollar spending program, conceding a deficit of the same amount.

FALLS 3 STORIES; KILLED.

Francis Saler, 51 years old, 2457 Lincoln avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when he fell from the roof of the three story building at 922 Fullerton avenue, on which he was working.

BOTH SIDES VIEW 1938 CAMPAIGN AS POLITICAL FREAK

Expect Decisive 11th Hour Developments.

Chairman P. A. Nash indorsed a different set of state candidates and selected a county ticket which omitted County Judge Jarecki. Gov. Horner and his Cook county allies immediately took up Jarecki's cause.

The primary showed the governor's Lucas-Jarecki ticket the winner. Immediately there was an effort toward reconciliation of the two Democratic organizations, but it failed quickly. Further efforts were postponed until fall and even beyond the customary date for starting campaign activities.

A coördinating committee of four members from each side was appointed, but soon proved to be nothing but an advisory body. Separate headquarters and ward organizations were maintained by the Horner forces. Actual merger of the rival organizations was not attempted. At this point, Chairman Nash stepped aside, turning control of the Cook county campaign to Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], who was elected vice chairman of the county committee so he might take charge. Arvey was acceptable to Gov. Horner.

Luncheon Disappoints Some.

Acting Chairman Arvey's first step was to try to demonstrate publicly that the Democrats were united again. This was initiated with a luncheon in the La Salle hotel two weeks ago today. Some of Arvey's associates admitted it was a disappointment because Mayor Kelly, who had been announced as a principal speaker, was out of the city, and because State's Attorney Courtney, Horner's principal local ally, reviewed the history of the primary in what was considered an unfriendly way.

Courtney had been quoted around headquarters as saying privately that he never would associate himself again with Chairman Nash or Mayor Kelly. Corroboration of this story was seen when Arvey undertook the second step in his program. He made use of the old George E. Brennan system of summoning all Democratic pay rollers to meetings, where they turned in individual cards as a record of their presence.

Courtney Stays Away.

Instead of using the Brennan system of lecturing the jobholders behind doors that barred newspaper men and other outsiders, Arvey made these rallies, four in number, public meetings at which Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly spoke. Courtney did not appear at any of the four.

Even while the meetings were in progress, the prosecutor began an attack on Acting Chairman Arvey by bringing to trial before County Judge Jarecki a number of precinct election officials from Arvey's ward whom he [Courtney], had charged with fraud in the April primary.

Democratic ward committeemen now are hostile to the Horner and Courtney candidates because they see their own political future at stake. They expect opposition when they run for reëlection. They believe that Judge Jarecki will be unfriendly next spring if he is reëlected.

G. O. P. STRAWS SHOW FURTHER CHICAGO GAINS

Moore Sees a Chance to Elect County Ticket.

Cook county Republican headquarters was joyful yesterday as an accountant tabulated and analyzed the results of straw votes taken at nine street intersections during the preceding three days. The figures showed the Republican ticket growing in strength.

"We are pleased with the figures themselves," said Chairman Edward F. Moore, "but a greater pleasure comes when we compare these present returns with the record of the way these various wards went in 1936.

Greater Shift Indicated.

"The comparison proves that while the change in sentiment a week ago was marked by a 20 per cent shift in the vote from the 1936 Democratic column to the 1938 Republican column, the latest returns show the shift now is about 22 per cent.

"If that is true of all Chicago, Richard J. Lyons and the Republican county ticket certainly will be elected."

The polls made public by Chairman Moore were as follows:

Ward	Lucas	Lyons	Jarecki	Ehler

The totals given for other contests by the same tabulation were: For sherif, Thomas J. O'Brien [D.], 620; Patrick Sheridan Smith [R.], 848. For county treasurer, John Toman [D.], 628; George A. Curran [R.], 833. For assessor, John S. Clark [D.], 641; Raymond J. Peacock [R.], 820.

The Democratic organization continued to refuse to make its straw votes public.

FAKE ARSON CASE VICTIMS DEMAND ACTION BY MAYOR

Mayor Kelly was asked yesterday to order a thorough police investigation into the cases of Emil Guerrieri and Frank Kolesiak, who were falsely seized and held by amateur sleuths and forced to confess to starting a hotel fire that caused eight deaths. They later were exonerated of any connection with the blaze.

The request was made by letter by Joseph T. Harrington, attorney for the victims. He pointed out that their applications for warants against State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas and others allegedly involved in the case, have been delayed until after election by Judge John J. Rooney, of the Municipal court.

Harrington also asserted that a city policeman, Sal Corsi, of the Maxwell street station, was involved, but that the police department has not yet officially looked into the affair. Harrington suggested that since most of the offenses against Kolesiak and Guerrieri took place in the Chicago avenue district, that district should investigate.

Meanwhile, a civil suit for damages has been started in the case, the Chicago bar association has been asked to look into it, and Gov. Horner is personally investigating Coultas' conduct.

SEES A RED FLAG ON SCHOOL POLE AND CUTS IT DOWN

Fremont Petty, Lane Technical High school sophomore, took a walk yesterday afternoon. Passing the Yates elementary school at 2917 Cortland street, he noticed a red flag bearing the communist insignia of hammer and sickle atop the flagpole in the school yard. Immediately young Petty climbed up the 75 foot pole and with a pocketknife cut down the flag. The Shakespeare avenue police heard about it and awarded him an "A" in good citizenship. He lives at 2922 Armitage avenue.

DARES JARECKI TO DEFEND FEE RECORD IN COURT

Northup Replies to Judge's Cry of 'Politics.'

Attorney John E. Northup replied yesterday to the charge of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki that a petition filed in the Circuit court by Northup on Saturday was a political move. Northup said the action is a challenge to Judge Jarecki to vindicate himself in court of charges of unlawfully diverting the funds of his office.

John E. Northup.

The petition was filed with Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude. It was in the name of Mrs. Clarence Ford Smith, 4217 Sheridan road, executive committee member of the Women's Civic council. It followed a complaint by the women's organization to the Chicago Bar association concerning Jarecki's appointment of inheritance tax appraisers and the charge that $6,000,000 was paid wrongfully to the appraisers for little or no work.

Asks Leave to File Suit.

Judge Trude referred the petition to Chief Justice William V. Brothers. The document, as explained by Attorney Northup, asked leave of court to file a suit against Jarecki and numerous persons listed as appraisers. It also asked that an injunction be issued restraining County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer from making any further payments to inheritance tax appraisers.

Under the rules of court, Judge Jarecki and the persons named with him may appear before Judge Brothers to oppose the granting of leave to file. Judge Brothers set next Thursday as the date for a hearing.

Ready for Court Meeting.

Attorney Northup, formerly a federal and state prosecutor, who, as first assistant state's attorney, conducted the sanitary district scandal investigation and prosecution, said he is ready to meet Judge Jarecki in court next Thursday. The attorney said:

"Simultaneously with my presenting the petition to Judge Trude Saturday morning, before he examined the allegations, Judge Jarecki's personal secretary, Sidney Holzman, delivered a prepared statement to the press to the effect that it was a political move. As far as I am concerned, it is purely a lawsuit in the interest of my client and the people of this state and county, and I propose to treat it as such.

"Judge Jarecki has five days in which to study the complaint, and he can very readily appear before Judge Brothers on Thursday morning and refute the charges, under oath.

Hearing to Determine.

"No public official, especially a judge, can safely shield himself behind the outworn cry of 'politics' used by every one under fire. The hearing will determine his guilt or innocence. If we haven't the facts as charged our complaint will fail, but if we have the proof, as I know we have, leave will be granted to file the charges.

"We are prepared to show conclusively that Judge Jarecki has wantonly and corruptly certified to and directed the payment of many millions of dollars to favorite so-called 'appraisers,' 'experts,' and a mysterious abstracting company, for little or no service to the public."

Light enough for beauty —strong enough for wear

This is what HAMMER BRAND hand processing of skins means to you— the purchaser of Persian

Select your skins or choose from a
Large group of Smart Models
$345 to $695

Let's clarify some points about Persian. Today's dressmaker type coat requires Persian supple enough to drape gracefully. Yet it must not be shaved so thin as to weaken the natural pelt strength and impair the wear of the coat. It must be "right weight."

First of all, the pelts must be selected by experts —for no amount of processing will put quality into a pelt which was not there originally. Shayne's selected prime pelts assure you this inherent quality.

Now for the processing. Herman Basch & Co., Inc., is the oldest and largest processor of Persian. Only pure logwood dyes are used, and each skin is individually processed by hand. That is why Hammer Brand Persian is noted for its durability, its lasting lustre, pliability, and tightness of curl. That is why Hammer Brand "right weight" Persian means top quality the world over.

Now combine these two hallmarks of quality—Shayne prime pelts, Hammer Brand processed. You could have nothing finer. That is exactly what we offer you in this brand new showing of Persian coats and pelts. When you see them you will agree they are the loveliest Persians you have ever seen.

Individualized Credit Plan

HERMAN BASCH & CO. INC. HAMMER BRAND

We guarantee to refund your money if you can find smarter furs of equal quality at prices lower than Shayne's.

Whether you select skins for a made-to-order coat or choose a model already made up, you will know the supreme satisfaction of owning a Persian coat of which you will always be proud.

PUMP PRIMING MENACES WORLD, BRITON WARNS

Halt It or Face Disaster, Says Sir George Paish.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Sir George Paish, veteran economic advisor to the British government, warned last night that pump priming economic policies of governments are leading to a disaster which he said will be so great that he was unable to exaggerate it.

Speaking before the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall, he asserted that although President Roosevelt and heads of other nations are pouring billions into the pump "to keep the economic machine going," it is only a sign of distress. How long it can go on, he said, "nobody knows—but it cannot go on long."

Whole World Priming Pumps.

"It is going on here," Sir George declared, "because the American people are in distress. Mr. Roosevelt proposes to spend 5 billion dollars during the coming year in pump priming. What he's doing we're all doing. He has done it for five years; has spent 40 billion dollars in pump priming.

"We on the other side have had to do the same thing—in England, in France, in Germany. There is great distress in those countries and they have had to do something. Germany has primed the pump by grabbing Austria and Czechoslovakia. We wonder which country Hitler is going to raid next. Will it be Holland or Switzerland?"

By indirection, the British economist pointed to Nazi policy, together with pump priming of less violent sorts, as leading to the early breakdown of the world economic machine. Such a breakdown would mean starvation for England and world calamity.

Urges Better Understanding.

The remedy, he said, lies in application of the central Christian principle that he who seeks to save his own life shall lose it, while he who loses his life for righteousness' sake shall find it.

He explained that the basic Christian principle requires that persons and nations should know the difficulties of others as well as their own. He declared that such understanding, rather than pump priming, would bring the world out of chaos.

NAME IS MISUSED IN PENN BATTLE, ROOSEVELT SAYS

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's objection to what he called deliberate misuse of his name in the Pennsylvania political campaign was told tonight by Michael F. Doyle, Democratic leader and the President's appointee to the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague.

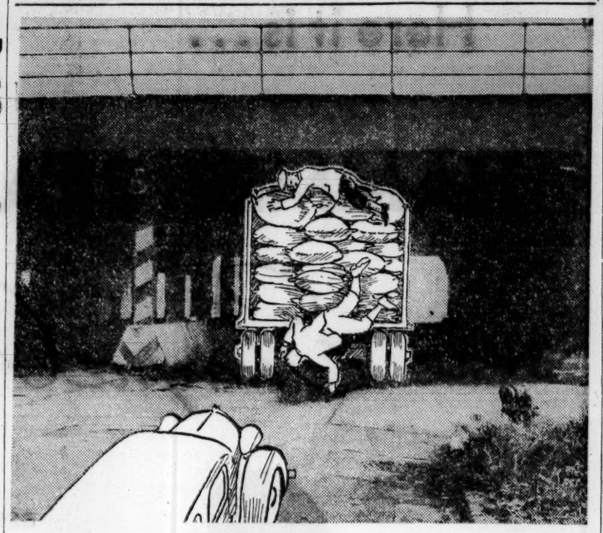
The President said he was objecting to speeches made by Judge Arthur H. James, Republican candidate for governor, who was telling his audiences the President deliberately refrained from meddling in local issues in Pennsylvania because he was unwilling to put his hands in that muddy water. James and other Republicans have been telling the voters about charges of blackmail and coercion against Gov. George H. Earle, Democratic candidate for the United States senate, and thirteen other Democratic leaders.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote to Doyle that he had found Earle willing to help carry out a liberal program for social and economic justice.

HELD ON FRAUD CHARGE.

Sycamore, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Allen Shaw, 32 years old, of Rockford, is held in the county jail following his arrest at Rockford on a warant charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses from the Nelson Implement company of Genoa.

Thief Knocked from Truck and Killed



Photodiagram of viaduct near Paulina and Kinzie streets, showing how a young thief was knocked from truck by viaduct. He and his companion had been throwing bags from the truck. An accomplice following in an auto picked the bags up. When the youth was knocked off the truck he was struck and fatally injured by his accomplice's car.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

John Sorrentino (left), who was also on the truck, saw the viaduct and threw himself flat on the truck. Wallace Ciborowski (right) was the driver of the car which killed his friend.

Robert Soreng, 18 years old, of 1531 Race street, died yesterday in the County hospital of injuries incurred Saturday when he was knocked from a truck and run over by a car near Paulina and Kinzie streets. Two of his companions, John Sorrentino, 17 years old, of 526 North Hermitage avenue, and Wallace Ciborowski, 17 years old, of 1722 Ohio street, were seized by police and confessed that the three had been stealing burlap bags from a truck as it proceeded south on Paulina street.

Soreng, they said, was aboard the truck tossing off the bags, which were being caught by Sorrentino and stoked into Ciborowski's car which was following. As the truck passed under the railroad viaduct near the intersection, Soreng's head struck it. He was hurled to the street and was run over by Ciborowski's car.

SHAW TO REPORT TRANSIT MERGER PROGRESS TODAY

Walter A. Shaw will report to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today on his progress in working out a compromise plan for the merger of the surface lines and elevated railways companies. Shaw is traction adviser to Judge Wilkerson.

Shaw, on the instructions of the court, offered a merger plan for the traction lines on Sept. 26. Representatives of both systems objected to the distribution of securities he proposed. At the request of the companies, Judge Wilkerson told Shaw to try to work out a compromise.

Shaw's plan provided for forming a new company to take over both systems.

FIVE GO TO TRIAL TODAY ON SPEED TRAP CHARGES

Mayor Charles Special [top] and Charles A. Braun.

Five officials and policemen of the village of Dixmoor, better known as Specialville, who were indicted last summer on charges of conspiracy growing out of alleged speed trap activities will go on trial today before Judge William J. Lindsay in the Criminal court.

The defendants are Mayor Charles Special, Charles A. Braun, justice of the peace, and Policemen Robert Greco, Tony Bater, and Charles Paduano. Braun also is named in a malfeasance indictment, but this will not be tried until after the conspiracy trial.

Assistant State's Attorneys Richard Austin and Alexander Napoli, who will prosecute, said they expect to have many motorists testify to alleged speed trap activities and shakedowns by officials of the village, which is one of the southern suburbs along Western avenue. Attorney Charles A. Bellows will defend.

PHONE GIRLS SAY HELLO TO NATURE AT TRIBUNE FARM

Ninety-six telephone operators from the Illinois Bell Telephone company took a seven mile hike yesterday around the 900 acre Tribune farm at Wheaton. Escorted by Carl Henderson, manager of the farm, the girls inspected crops, fields, buildings, and wild bird ponds. They had a picnic lunch in the nearby forest preserve and returned to Chicago by train.

Swift Employes Pledge $50,303 to Community Fund

Employés and executives of Swift & Co. have pledged a total of $50,303 in the current Community Fund campaign, Ralph A. Bard, campaign chairman, announced yesterday. This amount, added to the corporate subscription of $42,500, brought the company's total gift to $92,803. It is the first large employé unit to reach its quota, Mr. Bard said.

LEARNS HIS AUTO KILLED A MAN, SO HE GIVES SELF UP

Returns to Scene of Crash to Surrender.

After discovering through his own investigation that he had run down and killed a pedestrian, Joseph Crawford of 4737 North Kostner avenue surrendered to the Morton Grove highway police early yesterday. He was charged with involuntary manslaughter and released on $5,000 bond.

Crawford, who is superintendent of a manufacturing company at 2620 Fletcher street, told police he had felt a jolt while crossing the intersection of Higgins and Cumberland roads in Norwood Park township. Shortly afterward he found that a headlight had been knocked out of line and that there was a dent in a fender.

Remembering the jolt Crawford returned to the scene. Joseph Jacoby, 55 years old, of 2604 74th court, Elmwood Park, had been knocked down and killed. Crawford asked a bystander to notify police. He was taken into custody shortly afterward.

Crowd Menaces Motorist.

A crowd of some fifty angry men uttered threats early today against Steve Kmiec, 21 years old, 2247 North Oakley avenue, a clerk, after his automobile had seriously injured a pedestrian at Diversey and Kedzie avenues. Police arrived in time to prevent possible trouble.

Kmiec, riding with two companions, struck Harry Glowacki, 40, of 2719 North Kimball avenue, and carried him on the front right fender of his car for 250 feet before stopping. He swerved his car before he came to a stop, and police said witnesses believed he was trying to dislodge his victim and get away. This led to the threats. Glowacki suffered skull and leg fractures, and is in the Belmont hospital. Kmiec insisted the accident was unavoidable, and denied he tried to escape.

The Des Plaines street police yesterday were hunting a hit and run driver whose car killed an unidentified elderly crippled man at Madison and Clinton streets early in the day. The victim carried a card bearing the name J. O'Donnell.

Dies of Accident Injuries.

Charles Nolan, 60 years old, 2319 Warren boulevard, died in the County hospital last night of injuries incurred Oct. 25 when he was struck by an automobile in front of 1261 Washington boulevard. Police charged the driver, Harry Neuhaus, 1644 North Kildare avenue, with reckless driving.

Philip Duff, 43 years old, of 425 Winneconna parkway, a sewer contractor, was injured fatally when he stepped from one car in front of 7523 South Halsted street into the path of another driven by Glen R. Nichols of 1874 Orchard street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 698 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 540 were killed in Chicago, where 16,534 were injured during the same period.

Block Pat Crowe Funeral; Find His Skull Fractured

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The funeral of Pat Crowe, 69 years old, reformed old-time outlaw who died yesterday in the Harlem hospital, presumably of heart trouble, was delayed tonight by discovery that he had sustained a fractured skull. He had been living in a furnished room on an old age pension and was taken to the hospital last week. Distant relatives telegraphed funeral arrangements to a priest and an undertaker here.

FALL FURNITURE SHOWS OPEN IN TWO CITY MARTS

Furniture buyers from many sections of the United States converged on Chicago yesterday for the fall home furnishings market opening in the Merchandise Mart and the American Furniture Mart.

Modern designs have become entrenched as a style trend in American homes, officials said. To meet this trend many light finished woods, in colors known as toast and harvest, are being shown, and lines are simple and graceful. Many Swedish and Scandinavian designs are to be found.

Among the new boons to the housewife is a chair seat with self-fluffing cushions. Coil springs, surrounded by down, cause the cushion to rebound into its original shape no matter how heavy the occupant may have been.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

SCHOOLS TEACH CITY CHILDREN TO SAVE OWN LIVES

Success Is Shown by Massacre Statistics.

BY HAL FOUST.

A generation that will be better able to protect itself against the hazards of automobile trafic is growing up in Chicago. Safety training has become as important as any of the three Rs in the city's schools. Beneficial results already are evident in coroner's statistics otherwise grim.

Some of this safety work is familiar to the public—the patrol boys with their white Sam Brown belts escorting youngsters across streets. But to many oldsters, a visit to the schools is a revelation.

In the schools how to stay alive in this motor era receives almost as much attention as how to make a living. The subject is drilled through all the grades.

Learning to Be Careful.

In kindergarden, little fellows are learning to be careful before they learn their ABCs. In the lower grades, menacing street situations are dramatized. In upper grades, boys and girls are accepting accident prevention as a civic responsibility.

In high schools, trafic laws and regulations are taught. In Lane Technical High school automobile driving is a required subject for boys 15 years of age or older. Fifteen is the minimum legal driving age in Illinois.

Experiments in school safety work were started in 1920. In that year Chicago's motor massacre claimed 192 lives under 15 years old and 273 lives over 15 years old. By 1937 the annual toll of the older age group had increased to 730, while the year's toll of the younger age group had been cut to ninety-six.

School Training Given Credit.

If the accident rate for children had increased during the last fifteen years at the same rate as the increase for adults, there would have been 3,404 more boys and girls killed by motor cars in Chicago during that period. The school training is credited by the Chicago Motor club with being mainly responsible for this saving.

In a camera inspection tour of the schools, we started at 8:30 in the morning by watching a patrol boy assist a uniformed policeman at the busy intersection of Foster and Ashland avenues in front of the Trumbull school. The big, good natured policeman stood in the middle of the pavement, his presence inspiring caution from motorists.

An alert, active youngster was on duty at the curb, holding back children until the way across was clear. Boys and girls respected his orders and obeyed. He was Evert Lindstrom, 12 years old, 1959 Foster avenue, a fine example of the 15,000 boys saving lives of their schoolmates at Chicago street crossings.

Safety Posters in Classes.

Inside the school Miss Margaret McConnell, a teacher, took us to her 1B classroom of 6 year olds. On the walls with nursery pictures were safety posters. The children recited safety jingles, obviously not as poetic as Mother Goose rimes, but just as obviously more practical.

Study Intersection Problems.

At the Mark Twain school, 5131 South Linder avenue, we found a couple of lower grades in the gymnasium watching classmates in toy automobiles simulate typical intersection problems facing child pedestrians. Boys characterized policemen and crossing guards.

At Bryn Mawr school, at 73d street and Jeffery avenue, the student government staged a mock trafic trial for the benefit of the vistors. Once a week, however, the student court holds a real trial of fellow pupils "arrested" during the week for violating safety rules.

Practice Driving Track.

Then we went to Lane Tech. On the spacious grounds, at Addison street and Western avenue, is an inclosed driving practice track. On the tenth of a mile of roadway half a dozen boys in as many automobiles were stopping on grades, backing into alleys, parking at the curb, stopping at a stop sign, and making right and left turns.

Those in the automobiles were graduates from classroom instruction. We visited this classroom. Pupils were in the control seats of twenty-seven dummy cars, each equipped with a steering wheel, gear shift lever, brake, clutch, and accelerator, but without engines, car bodies or wheels.

A moving picture screen is in front of the class. On it are projected street and highway scenes as viewed through a windshield while traveling. It creates an illusion of traveling. The pupils handle their own controls as if driving through these scenes. An ingenious electric device records by means of lights any mistakes made by any pupil.

SALLY AND HER FANS DUE IN COURT TODAY ON BATTERY CHARGES

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Sally Rand, her fans, and her bubbles are scheduled to go to court tomorrow for Sally's trial on battery charges. Miss Rand, making a stage appearance July 12 in a downtown theater, objected to pictures being taken with a candid camera by Hazel Drain and C. R. Stanford. They contend that she followed them to the theater lobby and scratched and bit them in a scuffle over possession of the films—which Miss Rand finally succeeded in destroying. The dancer is at liberty under $1,000 bond.

SANE HALLOWEEN IS THE HOPE, BUT COPS ARE READY

Chicago's police are still hopeful that the Halloween celebration tonight will be a mild one. The board of education has the same wish. It has ordered that all the school playgrounds be kept open for parties. Principals will coöperate with the police to curb disorder and are expected to discipline youngsters caught in harmful mischief. Harmless pranksters will be given, in nearly all sections, permission to soap windows.

SABOTAGE OF PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.

Until America changes its laws this will be a land of private enterprise. As such it will place its reliance upon the use of private property to produce the goods it needs for welfare and prosperity. Until the form of government, the economic order, and the purpose of laws have been changed the country will depend upon private capital derived from the savings of the people to create and operate productive enterprise.

The New Deal has failed because it has ignored these facts. It has pretended to accept them, but the pretense has been only a cover for persistent and destructive attack upon the saving of money and its use in the making of goods. It has substituted the internal revenue department for the savings bank, federal spending for private investment, and governmental activity for private enterprise.

Dr. Harold G. Moulton of the Brookings institute, talking to delegates to the Mortgage Bankers' association convention, said that control of economic life has gone from private to public hands. Private investment is restricted by baffling regulations. Business has been so hedged in that normal earnings cannot be made. Banks cannot find outlets for their large accumulations of funds. It is necessary for them to find ways of discouraging savings.

"This not only prevents us from raising standards of living through the growth of productive capital," said Dr. Moulton, "but it renders our savings impotent and strikes at the very foundation of the entire capitalistic system. For these reasons the restoration of the free flow of money through the capital markets into the expansion of productive plant and equipment is the central problem in economic reconstruction."

The present government has kept the system of private enterprise merely as window dressing to deceive the eye. Back of it is a totally different system, one of state socialism deliberately breaking down the old economic order, strangling and smothering it. Where the practice is so persistent the purpose must be assumed. The breakdown is intended.

THE KENTS TO COVENTRY.

The Kents have been ordered to Canberra, which is another name for Coventry. The duke is to be governor general of Australia. The less amiable London gossips say that the duchess, the Greek Princess Marina, is too glamorous and that Queen Elizabeth can easily do without her. A British queen is not required to be glamorous. She is to be domestic. The king and queen are to be the highest exemplars of middle class virtues. When they are not exhibiting pomp without power they are to represent faith, love, and charity. The government keeps the crown jewels and its good will and humanitarianism in their name.

The Kents love a gay life. It is out of fashion for British royalty. There was too much of it in the great constitutional crisis. That is why the king is over the water. The empire creaks a little now and then. It slides and tremors. The dominions, when they forget that they might need the British fleet, regard themselves as independent states with leave to say yes or no. They are permitted to do so.

If a son of the royal family as lieutenant governor would please the Australians—a matter of doubt—the job is about the only one the young man can do. He is handsomely supported. And night life may come to bloom under the equator.

LIQUOR TAXATION.

A sensible article on liquor taxation appears in State Government, the organ of the Council of State Governments. The author is Elizabeth Laine, former member of the Rockefeller liquor study committee. Miss Laine emphasizes the folly of our post-repeal taxation of liquor in reminding us that prohibition was repealed "largely in the hope that it would extirpate the social cancer of bootlegging." Yet by piling a heavy burden of taxation on legal liquor we have been preserving the bootlegger much as he was fostered by the statutory ban on legal distilling. The policy of taxing liquor out of existence no doubt is one of noble motive, like the policy of prohibition, but it is fallacious in practice, like prohibition. It does not produce temperance, but does produce law breaking. Both made moonshine profitable and bootlegging a major industry. Neither prohibition by law or by prohibitive taxation works for the results they are aimed at. In the year ending June 30, 1936, the seizure of illicit stills by the treasury department numbered 15,629. In 1937 the total had risen to 16,142.

The law abiding distiller, Miss Laine reports, does well if he makes $1 per case of three gallons while the lawless distiller starts with an advantage of more than a dollar a quart, since he does not pay the taxes and license fees which his law abiding competitor must include in the prices he charges.

As under prohibition, the consumer of small means gets the worst of the situation. High grade whisky pays the same tax as low grade. It comes to about 30 per cent of the cost of the liquor; on low grade the tax comes to about 67 per cent of the cost of the liquor. The bootlegger, therefore, says Miss Laine, finds his most profitable customer among the purchasers of cheaper liquor.

Says Miss Laine, "In the mad scramble of federal, state, and municipal authorities to lay on all the taxes that the trafic would bear they completely lost sight of the unhappy fact that the mounting tax burden on alcohol was simply playing into the hands of the gentry whom repeal was designed to put out of business."

The prohibition blunder was stopped because it had proved one of the worst menaces the American people had ever faced, but some of its lessons in foolish law making remain unlearned.

POWER SUPPLY ECONOMICS.

The idea which the present federal administration has sought to convey in its power issue is that there is a lot of the cheapest possible electric energy in that water you see flowing down rivers and brooks. From this point of view water power is a neglected national resource which ought to be appropriated for the benefit of all the people. This has been the justification for the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars of public funds already, and it is the explanation offered for the plan to spend many more hundreds of millions.

If, indeed, a novel method has been discovered to obtain electricity at a lower cost than it has ever before been obtainable, Mr. Roosevelt really has something. But the fact is that private companies have been developing hydro-electric power in the United States for half a century. Water power for a time was being extended on a considerable scale. It would have gone much further except for the fact that engineers found it possible to produce power more cheaply in another way at most installations. Twenty-five years ago 47 per cent of the installed capacity of electric generating plants was hydro. That had dropped to 25 per cent by 1929 and currently is 28 per cent. Where a high head of water and a steady flow was found adjacent to a large population the use of water power was indicated. But where the water sources are modest and are remote from the centers of demand production by steam was generally found to be cheaper. People who understood it were making these calculations and seeking the best means for supplying all the electricity for which there is any demand long before the politicians knew what it was all about.

Thus the economics of power costs can be simply stated. A steam plant can be located anywhere, but a water plant location was determined by what had happened in past ages. Once a hydro-electric plant is constructed with its dam and reservoir, it costs very little to operate it. A steam plant has to be fed coal [oil, wood or natural gas is a substitute in some places]. But the initial cost of a hydro-electric plant is many times that of a steam plant. The fact that steam turbines far outdistance water turbines in the United States has been because water plants cost so much more than steam plants to construct that the saving on operation costs on the one is more than made up by the extra cost of interest and taxes on the other.

Every time additional power has been developed the relative costs of getting the power by water and steam are compared. The fact that many of the water power sites which the government has been developing were not previously used by private companies was because they had found them uneconomical.

The principles of water power and steam power development and distribution have been known for generations. Invention, engineering, and enterprise made this an era of power. Men with natural aptitudes and experience were quick to recognize all of the desirable power sites and made use of them years ago. Politicians only recently came to see the racket possibilities in such power development as TVA. Now the imported European urge toward socialism is being taken up by grafting politicians to employ uneconomical water power sites and duplicate existing facilities so that they can graft on it. That is all there is to the power issue.

CCC IN THE ARMY.

Congress has set June 30, 1940, for the demise of the Civilian Conservation corps. That is just before election and for that and other reasons it seems probable that the corps will be granted an extension of life. The President in April of 1937 asked congress to put the corps on a permanent basis, but the house of representatives was strongly opposed and a compromise was reached providing for the continuance of the corps for three years.

The CCC has been more acceptable to Americans distrustful of the politics of the New Deal than any other of its devices. It has been well run and has much to its credit. But congress was wisely unwilling to fasten it on the American taxpayers as a permanent charge. The average annual expenditure on a CCC enrollee is about $1,000. This sum would give the young man a college education. The number taken care of in 1937 was about 300,000 in 1,500 camps. The budget of 1938-'39 calls for an expenditure of $230,000,000, which would provide for 250,000 in 1,200 camps.

The advocates of a permanent corps hold that there will be a permanent need for an organization for youth between 17 and 23 who cannot find employment, but if this proves to be true the CCC is a faulty method. The corps should be taken into the army, where the youth will have training and discipline and even occupational instruction, and will have them under conditions which make for his self-respect and responsibility. The CCC work is useful and wholesome enough, but much of it is obviously an excuse for giving the boys something to do. In the military service every youth would be engaged in preparing himself for the highest duty of the citizens, the defense of his country.

The addition of a body like the CCC to the organized defenses of the United States would be of great value to the youth concerned and to the nation.

ON NURTURING IMBECILES.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

In analyzing the work of the Johns Hopkins free clinic Henry Mencken shows that a large percentage of its services in delivering babies is rendered to feeble-minded and syphilitic women. With characteristic violence of utterance Mr. Mencken says: "Imagine permitting such ghastly caricatures of numanity to reproduce their kind ad libitum, and not only permitting it but even facilitating it." The record shows that the children of these women become the pathological specimens of the next generation. "Twenty years hence their daughters will be back ready with more syphilitic babies."

Mr. Mencken's statement recalls a line in a decision by Justice Holmes upholding a sterilization law: "Three generations of imbeciles are enough."

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT.

Halloween! Strange survival in the child mind of nocturnal rites and superstitious invocations that antedate Christianity by centuries and run back into the mysteries of Druidism! The spirits of ancient and almost vanished races, pre-Roman Celts and Picts and Gaels, seem to rise from the darkness of the underworld on this mischievous night, causing children to revert to impish barbarism and adults to view the transformation with smiles of rueful tolerance.

As folklore, it's a fascinating occasion. As an orgy of soaped windows and windshields, of plugged keyholes, chronic bell ringing and minor devastations, it is a periodic pest for which there seems to be no cure. The urchins have been rehersing their deviltry for the last week, and tonight's the night. Let's hope that they muddle through their black magic without distressing their parents or exciting the squad cars. Goblins, keep away from our door!

After a short sojourn in Canada, my father-in-law took the customs office examination at Detroit as follows:

Q.—Are you an American citizen? A.—I am.

Q.—Born and raised in the United States? A.—No.

Q.—Where were you born? A.—In London, England.

Q.—Are you then a naturalized American? A.—I am.

Q.—How do I know you are naturalized? A.—How do you know I was born in London?

THE RED FUNGUS.

The clamor of a crazy world flows in
Through air and print to batter at the soul.
Across the sea there comes the senseless din
Of war that bars not children from its goal.
There new fires kindle ere the old ones die,
While in our land a licking scarlet creeps
Half-hidden, stealthy, so that few descry
Or seek to check it. Thus our country sleeps.

Awake! Cast off your bonds. You, men of state.
Fear not reprisals. Give no place to greed,
Nor heed the lurid voices that berate.
With minds unbiased, guard us in our need,
The while with clearing sight but weakened hands
We try to scatter and put out the flickering brands.

Snowshoe Al Goes for a Ride.

Seemed good, Snowshoe Al digging up all that rummyniscent chatter, speshially where he cracks about somebody's postmortems an mentioning about the time he was nearly ready to crash the pearly gates [of hell]. Now I'm a going to give you the low down on his being so sick. There were two reasons for it. It all happened in the days when B. T. Gin was in his prime. Several old Line contributors used to meet at Al's boarding house. Our club was called the "O. O. W. Boys," on account all but the Phantom Lover was out of work.

One Saturday night we had a party where everybody was supposed to bring something to eat. Colorado Pete brought some juniper berry juice; Mackinlay Kantor, the orange flavor; Mousqetaire, a dime's worth of glycerin, and I dug up the alky. Snowshoe [big hearted Al] brought his two brothers and an uncle. We were about to prepare the victuals when somebody asks Al where the bath tub was.

On account of his only living there three or four weeks he had to ask the landlord. This old buzzard, after a little dandruff shopping, finally guessed that it was down the hall on either the first or third floor. The following week Al was afflicted with a terrible swelling of all the glands above his ears; in fact, it was so bad his toupee was stretched so far out of shape he was right in style a'wearing it as a raccoon coat. The second reason for his taking sick was that he was in full possession of a valuable accessory to any of us O. O. W. members. Duke Bakrak.

AUTUMN PASTORAL.

Tall corn shocks form their pointed yellow camps,
And amber harvest grain is garnered now.
Abandoned lie the harvester and plow,
And every farmhouse gleams with lighted lamps.
The katydids are still and crickets, too,
Their summer noises quieted by cold.
An autumn moon rides high, and round, and gold,
And winking jewels bead the frosty dew.
The vagrant scent of brushfires haunts the night.
And pumpkins roundly sprawl upon the ground;
Beneath the oaks brown acorns may be found,
And morning's frosted leaves will scatter bright.
So nature's march of time is told by these:
Wood smoke, the garnered grain, and piebald trees.

GRIEF IN THE DARK.

The wind in the dark is crying and crying;
(Oh, my heart!)
It sobs and grieves
At keyholes and eaves,
At the latch it is lifting and prying.

(Oh, sad heart!)
What makes it cry,
No one but I!
For the wind is fraught with the grief that flows
From my heart.

THE SYPHILIS CAMPAIGN AND FEAR.

A SHORT while ago a friend remarked, "Aren't you afraid that all this published information about the ravages of syphilis will do more harm than good? Are we not alarming the public to such an extent that they will develop fears which may be as bad or worse than the malady itself?"

To all of which I replied, "Not a chance. It may be a healthful measure, for a while, at least, to keep hammering at the dangers of the infection until machinery can be set up for its control."

I then explained that the fear of syphilis has been recognized since the sixteenth century, when the scourge began its rapid sweep through Europe.

"Of course," I continued, "there may be some who will become unduly worried. Perhaps they have been exposed and wonder if a smoldering infection may not break out at some inopportune time. A simple precaution is a Wassermann or Kahn check, which may be repeated two or three times if doubtful. If the reports are negative the whole matter may be dismissed. This should allay the apprehension of any one."

But there are some men and women who believe that they have the disease regardless of the facts. They are the same sort of individuals who hear noiseless noises, envision unreal apparitions, and exhibit other phobias. In other words, a few will manifest neuroses in relation to syphilis just as others may become unduly panic stricken with the prospect of a fire, a windstorm, or any other possible [not probable] calamity. A true syphilophobiac is one who has been tested carefully with negative results; nevertheless, he insists that he is affected. Another variety is represented by the chap who is constantly washing his hands for fear he will pick up the parasite.

The case is reported by F. E. Cormia of a woman who was engaged to be married. Her fiancé explained that he had had the disorder, but was entirely cured. This was attested by competent physicians, who assured her that he was noninfectious. But she was afraid. She was sure she would become diseased and she could not face life with such a partner. Several weeks were required before she became convinced that she was not being deceived. Happily the episode passed without leaving any permanent effects.

At times it appears difficult to prove to many persons that syphilis can be contracted only from one who has it. Furthermore, at the time of contact the spirochetes must be active; in other words, live organisms must be present. I am satisfied that a large number of persons are harboring a hidden dread—neglecting an examination perhaps because they have an idea that it may be positive. A high percentage of those who visit physicians expressing their suspicions are entirely free.

It should be said, however, that if the organism has injured the nervous system a mental state simulating a psychosis may come on. With such a one the spinal fluid offers the only means of final assurance. But with the patient in a highly nervous state the withdrawal of a specimen from the spinal canal should be undertaken only after careful consideration.

Occasionally anxiety will develop during the progress of treatment, and most of this group will be of the high strung type who present unstable nervous constitutions. If the physician who is administering the treatment is indifferent, technically unskilled, or facetious, he may drive the patient into an attitude of "What's the use? I can't be cured anyway."

Every victim should have a frank talk with his doctor relative to the character of the ailment and the possibilities for complete relief. There is need for an educational program which is honest, matter of fact, and scientifically correct. There should be no secrecy or concealment between the patient and his medical adviser, and the latter can be tactful, reassuring, and kind. The individual must have confidence in his physician.

I am more fearful about false or inaccurate diagnoses than of the relatively small number of phobiacs who may be created. In our nation-wide efforts at eradication we must make certain that we are not treating those who do not have it or who have never had it. This means, first, great skill in identification and not too much dependability upon a single blood test.

EYESTRAIN.

E. F. writes: What are the symptoms of eyestrain?

REPLY.

The symptoms show themselves particularly after reading, writing, sewing, or other types of close work, especially in the evening and with artificial light. They comprise pain referred to the eyes or above the eyes, headache, various neuralgias, and congestion of the eyeballs and margins of the lids. These symptoms may become more pronounced if the general health is not quite up to par.

LIFE EXPECTANCY.

P. T. writes: In a case where grandparents have lived to an old age, and parents have died young, what is the outlook for a long life?

REPLY.

Very good. Much depends, however, upon the causes of death of the parents. Acute infections are not accorded much weight in forecasting a life line.

PORCH REPAIRS.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—[Friend of the People.]—Please advise what can be done about a porch and stairs which are unsafe. The rear porch and stairs are very bad, the frame work just about ready to fold up. NO RED MENACE?

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 27.—People make light of the "Red Menace" in this country, but——

1. One communist group is powerful enough to maintain many uniformed bands and an eighty piece symphony orchestra, over 2,000 local clubs, many schools and camps and an average of half a million dollars in annual receipts.

2. Over 300 communist newspapers and magazines exist in the United States.

3. Communists have mapped the United States into twenty-six districts, 1,500 sections and thousands of units and cells for the more effective operation of their revolutionary work.

4. Communists operate twenty Red schools, more than 200 theaters, stores and bonding agencies and more than twenty Red camps, three of which are incorporated in New York state for $1,000,000.

The above is a fragmentary account of Red activities, yet it should remind us of the warning given by Julia Cantacuzene, granddaughter of Gen. U. S. Grant:

"We lock our doors at night, yet we do not lock our HARBORS. The communist party has established itself on the ballot as an American party. It is not. It does not sing the national anthem nor march under the American flag. Beware of it."

But for communism there would not be Fascism. Italy was obliged to adopt Fascism in order to make Italy safe for Italians. Communism sought to govern Italy from Moscow; Fascism saw to it that Italians continue to be governed from Rome. H. D. KISSENGER.

WHEN DO WE WORK AGAIN?

Chicago, Oct. 25.—"Last Thursday I stood upon a platform with Mayor Kelly," Lucas said, "the next night I appeared with Gov. Horner. Tonight I am here with both of them. This demonstrates beyond any question that we are a united party."

United for what? Public works?

Do these birds question the intelligence of the voters to such extent that sixty day Democrats are again to laugh up their sleeves Nov. 9? Our people are fed up on public works. What the public wants to know is: "When are we going to work?" Who said "counterfeit humanitarians"? Pay rollers are forced to attend their meetings in order to insure an audience. P. F.

A HINT TO EMPLOYERS.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—I work in a large loop office that employs a number of women. Many do not need their jobs as their husbands have excellent positions, but for lack of other things to do the wives keep on working.

Every day girls apply for positions and are told nothing is open. Why don't the employers get together and let some of the married women go whose husbands make enough to have them stay home, and give the single girls their jobs.

HELLO GIRL.

WALLACE PROVIDES A BARGAIN.

Camanche, Ia., Oct. 25.—The original owners of the sealed corn now have an opportunity to purchase the same at about twelve cents reduction over the sealed price. On 10,000 bushels this would net the tidy sum of $1,200.

I wonder how a fellow who has a $2,000 loan on his home from the government would feel if he were to receive a proportionate reduction in the principal. Would he shoot Santa Claus?

HERSHEY B. NISSLY.

REPLIES TO THE ARCHDEACON.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The United States through Woodrow Wilson helped impose the treaty of Versailles on Germany. Hitler is a product of that treaty. He gained his ascendancy by promising the Germans that he would nullify the provisions of that pact. This he has proceeded to do, step by step.

When Americans like William Dawson, Episcopal archdeacon of Milwaukee, attack Hitlerian Germany they decry that which we helped to create. To me this looks like hypocrisy.

Mr. Dawson misstates the case when he says the struggle going on in Europe is between democracy and dictatorship. England is not a democracy. It is a church-ridden, feudalistic state with a pyramidal caste system, on the apex of which are perched a stuttering king and his queen. The struggle is between the bloated British empire and disinherited Germany. Britain is fighting to keep the colonial loot which she stole from Germany on her last piratical expedition. Germany is determined to regain it.

When liberty existed in Germany under the republic, England and France crushed the life out of it with their rapacious exactions. ADOLPH FREDERICK.

REPLIES TO FIREMAN'S WIFE.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Why publish to the detriment of the rank and file of the firemen such letters as you received from "A Fireman's Wife"?

In 1916 the fire department was granted the two platoon system. It gave the fireman an eighty-four hour week. Since then he has envisioned an eight hour day, which would permit, as most citizens enjoy, more time to devote to his family. He has in the last year been given a "seventy-two hour off" [a day off in every sixteen]. While he still works seventy-two hours a week, this concession is a step toward the eight hour day and represents the sole benefit in the way of conditions he has gained in twenty-two years. Why take it from him?

There are "drunkards and bums" in every line of endeavor. If her husband has a fluid complex let her teach him his folly. Meanwhile why penalize [and such letters start the ball rolling] the entire fire department because "papa" is in his cups. B. C. TROY.

INJUSTICES IN BENES RULE.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Your editorial of today, "Benes Seeks a Free Country," was, ironically, rightly captioned. It will be the first time this gentleman will be in a free country [or seemingly free] for many years. His own country was anything but that for nineteen years. If ever a land seethed with injustices, it was that joke of a patchwork nation, with territories stolen from three neighboring states and containing millions of unwilling people railroaded into Czechoslovakia. Benes is, probably, not as bad a type of politician as we can produce here, and he is undoubtedly an intelligent man—but he is a politician, nevertheless. Had his administration and that of his predecessor been less harsh with minorities there would not have been that evident eagerness on the part of millions to detach themselves from his nation.

The war propaganda of 1916 should have cured Americans of their gullibility when it comes to so-called news from abroad, but seemingly it has not.

JOHN MCCHORD.

ARE WE A CIVILIZED PEOPLE?

Chicago, Oct. 23.—One evening during a stay of several weeks in an outlying section of London I witnessed a street combat between a Bobby [English for policeman] and what we in Chicago would term three hoodlums.

In the fracas he managed to disperse them, finally devoting himself to kicking at one of them.

As he was leaving the scene I inquired "if he did not have some means of protection in a resistance of this sort," and he answered: "O, I have a stick."

Then after telling him that "in my home town a police officer would immediately resort to his gun," he disgustedly said: "This is a civilized country."

Also on several occasions at banks I noticed with surprise messengers take bags of money from teller's windows, throw them over their shoulders, and walk out on the street alone with no apparent fear of molestation.

The inevitable end of such an undertaking here would be loss of money or tragedy or both. The facts compel the bobby's inference and savage indictment to stand. C. H. OLSON.

QUESTIONS FOR THE PRESIDENT.

Freeport, Ill., Oct. 28.—President Roosevelt's vitriolic attack upon the Dies committee and his charge that it is trying to defeat Gov. Murphy in the Michigan election raises certain questions which, I am sure, all fair minded people would like to have answered:

Does Mr. Roosevelt deny there was communistic activity in the Flint sitdown strike?

Did they not take the testimony of many others besides those mentioned by Mr. Roosevelt?

Was it or was it not the duty of Gov. Murphy to support the court in its efforts to enforce the law?

As to Mr. Roosevelt's charge that Gov. Murphy did not condone the illegal sitdown strike, is it not a fact that the C. I. O. encouraged that strike, and has not the C. I. O. and the Democratic organization in Michigan and in every other state worked hand-in-glove?

Could it be possible that Mr. Roosevelt, with his well known penchant for dramatic effects, wrote that letter for use by the Democratic committee as a campaign leaflet? FAIR PLAY.

CITY'S FIREMEN ON THE JOB.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—I wish to offer my sincere admiration of the Chicago fire department. Last Saturday night I went to one of the large picture theaters and because of a capacity crowd was given a chair in the balcony. It was not long before three uniformed firemen investigated the theater's seating conditions and ordered all chairs removed. It happened that I had been sitting directly in front of a fire exit. That is an example of fine service given to the people of Chicago. A. H. R.

FEARS FREE PRESS IS A MENACE.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—When a person reads the scurrilous attacks on our President, sees the malicious cartoons vilifying the highest departments of our government, and the fantastically egregious lampooning of the communists [how many votes did the communists actually cast in past elections?] in some of our newspapers, the temptation is strong upon him to wish that the constitution of these United States lacked those passages alluding to freedom of the press. POLAND RELIEVES PLIGHT OF JEWS OUSTED BY NAZIS

Many Permitted to Join Families and Friends.

WARSAW, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Harassed Polish officials, struggling to bring order out of chaos, tonight had relieved partly the plight of Polish Jews deported by the thousands from Germany.

Many had been sent into the interior, but small frontier stations, such as Zbaszyn, still were swamped.

The Jewish relief committee here estimated 13,000 deportees from Germany now were on Polish soil. It expressed gratitude that the Polish government had permitted many of them to join families and friends throughout the country.

About 5,000 deported Jews still were at Zbaszyn. Several cases of illness were reported, particularly among women and children.

Germany Takes Back Some.

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Some of Germany's suddenly deported Polish Jews were understood tonight to have started back as a legal tangle between Berlin and Warsaw showed signs of unraveling.

Official quarters predicted that the situation, which looked like the beginning of a serious quarrel when German secret police began rounding up Jews Friday, would be settled amicably during the week.

The hurried deportation of Polish Jews residing in Germany had become urgent, German sources said, because of the possibility that Germany might be saddled with thousands of persons whom Poland would recognize no longer as Polish citizens.

Warsaw contended that this was a misinterpretation of a Polish citizenship law by which all Polish subjects living abroad were ordered to have their passports revalidated by last midnight or lose their citizenship.

Germany held that such Poles who lost their citizenship could not be ejected by Germany if they were refused entry to Poland and that they might become public charges.

700 Jews Return to Munich.

MUNICH, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A tired and bedraggled trainload of 700 Polish Jews returned to Munich late tonight after having been forcibly expelled from their homes early Saturday morning and sent by train to the Polish border for deportation. About two-thirds were men, while the rest were women, including 11 with babies in their arms, and 150 older children. They had spent 40 hours on the train journey to the Polish border and return.

GERMANY OPENS 400 MILE CANAL LEADING TO SEA

MAGDEBURG, Germany, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The "Mittelland canal" connecting rivers in the west and east of Germany was inaugurated officially today, bringing to realization a dream of more than fifty years' standing. Rudolf Hess, personal representative of Adolf Hitler, inaugurated the 400 mile system by opening the last section between Brunswick and Magdeburg.

The "Mittelland canal" is the name given to a system of independent canals now connecting German rivers into one waterway extending from the Rhine in the west to the Oder in the east by way of the Weser and Elbe.

The new waterway will serve the great iron works started by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering under the four year plan for self-sufficiency and also a cheap popular car plant inaugurated by Hitler last May 26 at Fallersleben. It is expected to give an impetus to the trade of seaports like Hamburg and Bremen.

Sues Palmer

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]
PAULINE WARREN PALMER.

Sarasota, Fla., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Final argument in Mrs. Pauline Warren Palmer's divorce suit against Potter d'Orsay Palmer of Chicago will be heard by Circuit Judge George W. Whitehurst Nov. 30. Palmer is contesting the suit and was the only defense witness when testimony was completed yesterday.

Mrs. Palmer charges her husband with habitual intoxication and his counter suit charges her with habitual intemperance. She testified he sat at bars consuming gin for hours at a time and drank from eight to twenty-four drinks every day. He admitted he became intoxicated occasionally, but denied it was habitual.

Palmers' reply to his wife's demand for $538 a month alimony was that he has only a modest income from thirty acres of land here, supplemented by gifts from his father. Palmer married Pauline Winslow Warren, New York heiress, two days after he was divorced by Maria Martinex de Hoz of Argentina and made a settlement for $475,000. They had been married in Paris in July, 1930, ten months after he got a Paris divorce from Eleanor Goldsmith, daughter of a Florida truck driver, he married in 1928 when she was 16 years old.

King of Greece in London to Discuss Munich Pact

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—King George II. of Greece arrived in London today on a visit which, though private, he is expected to utilize to discuss with British leaders Greece's position in the Balkans in the light of the four-power Munich agreement and the German trade drive into southeastern Europe.

4 FOREIGN CHIEFS TO SETTLE CZECH BORDER DISPUTE

Fix Vienna as Site for Parley on Wednesday.

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Foreign ministers of Germany, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Hungary will meet in Vienna Wednesday to find a solution for the Czechoslovak-Hungarian border problem, it was announced today.

Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop during his visit in Rome last week informed the Italian government of Germany's readiness to join in arbitrating Hungary's minority and territorial demands upon Czechoslovakia, as suggested by the Prague and Budapest governments.

Decide on Vienna for Parley.

After Italy and Germany had agreed to the suggestions of Prague and Budapest, it was decided Von Ribbentrop and Count Galeazzo Ciano, the Italian foreign minister, should meet in Vienna and invite the representatives of the other two governments.

Instead of the four Munich powers—Germany, Italy, Great Britain, and France—settling the dispute, as was planned in the Munich accord, Germany and Italy will settle it.

The chief issue at stake appears to be the question of who shall possess Bratislava, Munkacs, Kassa and Nitra, four border cities now on the Czechoslovak side of the line.

Arbitration will apply primarily to regions still in dispute, Czechoslovakia already having offered—and Hungary having accepted—outright cession of 3,860 square miles with a preponderantly Hungarian population.

Agrees to Accept Decision.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Hungary has agreed to accept any decision reached by Italy and Germany in arbitrating her minority dispute with Czechoslovakia, it was disclosed tonight.

Hungary was reported to have called to duty the remaining three classes of the original five mobilized on Oct. 15. These additional troops would add 180,000 men to the estimated half million soldiers Hungary already has under arms.

Nazis Honor Munich Pact with a 1938 'Peace Wine'

NEUSTADT-ON-THE-HAARDT, Germany, Oct. 30.—(AP)—This year's Palatinate vintage is to be called "peace wine" [Friedenstropfen] in honor of the Munich four-power agreement settling the German-Czechoslovak controversy over the Sudetenland.

RAMON FRANCO, REBEL LEADER'S BROTHER, KILLED

Plane Falls in Storm Near Mallorca.

BURGOS, Spain, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Lieut. Col. Ramon Franco, brother of Rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco, and former aviation attaché at the Spanish embassy in Washington, D.C., was killed Friday in a plane off Palma, Mallorca.

Ramon Franco.

Franco left Mallorca, a rebel air base off the eastern coast of Spain, piloting a seaplane, and ran into a heavy storm.

An official report said:

"The bodies of Franco and three other occupants of the plane were found nine miles northwest of Cape Formenthal and taken to Palma, where they are lying in state in the town hall. The body of a fifth flyer is missing. The watch of one of the officers had stopped at 6:05 p.m. on Oct. 28. Franco was chief of the Mallorca base, which he organized."

FLEW SOUTH ATLANTIC.

Ramon Franco and two companions made a flight from Spain to South America in 1926. He left Palos, Spain, on Jan. 22 and in a series of hops reached Pernambuco, Brazil, on Jan. 31. In 1929 Franco and three companions started on a flight from Cartagena to New York. They were forced down near the Azores and drifted for a week before the British aircraft carrier Eagle rescued them.

Franco's flight was the first from Europe to South America and, a year before Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris, won Franco worldwide acclaim.

After his 1929 flight Franco took a hand in the pre-republican revolutionary activities of Spain and got in the bad graces of Dictator Primo de Rivera. Franco once won an acquittal on a sedition charge, but in 1930 served a two months jail sentence as an agitator. Then a newspaper article he wrote cost him an eight months sentence.

Led Aviators' Revolt.

Franco escaped jail and a week later, after the Jaca revolt late in 1930, led an unsuccessful airmen's revolt at Getafe field near Madrid. He fled into exile, but returned to Spain after King Alfonso was overthrown in 1931 and became head of the air service.

Ramon took a hand in politics on the side of the leftists, but he was accused of plotting and ousted from his air service post. He later turned to the diplomatic service and was sent to America.

SPANISH REBELS CLAIM 'BIG VICTORY' IN NEW EBRO RIVER OFFENSIVE

HENDAYE, France, Oct. 30.—[At the Spanish Frontier.]—(AP)—Spanish rebels reported today they had won a "great victory" in eastern Spain by driving the government's troops out of the Caballos mountains, key to the Ebro river front.

Dispatches from Generalissimo Franco's commanders declared many positions were carried at bayonet point in furious charges. This marked the resumption of the offensive on the loyalist front which rebels have been trying to break for three months.

Government advices said a violent battle raged all day, but gave no indication of the course of the fighting. It was the seventh rebel offensive on this front since July 25 when the government surprised the rebels by crossing the Ebro river and penetrating almost to Gandesa.

ENCHANTED EARTH

By CALEB

SEVERAL THOUSAND visitors to Field's chinaware department recently paid their respects to a name that has been world-famous for nearly two hundred years—the name of WEDGWOOD.

There—surrounded by examples that represent one of the world's largest collections of this superlative ware—they learned, in talks, motion pictures and museum displays, much of how and why this almost legendary word in ceramic history has acquired its fame. Directed by Kennard L. Wedgwood, present head of this notable house, were a number of exhibits specially arranged for the occasion, and of more than momentary interest to all true art lovers.

To compass the whole audacious story of WEDGWOOD, sentences would need to become chapters. Chapters in a long story that literally begins and ends in enchanted earth. Earth first taken from Staffordshire soils by an eighteenth century artist-craftsman — and since known to connoisseurs by a score of celebrated names in ceramics. Earliest known, and still surviving almost two centuries of changing tastes, is the famous cream-colored Queensware, named from the consort of George III, and represented by such shapes as "Queen's," "Catherine," "Shell-Edge," and "Patrician." In this ware, after three years' labor, was produced the renowned 952 piece set commissioned by Empress Catherine of Russia. Similarly famous are the Black Basalt, Bone China, and Self-Colored wares indelibly associated with the Wedgwood trademark; but a special favorite of American patrons, perhaps, is the well known Jasper Wedgwood, in which the classic motifs of ancient Greece revive themselves as white bas-reliefs on fascinating backgrounds of green, blue and black.

Wedgwood was first to rally celebrated artists, sculptors and designers to the potter's art; and among historic achievements to this maker's credit are the numerous "Commemorative Plates" executed for universities, colleges and institutions; specially designed pieces for the Harvard Tercentenary; and the complete White House service in bone china commissioned by Theodore Roosevelt.

We take an understandable pride in being the sole purveyor of Wedgwood Queensware in Chicago, and we have an entire room devoted to its permanent display. Visitors to the store will find it difficult to spend a pleasanter half-hour than in viewing this beautiful ware on our second floor.

3 PARTY RACE CONFUSES ISSUE IN WISCONSIN

G. O. P. Is Conceded Edge in Senate Battle.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 30.—Wisconsin elections offer an illuminating example of the confusion resulting from a division of votes into three or more political parties. This state has had three major political parties since the La Follettes broke away from the Republicans in 1934 to form their Progressive party. This year's developments show that the La Follettes planned the state party as the nucleus of a national third party.

In addition to the Republicans, Democrats, and Progressives, the Socialists generally have at least partial control of government in the city of Milwaukee. Now, through their dominance of the Farmer-Labor Progressive federation, a coalition of nine radical groups supporting the La Follettes, the Socialists play a varying degree of effectiveness in state politics.

Coalition Proves Strength.

This year there has been further confusion through a coalition of conservatives, which backed its primary candidates on both Republican and Democratic ballots, winning several nominations and showing enough strength to prove it will be a factor in the election.

With all these varying influences on the voters, it becomes a somewhat baffling task to gather a clear idea of what goes on in campaigns, or what result election day is likely to produce.

The Republican party, which dropped to third place in the 1932 elections, has been making rapid strides on its way back. By 1936 the party had backed the Democrats into a poor third place. It entertains strong hopes of a victory on Nov. 8, although the issue of party principles and relative merits of the candidates have been beclouded by complications injected by a defeated party candidate.

The La Follettes always have been minority winners. They have held office by a division of their opponents, splitting the state's conservative strength between the Republicans and Democrats.

Democrats Face Duffy.

Phillip La Follette is running for his fourth term as governor. His chief opposition is the Republican candidate, Julius P. Heil, a Milwaukee manufacturer. The Democrats have a full state ticket in the field, but its main purpose is to give support to the candidacy of F. Ryan Duffy, United States senator and New Deal supporter.

If the Democrats vote for their own candidates, it should be to the advantage of the Republicans. There are reports of a secret coalition by which the Democrats will support La Follette for governor in return for his help for Duffy.

The character of the Progressive candidate for the senate, Herman L Ekern, makes this seem improbable. He is one of the strongest men in the La Follette group and has made a vigorous campaign. If there is any principle at all among the Progressives, it does not seem possible they plan to sell him down the river.

G. O. P. Has Senate Edge.

Alexander Wiley, Republican nominee for the senate, is a Chippewa Falls lawyer known for his character and ability. He gained a wide acquaintance in the state as candidate for governor two years ago, when he polled 364,000 votes.

A week before election Wiley is considered the most probable choice for the senate, with Ekern comprising his greatest threat. Duffy, even with the Democratic organization of postmasters and job holders, scarcely is conceded second place.

The complication which may prevent voting on straight party lines and on the merits of men was created by John Chapple, a defeated primary candidate for the senate.

Chapple has been losing elections ever since he entered politics in 1932. Defeated again this year, he announced himself an independent Townsend candidate for the senate. Shortly after filing, he broadcast a charge that Heil had attempted to bribe him to withdraw.

Heil's Explanation.

Heil's explanation was that his committee had offered Chapple $100 for each of 26 speeches in support of Heil's candidacy for governor, and that the offer had nothing to do with Chapple's race for the senate.

The office of the attorney general, Progressive controled, held that the charge is enough to justify an investigation, which of course cannot take place now until after election. What effect this smear on the Heil campaign will have on the vote is problematical.

Gov. La Follette is in much the same situation, due to his use of the names of 40,000 old age pensioners as a political list. The list was supposed to be a secret of the federal social security board and the state pension board. State Senator Harry W. Bolens, Democratic candidate for governor, has demanded a grand jury investigation of La Follette's use of the names and Francis T. Murphy, a Democratic assemblyman, has filed charges against the governor of violating the corrupt practices act.

Almost Forced to Act.

If the Progressive attorney general's office, which ordered the investigation of Heil, refuses to take action on the charges against the governor, it is likely to prove a boomerang against La Follette.

A survey, as the campaign goes into its last week, indicates that the Republicans have the best chance to elect a United States senator, have a good chance in a close race to elect a governor and a state ticket, and are almost sure of electing at least three of the ten congressmen. In four other congressional districts they have better than an even chance.

In 1936 there were 1,206,227 votes cast for governor. La Follette won with 47 per cent of the total. The Republicans received 31 per cent, and the Democrats 22 per cent. It will take a swing of a little more than 100,000 votes from the Progressive to the Republican column to elect Heil. His campaign committee feels sure this can be accomplished.

Seeks Land Lost in War

Bulgaria prepares to demand the return of some territories lost in the world war. Black areas show land lost to Rumania, Jugo-Slavia and Greece. Bulgaria also is expected to seek the return of territory lost in the second Balkan war of 1913.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Stoicho Moshanoff, president of the national assembly, in a speech today said Bulgaria would demand the return of some territories lost in the world war.

"We want a peaceful revision of the peace treaty," he said. "Let this not frighten our neighbors. It is our right and we will never relinquish our claims."

Bulgaria lost territory in the second Balkan war of 1913. This was was fought when the Balkan allies fell out over the spoils of their successful fight against Turkey in the first Balkan war of 1912.

In the world war she lost more—Southern Dobruja to Rumania, Caribrod and Strumica to Jugo-Slavia, her conquests in Macedonia which went to Greece, and her Aegean coastline which first was assigned to the allied powers and eventually by them to Greece.

GERMANY SEEKS TRADE PACT WITH RUMANIA TODAY

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 30.—Commercial negotiations beginning here tomorrow with a German delegation are featured by German propaganda demonstrations. Germany's hopes to secure a large share of Rumania's oil and grain for which, in default of cash payments, she offers deliveries of finished goods and dyestuffs.

The German cruiser Emden has reached Constanza and the crew will be given a one week shore leave in Bucharest. The Frankfort opera will give two presentations. King Carol is expected to attend at least one of them.

Leaders of the Hitler Youth are in Bucharest. They will tour the country. General manifestations of Rumanian-German friendship have been arranged.

JAPANESE FIGHT TO EXTEND SWAY BEYOND HANKOW

Drive Southward Along Canton Railway.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 31 [Monday].—(AP)—Slowly fighting southward along the Canton-Hankow railway through autumn rains, Japanese were reported today to have captured Tingszekiao, fifty miles south of Hankow.

Arrow locates town captured by Japanese.

The land forces thus paralleled the navy's advance up the Yangtze river as the undeclared war entered its 482d day, with the Japanese fanning out from the provisional capital which fell last Tuesday.

The advance on Tingszekiao was launched after the fall of Sienning. Tingszekiao is ten miles southwest of Sienning.

Another Japanese column, near the Yangtze river east of Hankow, was advancing southwest from Yangsin toward Tungshan in an effort to outflank Yanglowtung at a point 100 miles south of Hankow.

Meet Heavy Opposition.

Northwest of Hankow Japanese admitted their troops had met heavy opposition, with the most severe fighting in progress at Siaokan, fifty miles distant, where a large Chinese force had gathered after the Hankow retreat.

Japanese reports of the capture of Teian, on the Nankang-Nanchang railway in Kiangsi province, were denied by the Chinese who said severe fighting continued in that sector.

The Chinese also said the Japanese were turned back with heavy losses in an attack on Kangtsun, 15 miles west of Hangchow in coastal Chekiang province.

Battle North of Canton.

HONGKONG, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Chinese reported severe fighting tonight on several Kwangtung province fronts north of Japanese captured Canton.

They acknowledged that Japan's forces thrusting northward from Canton had captured Wangmoon, about eighty miles beyond the fallen southern metropolis.

However, Chinese said the Japanese had been repulsed with the loss of 300 men in an attack on Yingtak, railway point 65 miles north of Canton.

The provincial capital, moved from Canton, was established at Linhsien.

KAROLINE'S ROMANCE FADES AWAY, BUT HER $4,000 JUST VANISHES

Middle Inlet, Wis., is a nice spot for romance in July. Then and there, in her home town, Mrs. Karoline Wucskovic dreamed of Walter Mackowski. She had met him in Chicago. He was about her age, which is 54, and he had graceful city manners.

Arrow Points to Middle Inlet.

Mrs. Wucskovic had reason to dream. Walter had written her a number of ardent letters. In them he asked Karoline to bring her $4,000 to Chicago and he would marry her.

Last Tuesday she arrived. The $4,000 was sewed into the lining of her dress. They met in a flat at 229 West 65th street. With Walter was a woman he introduced as his sister. They agreed to be married on Wednesday. Walter went away. His sister remained with Karoline.

In the morning Walter didn't show up. Mrs. Wucskovic began to fear that he was running out, since the $4,000 was missing. The other woman said she was sure that Walter had taken the money to a safe place.

"O. K., good," said the trusting Karoline. "I will go out and buy a hat for the wedding."

While she was trying on hats, Walter's sister disappeared. Mrs. Wucskovic went back to Middle Inlet where friends urged her to tell her story to Chicago police.

The police couldn't find Walter. But they arrested Joseph Gluzek, 5254 Moody street, who introduced the lonely widow to Walter.

WOMAN WIELDS RIFLE ON TAFFY APPLE ROBBER

Richard Stanhope, 38 years old, who was released from the Stateville penitentiary only last week after serving a parole violation sentence, felt the pangs of hunger early today. So he broke into the bungalow shop at 6422 Milwaukee avenue, where Mr. and Mrs. Edward Doyle make and sell taffy apples. His idea was to eat some taffy apples if he found nothing better.

He was ransacking the place when the Doyles returned. Stanhope put up a good battle against Doyle, but didn't figure on Mrs. Doyle. She suddenly cracked him on the head with the stock of a small rifle. Stanhope still was out ten minutes later when Sergt. Tom Doyle and a squad called to pick him up. Stanhope required six stitches in his scalp. He got no taffy apples.

Miss Walling, Miss Malcolm to Be Brides

BY JUDITH CASS.

NEWS of romantic interest is contained in two announcements being made today. Mrs. Willoughby George Walling of Hubbard Woods is announcing the engagement of her only daughter, Frederika, to Charles Henry Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Booth Ross of Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Malcolm, formerly of Lake Forest, who now live in Florida, are announcing the engagement of their only child, Durie, to Firmin Desloge IV., son of Mr. and Mrs. Firmin V. Desloge of St. Louis.

Miss Walling and Mr. Ross will be married on Thanksgiving day at a quiet ceremony in the Walling home. They will live in Chicago. Miss Walling is a graduate of the North Shore Country Day school, was educated further at Vassar, at La Roseraie in Paris, and at the University of Toronto, where she received a decree last June. She is a member of the Chicago Junior League.

Mr. Ross, who has been Miss Walling's most devoted beau for several months, is engaged in business in Chicago and makes his home with a group of bachelors in Dearborn parkway. He is a graduate of the University of Virginia.

Miss Walling has three brothers, Willoughby H. Walling, who lives in Santa Fe, N. M.; W. English Walling II., and T. Cheves Walling. The late Mr. Walling was chairman of the Ravinia Festival association at the time of his death.

Malcolm-Desloge Wedding Plans to Be Told Soon.

News of the engagement of Miss Malcolm and Mr. Desloge has been rumored among their friends for several days. Plans for their wedding are to be announced soon. Miss Malcolm spent the week-end with her fiancé and his family in St. Louis.

Mr. Desloge, who has two brothers, Theodore and William, was graduated from Williams in 1931. Miss Malcolm, a debutante of the 1934-'35 season, is a graduate of Chatham hall. Her marriage to F. John Bersbach Jr. was terminated by divorce recently.

Front Views and Profiles

Anti-climax.

It was during the pitiful, tragic second act of Mice and Men at the Selwyn. George [Guy Robertson] had just been summoned to the barn and found Curley's wife [Claire Luce], her neck broken by Lennie. Graham Smith, in his third row seat, tensely absorbed in the drama, heard the woman behind him whisper to her companion:

"That's Guy Robertson. I heard him in The Desert Song. Wish he'd sing something."

Bibliographical Detective.

John Carter, young British bibliophile, was in Chicago last week visiting with Booklovers Vincent Starrett and Ben Abramson and others, and probably with Theodore W. Koch, in charge of Deering library at Northwestern university, who in his lecture on literary forgeries deals with Carter's achievements in discovering a hoax that was a bombshell in the book world.

It was John Carter, working with Graham Pollard, another young British bibliographical scholar, who published a book several years ago charging that the 1847 reading edition of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's Sonnets from the Portuguese and some fifty other pamphlets by Matthew Arnold, both the Brownings, George Eliot, Rosetti, Ruskin, Thackeray, and others, were fakes. Carter and Pollard did careful detective work for two years, conducting paper and type tests, as well as other investigations. Then they published An Inquiry Into the Nature of Certain Nineteenth Century Pamphlets. Their conclusions were that the pamphlets were manufactured to meet the new demand for modern first editions that began to be manifest in the 1890s. Before that time collectors had been interested only in folio Shakespeare Aldine, Elzevir, and other early masters.

Rag-bag Mind.

The description of Hitler's Alfred Rosenburg, as quoted by Henry C. Wolfe at his Council of Foreign Relations lecture—"prophet laureate of the third reich." . . . Melody Bouquet, a new recording of selections from Kern, Gershwin, Coward, Porter, and Schwartz, by Emil Petti and his orchestra, including the ones you used to love in the pre-swing era—A Room with a View, Dance Little Lady, New Sun in the Sky, Dancing in the Dark. . . . a new flower called Disbud, a chrysanthemum like a big ragged daisy. . . . The amusing play on words in the name successful Henry R. Luce is sometimes called in the magazine offices—Il Luce. . . . The way Bonnie Baker sings her How'd You Like to Love Me? with Orrin Tucker's orchestra, at the Chicago — Sunday-school-girl-trying-to-be-bad effect. It gets the audience.

The full skirted, gauzy white, tight bodiced ball gowns in the shop windows that are reminiscent of Amy's tarleton ball gown in Little Women. . . . And women wearing them, and their hair piled high, look romantic and enchanting — if they're young enough. . . . But for the first time in years women are looking like artists' portraits instead of fashion drawings. We saw a Manet the other evening—in tight bodiced black, black plumes in her upswept hair — that turned out to be Mrs. Leon Mandel; a Boldini wearing an off-the-shoulder gown, a neck band, and an aigret in her hair whom we didn't identify, and an ante-bellum beauty in a hoop skirt with a turquoise velvet bow in her hair—with long ends that fell to the bottom of her curls, matching the turquoise velvet bows on her skirt. Mrs. A. G. Atwater, formerly Dorothy Lee of the movies.

45 Youngsters Fresh, Natural in Ballet Debut

BY CECIL SMITH.

There is nothing mean or niggardly about the Littlefield ballet, which made its bow to Chicago before a large audience at the Civic Opera house last evening. From Philadelphia Catherine Littlefield, who is both director and first dancer of the company, has brought no fewer than forty-five dancers—twenty-four girls and twenty-one boys—to remain here seven weeks as the official ballet of the Chicago City Opera company, and to give a series of seven independent all-ballet programs. She has also brought handsome and well executed settings, a profusion of costumes, a valise full of dance compositions unknown to Chicago, and her own competent conductor, Henri Elkan.

For its initial bill the company presented "Moment Romantique" to music by Chopin, "The Fairy Doll" ["Puppenfee"] to music by Josef Bayer, and "Barn Dance" to scattered works by Louis M. Gottschalk, David Guion, and John Powell. As is the case with nearly the entire répertoire of the group, the choreography of all three was by Miss Littlefield herself.

"Barn Dance" was by far the most exhilarating experience of the evening. In a valuable and exciting addition to the maturing list of stage-worthy American dance compositions, the entire young group, rampant with energy and overflowing with animal spirits, recreated in stylized but none the less honest movement the fun and horse play of an old fashioned dancing party in a real old fashioned barn. Appearing midway in the high jinks as a country girl gone wrong in the city and returning home with Thomas Cannon as a sleek partner, Dorothie Littlefield—the blonde Catherine's brunette sister—instantly won the admiration of her audience.

In the two more conventional ballets earlier in the program Catherine Littlefield gave account of herself as a coolly gracious stage personality and a charming and well disciplined classical dancer. Indeed, her own accomplished work was the stellar feature of "Moment Romantique," which proved to be a rather unimportant modern adaptation of the idea of "Les Sylphides," choreographed unevenly, so that the dancers often seemed to be grouped in lumps about the stage.

The hoary "Puppenfee," a boring narrative after too many years of the Ballet Russe's "La Boutique Fantasque," was saved by the sheer exuberance of the youngsters' dancing.

In their first evening the members of the corps de ballet seemed almost always competent, but seldom if ever brilliant. Yet what are a few poor recoveries from turns and pirouettes compared to freshness and spontaneity and the capacity to show an audience a good time?

Katherine Metcalf, New York soprano, revealed a truly superb, warm, concentrated voice in her Chicago debut at the Beaux Arts salon in the Medinah club yesterday afternoon. Although insecure diaphragm support and an interfering glottis cause occasional defections from style and line, she is a seasoned artist and one well worth listening to. Assisting on the program was the impeccably trained Echo Choral club, directed by Adeline Preyss.

Fanny Arnsten-Hassler conducted the Woman's Concert Ensemble of Chicago in their first concert of the season at the Auditorium recital hall yesterday afternoon. In a program consisting of works by Mozart, Haydn, Elgar and minor composers the orchestra played with an enthusiasm that partly compensated for egregious differences of opinion about pitch and attack.

At the same time Angell Mercado's Tipica Mexican orchestra made its annual visit to Chicago, playing characteristic Latin music with breezy insouciance, and decorating the stage with its colorful serapes.

Violinist Moll Wins Ovation with Concert

BY EDWARD BARRY.

David Moll, a member of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, forsook Orchestra hall for the Great Northern theater yesterday afternoon to appear as violin soloist with the Illinois Symphony orchestra. Izler Solomon conducted.

A Spohr violin concerto [D minor, Opus 55] was revived for the occasion. It is an old fashioned work, rich in quiet beauties. Almost as important as the concerto's musical worth is its suitability for the violin. Because of his command of the instrument's idiom, Spohr was able to write for it effectively—to exploit its ability to sing a simple melody in ravishing manner and to give power to a rhythmic period by subtle accentuation.

Mr. Moll played with an austerely beautiful tone which became round and melting in the concerto's middle movement. His work is obviously the result of connected musical thought, and the nuances that brightened every movement sprang directly from his understanding of the piece's character and content.

The violinist won an ovation at the conclusion of the concerto and was forced to return to the stage again and again.

The novelties of the day were Horace Johnson's "Imagery" and Henry Hadley's "Azenath's Dance." The former had never been played in Chicago, the latter had never been played anywhere.

"Imagery," a suite in three short movements, aims to catch the feeling of Hindu mythology. There are odd instrumental colorings and lonesome sounding harmonies, but the music is largely European in substance. There are even honest major chords in the middle movement, which quite upset the Shan-Kar fans among us. Upset, also, those of us whose knowledge of Indian music is limited to the accompaniments for "The Adventure of Kathleen," and who know positively that nations east of Suez use the minor mode to the exclusion of all other musical devices.

The Hadley piece is a brilliant and exotically colored little dance dedicated to Max Bendix, Chicago conductor.

Sixty Descendants Observe Centenary of Double Wedding

Sixty descendants of the two Smart boys who married the Fell sisters gathered yesterday at the Cass community southwest of Hinsdale to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the double Smart-Fell wedding.

Their descendants, gathered from Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, California, and Washington, D. C., yesterday viewed with awe the Fell family Bible, brought from England in 1816, in which the double wedding was recorded.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Wintz of 908 Winona street announces the marriage on Oct. 14 in Buenos Aires, Argentina, of their daughter, Mrs. Patricia Wintz Newsom, to Frank Thomas Magennis of Buenos Aires.

Mrs. Bertha Livingston of Chicago announces the marriage yesterday in Los Angeles, Cal., of her daughter, Betty, to Herman Bendix of Portland, Ore. Mr. Bendix and his bride will make their home in Portland.

Furless Coats Are Smart and Low in Price

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Much has been accomplished for the owners of separate fur pieces. Good looking, flattering fur scarfs have a way of becoming indispensable. So knowing coat designers present a record breaking collection of unfurred models made for winter wear with or without neck furs.

The straight streamlines are exceptionally wearable. They go over shirred, intricately designed dress parade clothes as well as tailored effects and even slim suits. These coats are not bulky and the fabrics are stunning.

Quilted designs decorate other soft wools, down the tuxedo collars, or just on the chest, cuffs, and small collar. Inverted tucks, cleverly placed where they'll also slenderize, are details in other models. These straight line coats are high fashion and virtually all purpose finds for any wardrobe. The prices are within reach of any clothes allowance.

Equally handsome fabrics and fine detail are to be found in the nipped in at the waistline coats. Some have lether belts, some decorative metal belts, and still others have belts of self material emphasized with huge, effective buckles.

Skirts flare smartly, sleeves are easy, and shoulders have that much to be desired swanky squareness without exaggeration.

Single or double long fur scarfs transform these furless coats into luxurious costumes for the most gala occasion. Without benefit of fur, they're distinctive street coats with all manner of exquisite detail.

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American and his cousin, Alison Young, going to a party at Lady Wibbe's stumble by mistake into the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman, who receives them, they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. Young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. But they acquire one next day. David learns his former love, Betsy Greentree, lives in the mysterious house. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David sends a letter to Betsy, which is unanswered. He confronts Scarpath, who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being cared for by his sister Evelyn. David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she is miserably unhappy. When the specialist, Dr. Broderick, insists on her taking the medicine, which always makes her feel worse, Betsy grows desperate. Alison's friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, leaving her flat one night, finds Betsy unconscious on the threshold. Revived, she explains Penelope helped her escape. Colin plans to have his friend, Dr. MacConochie, examine Betsy, after he learns Dr. Broderick is a drug addict. Betsy refuses to return with Geoffrey to his London flat. Fanny Rush arrives and stays with Geoffrey, whom she greatly admires.

INSTALMENT XXXVII.

TELEPATHIC MESSAGES.

Fanny accepted the cigaret which Geoffrey offered and said sympathetically, "You've been through the mill, too. I can see that, but that's all over now. If Elizabeth does come at once, I might easily make the sailing for . . . but I've not quite decided where. I'll have to call in at the American Express."

"Still the intrepid voyager?" he bantered, but with a grave narrowing of his eyes.

"Still determined to die in my shoes. Why not? It saves trouble for every one."

"You seem more fit than you were," he remarked tentatively. "I'm rather struck by it."

"O, I'm holding out!" She tossed her head. "It's not myself I'm bothering about just now. Which reminds me:" Dropping her offhand tone she continued with awkward hesitation, "Geoffrey . . . you'll have guessed, of course, I was already on my way here when those—communication overtook me."

"Of course," he nodded. "Well?"

"Telepathy, you know. You spoke of it first, didn't you? Well, believe it or not, I knew—yes, knew—something had gone wrong with you. I felt myself literally pulled in your direction. There! Are you laughing at me?"

For one telling second his eyes met her embarrassed ones.

"I was sure you would come," he said simply. "When I got your cable I rather cursed myself."

She was still jerkily sketching the experience when a ring at the bell made her sit suddenly erect. The doctor had arrived.

She saw at a glance that the man who entered was delicate and overworked—as she had been told to expect. His face was leaden and a close network of fine wrinkles. Well dressed, though—and she liked his ease without gush, while the man-to-man manner won immediate respect.

"Unfortunately I've very little time at my disposal," said the consultant. "Might I suggest coming at once to the point?"

"My niece's condition," returned Fanny promptly. "I understand it's been very troublesome to cope with. Will you explain?"

Guthrie Broderick complied, translating technical terms into simple language—but not condescendingly.

"You say this disease has, or did have, a physical basis. Now tell me this: How much of her behavior was due to those, and how much is the result of . . . of . . ."

"A neurosis capable of simulating a variety of symptoms?" Broderick stared down gravely at his dark gray spats. "A most baffling question," he declared slowly. "One you might answer as readily as I. She passed, I think, some eighteen months in your company. During that period did she break unreasonably into tears, appear indisposed for no valid excuse, turn, shall we say, irrationally against either you or your other associates?"

Fanny's hawk-eyes looked startled. Why, this was pure mind reading! During that stormy time she had noticed all these things, and more, O, far more besides. What about her endlessly pleading headaches, eye strain, aches and pains no young girl ought to possess? And as for walking! After only four galleries of the South Sea exhibition she had flopped down on a bench and sat moping while her 56 year old aunt carried on. All imaginary, and then the flood of tears, the ridiculous wrangling . . . !

"All nerves, was it?" muttered Fanny, forgetting she had specified nothing.

By a slight gesture Dr. Broderick conveyed that undoubtedly it was.

"Though it's none the less difficult," he warned. "It being at times nearly impossible to separate the real from the false—as I need hardly point out to a woman of your understanding. From now on the remedy must come from within. Some conscious readjustment, some deliberate willing toward a suitably conceived end. . . ."

All Fanny now took hold of was contained in the two words from within. Her jaw set pugnaciously, her eye lit with a fiercer gleam, while in the interior of her brain something like a buzz saw had begun grinding and jolting. Already in fancy she was bearding her obstreperous chit of a niece.

Later she hoped she had not struck the doctor as rude. Actually she had not seen he was going till Geoffrey's touch roused her.

"Broderick? O, he's too busy a man to stand on petty ceremony! What I want to know is, did he make matters clear?"

"Clear? Perfectly so! There's nothing in the least strange about it, except that it should happen in my family." She grabbed at her eyeglass, and too impatient to decipher her own watch hands demanded the time. "O! So it's nearly one?"

"And a Saturday," he gently reminded her. "If you're thinking of seeing Elizabeth, I warn you she won't be alone. O, I'm not speaking of the nurse they've got as a sort of companion, but of the American woman, Miss Young, who'll certainly be there. She, don't forget, has had only Elizabeth's rather distorted version."

Fanny tapped her foot. It was not certain she had been listening. Scarpath pushed a button, and in another minute or so was quietly handing her a cocktail.

"What's that? No, take it away! I mustn't get muddled."

"Just a mild appetizer, mostly orange juice," he persuaded. "We're lunching now after which I'd like you to lie down. I want you to be fresh for the first night I'm taking you to. Like the idea?"

"There's no resisting you, Geoffrey," she gave in. "H'm—not bad . . . Saturday! This man Beddoes will be there. Well, who cares?"

"Fanny, I can't allow you to subject yourself to tiresome scenes!"

Gulping her cocktail she muttered: "Interlopers! Conspirators! Not at all sure it isn't punishable by law." Thrusting the glass from her she gritted: "The address! I want it."

Using his fountain pen he wrote on one of his cards. Her hand opened and shut to seize it.

"Not before Monday," he insisted, and then, with slight hesitation, "I hadn't meant to repeat what Broderick whispered to me as I was seeing him out. He thinks you ought to go slowly."

Her foot ceased jiggling. Turning she gave him a long, cryptic look. "Doctors don't know everything," was her unexpected retort. "But still . . . yes, I daresay both of you are right," she conceded with sudden docility. "I'll do as you say—slip into my dressing gown and tuck up till time to dress for the theater. On Monday I'll be less impeded."

In the midafternoon Scarpath peered cautiously into the darkened bedroom. The motionless hump under the blue satin quilt bespoke dreamless slumber. He closed the door softly and quitted the flat.

It was only shortly after this that a stalwart, slightly demented looking woman hailed a taxi in South Audley street by the effective expedient of brandishing an umbrella. The grizzled Britisher at the wheel goggled at her in what she took to be half-witted fashion.

"Mechlenburg Square!" she thundered.

The buzzing in her head had grown louder.

"I must keep cool," muttered Fanny, convinced she had never been more so. "Simply firmness—and blunt common sense."

Lunch or supper today will be more fun than usual if, in some simple way, it calls attention to the fact that this is Halloween. A bowl or a mound of fruit in a banking of autumn leaves for a table centerpiece is a good start.

It's easier to put the spirit of All Hallow's Eve into the salad than into any other single menu item, so I'm going to make suggestions for salads only, simple ones that won't cause any scurryings from market to market for ingredients.

Apples, oranges, short pieces of fat carrots, or whole, cooked and skinned beets might be turned into jack o'lantern shells to hold fruit or vegetable salad. Raisins may be used for eyes, nose and mouth on the fruit and carrots, and cream cheese will help fashion features on a beet cup.

HOBGOBLIN SALAD.

Cut the tops from large oranges or red apples and hollow out the centers. Use your ingenuity in carving features on the shells. Fill cavities with raisins to represent eyes, nose and mouth. Dice the removed fruit pulp and mix it with halved and seeded grapes, sliced dates, nuts and quartered marshmallows. Add mayonnaise or fruit salad dressing and fill the jack o' lantern shells. Replace the tops as covers. Serve on lettuce or other greens.

VEGETABLE JACK O'LANTERNS.

Use lengths of large raw or cooked carrot, or whole cooked beets, If carrots are used, leave them flat on the bottom and round the top surface with a sharp knife. Hollow out the vegetables, grate or dice the removed pulp, and combine with chopped green pepper, a little minced onion, diced celery and a sharp dressing. Make features on the jack o'lanterns with raisins, green pepper or cream cheese, and fill with salad mixture. Serve on lettuce or other greens.

PEACH: Use half a canned peach, rounded side up, for each salad. Place on lettuce leaf and make features from pieces of gumdrop, raisins or cloves and pimiento [for mouth]. Serve with French dressing. A dipper or spoonful of cottage cheese may form the base of this salad, if a heartier one is wanted.

BROWN EYED SUSAN: For each salad stuff a prune with cream cheese and place it in the center of a lettuce bed. Radiate sections of orange [remove membrane] around it, to represent a brown eyed susan. Serve with French dressing.

APRICOT AND DATE: Group three halves of canned apricot on lettuce for each salad. Fill the centers with cream cheese balls and press a date into each ball. Serve with French dressing.

CARROT AND RAISIN: Grated raw carrots and raisins may be combined alone or with diced apple and grated cheese. Mix with mayonnaise and serve in lettuce cups.

SWEET POTATO AND PRUNE SALAD: Combine diced, cooked sweet potatoes with chopped cooked prunes and diced or grated pineapple. Mix with mayonnaise.

BUILD NEW HOSPITAL.

Valparaiso, Ind., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Ground will be broken here Tuesday for the new $225,000 Porter County Memorial hospital.

Bishop O'Brien Lays Corner Stone for Loyola U. Chapel

The Most Rev. William D. O'Brien, auxiliary bishop of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, officiated at cornerstone laying ceremonies for the new $300,000 chapel of Loyola university yesterday. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. James J. Mertz, S. J., director of the chapel. Bishop O'Brien was assisted by the Rev. William A. Finnegan, S. J., dean of the college of arts and sciences; the Rev. Douglas Pearl, S. J., and the Rev. Alphonse Schmitt.

The Housewife

So many housewives are interested in household deodorants that we are glad to tell about a new one that is both attractive and efficient. It consists of a lavendar topped, perforated metal box. Inside the box are two cakes of a compressed substance that is the deodorant and it has a pleasant fragrance. You can get it in rose, lilac, or oriental perfume.

You simply hang this box on a hook or by a cord in your clothes closet or wherever you wish to use it and it acts as a deodorant for a long time. When the cakes are finally worn out you can get refills. These come in boxes of four and are not at all costly. EDITH WEIGLE.

ENGAGEMENTS

At a tea at home yesterday Dr. and Mrs. Henry William Chesney of Chicago announced the engagement of their daughter, Carol Eleanor, to Robert Wheeler Swett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Swett of Beverly Hills.

Miss Cheney attended Lawrence college at Appleton, Wis. Mr. Swett attended the University of Wisconsin and Babson institute. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashby DuBose of Cleveland have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Cleveland, to George Randolph Groendyke of New Orleans, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barton Groendyke of Chicago. The wedding will take place in November.

Miss Cleveland was graduated from Newcomb college. Mr. Groendyke was graduated from Amherst college.

Mr. and Mrs. Sereno W. Streeter of 7617 Phillips avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Joan, to Dr. Howard Lindberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Lindberg of Evanston. The wedding will take place in November.

English Union to Hear Helen Moody Today.

The luncheon the English-Speaking union is giving today at the Palmer house for Helen Wills Moody promises to be a gala affair, with motion pictures to illustrate Mrs. Moody's talk on her experiences in winning various tennis championships. She will discuss also the relation of games and sports to international good will and understanding. The meeting is to be an open one, which means that nonmembers may come for luncheon at $2, or after luncheon for 50 cents, to hear the famed sportswoman talk.

At the speaker's table with Mrs. Moody will be several tennis enthusiasts, including Charles S. Garland, former Davs cup team player, and Mrs. Garland; Mrs. John P. Bent and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., two of Lake Forest's outstanding players, and their husbands; Samuel Rinaker, president of the union; Durant Smith, Miss Gertrude Lawrence, and William C. Parke.

Miss Jean Armstrong is in charge of a group of young women who will help to seat the luncheon guests. They include Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II., Mrs. Francis T. O'Brien, Miss Margot Atkin, Miss Eleanor Sherman, and Miss Caroline Bush. Mr. and Mrs. Garland are giving a dinner tonight for Mrs. Moody, who is staying with them.

Members of the English-Speaking union will spend the evening of Armistice day at a dinner the union will give at the Drake hotel for John W. Davis, president of the English-Speaking Union of the United States, and the delegates to the meeting of the national council. Invitations went out last week.

Junior League to Hear Drama Lecturer Today.

Since the Chicago Junior league currently is interested in its Children's Theater institute, to be held Nov. 14 to 18, under the direction of Mrs. Maurice P. Geraghty [Helen Tieken], it is particularly appropriate that the speaker at the annual fall meeting today is to be Harold Ehrensperger, lecturer on drama at Northwestern university. The meeting is to be held at 10:30 o'clock in the Tower room at the Drake, with luncheon following. "The Theater in the New World" is the subject of Mr. Ehrensperger's talk.

Horace Bridges will speak on "Europe in Calm and Storm" at a luncheon meeting today at the Fortnightly of the Lake Shore League of Women Voters.

A son was born on Oct. 25 at St. Luke's hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bruce Millar III. of Evanston. He has been named Dodd Rowan Millar for a cousin of Mr. Millar. Mr. and Mrs. Millar [Nedra Needham] have another son, Earl Bruce Millar IV., who is 3 years old.

The first of many Christmas sales will be held in the home of Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard in Hubbard Woods tomorrow with goods from the Hull House shop on display. Featured in the attractive things for sale will be dozens of enchanting rag dolls and animals—even a Ferdinand the Bull. Orders will be taken for monogrammed linens.

Mrs. Morris K. Wilson is in charge of the sale, which will be held between 10:30 and 6 o'clock.

Clifford W. Barnes and the Chicago Community Trust are giving a luncheon today at the Union League club for Sir George Paish of London, well known economist.

Brushing One Good Result of 'Up' Coiffure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

You'd better get in your hairbrush supply, because you are going to hear hairbrush and hair brushing talk until you will take one in hand in self-defense.

Yes, we've talked hair brushing for years as the perfect means to a fine scalp and lovely hair. But we were not impressed, as we rattled on, that we were going to be taken very seriously. Women just would not tamper with their recent waveset or permanent and we could hardly blame them, either.

The other regrettable thing that happened, beside the woman's own hair and scalp suffering is what has happened to the youngsters' hair. You see, when mammas set a bad example, the youngsters will not accept advice. Mamma would not and did not brush her hair. The youngster's brush became a dressing table ornament likewise. And the scalp conditions of young folks' hair is well nigh appalling from all reports. And from observation, too. Mothers hold us up all the time, reporting that Jane and Mary and Ruth and so on have the most awful cases of dandruff. Sure they have! The poor youngsters never apply a brush or have one applied and naturally their scalps entertain dandruff.

You understand that the new upswept coiffure is behind the new brushing edict. We have heard within the last few weeks a great deal of the new mode and what must be done for and about it. Every last one of our informants talked as much about the need of brushing hair now as about the upswept line. So you needn't look upon hair brushing as a hateful duty, one that bores you to death. You have to brush it to get it growing up from the roots, and the good thing about this recommendation is that it is the right, best, and most profitable way of brushing hair and scalp. You don't tilt the head forward any more and wield a brush. You take your hair in strands and brush from the roots up.

Another advantage to this new hair trend is that hair color is being emphasized so strongly.

This means that you must brush back into your hair life and color—your own best color which brushing revives as no other mechanical means known. Now that you have a real beauty ambition to urge you on, you will brush, won't you?

Yiddish Movie Is Slow, but It Has Its Points

"THE SINGING BLACKSMITH."

Produced by Collective Film Producers, Inc.
Directed by Edgar G. Ulmer.
Based on David Pinski's classic "Yankel Der Schmidt."
Presented at the Sonotone theater.

Young Yankel	Hershel Bernardi

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Accustomedness to the rapid tempo of the average present day film makes this Yiddish movie's [it was produced in America] leisurely unfolding seem a bit wearing. But the picture has much to offer in the way of characterization, the magnificent voice of its hero, and the striking beauty and gentle charm of its leading lady.

The locale is a small Jewish town of Old Russia, whose inhabitants are mostly poor people.

From his boyhood as apprentice to the town smith whom he finally buys out, the story follows the life and loves of Yankel.

A husky, handsome, happy go lucky fellow is he with a fine singing voice that he gives a lot of exercise.

The native maidens think him the berries, but the older folk look on his caroling and drinking with glum eyes.

Desired by Rivke, who's made a marriage of convenience with a most unattractive money lender, Yankel marries the gentle Tamara, his superior in caste and culture.

Rivke's efforts to come between the two and Yankel's final settling of her after the birth of his son—the while oldsters prowl and buzz—form the sum and substance of the last reels.

The players all comport themselves with ability and reticence. . . . Staging and costumes are interesting and you'll love hearing Moishe Oysher sing.

See you soon.

The Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs is sponsoring a public speaking and diction class and a choral group. The chorus will meet tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock at 159 North State street, room 801.

Shirring Strategically Placed

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOME FROCK.

Flattering especially to the overweight figure is this home frock that adopts plenty of shirring in strategic places. For example, there is fullness below the shoulder yoke to soften the bustline, and more shirring is found at the waist to make the skirt a trifle full, a detail that camouflages the too plump hipline. The V neckline of this practical dress may be left plain or be treated to a soft, simple rolled collar. For strictly household wear you undoubtedly will prefer the short, fluttery type of sleeves, since they allow so much freedom for the arms, but if you desire to use the pattern for a daytime street dress, you might have long, slim sleeves that puff at the shoulders.

You will find that all types of wash fabrics make up well in this design. Washable cottons or mixtures in dark shades will be ideal for shopping tours and general street wear during the day when you're not socially occupied.

Style No. 2713 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20 years, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

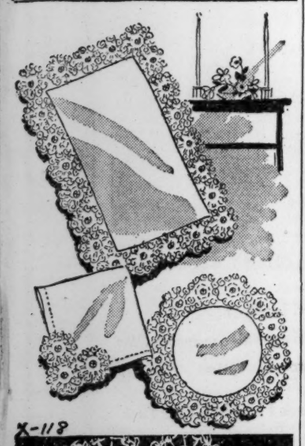
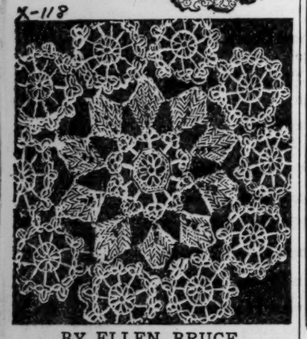
Delicate Floral Design Is Lovely in Fine Crochet





BY ELLEN BRUCE.

For the experienced crochet worker who thrives on elaborate patterns this rich and unusual crochet design is the perfect choice for fancy doilies, tray and tea cloths, and luncheon sets. Fine white mercerized crochet cotton No. 60 or 70 is the best medium for proper execution of the work. The pattern is a combination of small round flowers and delicately veined leaves.

For instructions for crocheting the flower and leaf edging, No. X-118, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Children Need Story Books of Everyday Life

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Are you a fond but long suffering mother or father or nurse who has stood for hours watching street paving, or tugboats and ocean liners, or locomotives? Such grownups often look about for well written and well illustrated books which feed these interests in children 7 and under. Below is a group of modern story books of the everyday world:

"Streets—Stories for Children Under Seven," edited by Lucy Sprague Mitchell. No. 2 of the Coöperative School pamphlets.

"Illustrations for Streets." No. 2 of the Coöperative School series. This is to go with the book called "Streets."

"Illustrations for Boats and Bridges." No. 3 of the Coöperative school series. This is to go with the book called "Boats and Bridges."

"Illustrations for Trains." No. 4 of the Coöperative school series. This is to go with the book called "Trains."

The foregoing pamphlets are obtainable from the Coöperative School for Student Teachers, 69 Bank street, New York, N. Y., for 20 cents each.

"The Here and Now Story Book," by Lucy Sprague Mitchell. Published by E. P. Dutton of New York, N. Y.

You will find nowadays on the counters of the book stores, in the libraries and in the dime stores many small books which tie up with the world that interests children under 7.

Now for your little boys and girls under 5, some much loved classics:

"Peter Rabbit," by Beatrix Potter. Published by Frederick Warne of New York, N. Y. Price, 75c.

"Mother Goose," illustrated by Kate Greenaway and others. Published by Frederick Warne. Price $1.

"Nursery Rhymes, Book 1." Illustrated by Leslie Brooke. Published by Frederick Warne, price $2. [For small books with fewer rhymes, price 60c.]

"The Little Brown Bear," by Johnny Gruelle. Published by P. T. Volland, Chicago, price 65 cents.

The Randolph Caldecott Picture Books. Published by Frederick Warne of New York, N. Y. The following may be had, bound in sets of four or singly in paper:

"The Three Jovial Huntsmen."
"Sing a Song of Sixpence."
"The Queen of Hearts."
"The Farmer's Boy."
"The House That Jack Built."
"Hey Diddle Diddle."
"A Frog He Would a-Wooing Go."
"Ride a Cock Horse."

["The Farmer's Boy" has wonderful farmyard pictures.]

Bound in sets of four, $2.25. Single, in paper, 60c.

"The Tale of Johnny Mouse," by Elizabeth Gordon. Illustrated by Maginel Wright Enright. Published by P. T. Volland, Chicago. Price 65c.

"A Visit to St. Nicholas," by Clement C. Moore. Illustrated by Jessie Wilcox Smith. Price $1.

LAST MONDAY'S QUESTIONS.

Question 8: With both sides vulnerable, the bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	?

You are South and hold:
♠ K J 9 5 2 ♥ Q 2 ♦ A Q 8 ♣ K J 9
What call do you make now?

Answer: Correct call is three no trump. You have an excellent hand [three and a half honor tricks including plus values] with strength in every suit, and balanced distribution. Any lesser bid would be absurdly conservative, and any stronger bid is unnecessary. Partner must be able to take voluntary action over three no trump if a slam contract is to be considered. [Twenty-five points demerit for three spades, 35 points demerit for two spades, 30 points demerit for 2 no trump, 40 points demerit for any diamond or club bid, 25 points demerit for any heart raise, 30 points demerit for any other bid, including 5 or 6 no trump.]

Question 9: With both sides vulnerable, the bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 spades	Pass	?

You are South and hold:

What call do you make now?

Answer: Correct call is two no trump. North, by "reversing," has shown a very good hand. You, South, hold more than you might have held for your first no trump response. You have real strength in the two unbid suits, and the fitting diamond jack. In short, enough to justify hope of a no trump game. [Thirty-five points demerit for passing, 20 points demerit for three diamonds, 40 points demerit for any other bid.]

This deal, taken from an important English match, proves that the tendency of some players to open with one club whenever they feel that a rebid may be embarrassing, is a very shortsighted policy. At one table, South worried himself sick about what he would bid if North responded to an opening spade bid with two diamonds, hence decided to get around this by bidding one club. North responded with one spade, and now East could enter the auction very comfortably. The result was that North-South were forced to five spades, defending against five diamonds [which would have been cold] and had to take a one trick defeat. At the other table, South made the supremely logical bid of one spade. West passed and North jumped to four spades. Now East, vulnerable, dared not enter the auction, and North-South stole the game.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—An enterprising young woman who buys hats—not the way you and I buy them, but who must guess what we'll want to buy six or eight months from now—swears by all that's stable in the fashion world that hats with scarf drapery in the back will be an effective and popular solution to the current hairdress problem.

Maybe you've seen them. The hat itself is tilted forward and is virtually crownless. But in the back the drapery is often in a snood effect, with scarves flying from its edge at the base of the neck. This snood idea is wonderful, whether you wear your hair high or low. If you wear it low you tuck it in beneath the snood and thus achieve the rounded line that forward tilted hats demand. Also the hat is anchored, which is comforting.

One thing that mystifies us is the fear of the double chinned to adopt the high hairdress. It's the best fashion for them that ever came down the highway. Drag your hair ends down the side of your face to the jawline and see what happens. It's squarer than ever. But draw your hair up and you've got at least an illusion of a trimmer, slimmer throatline.

We've seen it proved time and time again. The high hairdress is absolutely made to order for the heavy jowled, provided it is well executed and balanced. A lot of the scare about the upswept fashion adding years is sheer fiction. The more mature women, as a matter of fact, are taking to it a lot faster than the debutantes who haven't a contour care in the world!

Cleveland, O., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—The Cleveland Rams' hopes of a National Football league title crashed today before the amazing skill of one player—Don Hutson, left end of the Green Bay Packers. Because of Hutson, a player no one could catch, the young Cleveland team collapsed before the Packers, 28 to 7.

The game drew 18,843 fans, largest crowd to watch a professional game in Cleveland since 1923.

The victory entrenched the Packers in first place in the western division with six triumphs and two losses.

Monnett, Isbell Pitch.

The throwers of the passes for the air minded Packers were Bob Monnett and Cecil Isbell, largely the former. All four Packer touchdowns were scored by air. Clark Hinkle got one of the scoring passes. Hutson, a man Cleveland feared and followed but never could collar, took the other three.

The first Packer touchdown was from fifteen yards out. The other three came from far out on the field—fifty-three, thirty-one, and fifty yards, respectively.

Cleveland's score came in the third period on an intercepted pass.

Green Bay recovered a fumble on Cleveland's 31 yard line in the second period. The first rush was halted and Hinkle missed a field goal from the 41 yard line. Joe Laws then brought Jim Snyder's punt back to the Cleveland 29 yard line and Hinkle and Laws forced their way to the 15. Then Monnett winged a pass to the left to Hinkle, who made a spectacular catch. Monnett kicked the point.

Packers Score Again.

A few minutes later Green Bay had the ball on its 47 yard line, second down. Isbell threw a flat pass to the left. Hutson gathered in the ball and streaked down the sidelines. Three Clevelanders had a chance at him, but he went past them to the goal. Monnett added the point.

Hutson's next touchdown came five minutes before the half ended. The ball was on Cleveland's 31 yard line. Don zig zagged into the end zone, pursued by Carl Brazell and Ed Goddard. All three leaped for Monnett's throw and Hutson won. Monnett kicked again and the score was 21 to 0.

The fourth Packer touchdown came late in the third period. It was the Packers' ball on the 50 yard line. All the players on both sides knew what was coming. It would be a pass to Hutson, probably thrown by Monnett.

That's exactly what it was. Hutson slid through the befuddled Rams, Monnett threw on schedule and Don, far down the field, took the ball and sped to another score.

BIG TEN RACE IS WIDE OPEN AS A POLITICAL RALLY

N. U., Ohio State Lead, but Others Have Chance.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While Ohio State and Northwestern lead the conference race this morning with only the slight blemish of a mutual scoreless tie, Minnesota, which was beaten Saturday by the Wildcats, 6 to 3; Wisconsin, and Michigan still have a word to say in the stretch drive. There are almost as many title possibilities as teams involved.

To win at least a share in the title, the Wildcats must whip Wisconsin and Michigan. Ohio State has games with Purdue, Illinois, and Michigan. If victorious in all, the Buckeyes then would have five victories and a tie, one more conquest than Northwestern possibly could get because of the schedule limitation. But few would hesitate to call the race a deadlock between Ohio State and Northwestern, under these conditions, because of that drawn battle Oct. 15 in Dyche stadium.

The Badgers Come First.

Either Minnesota or Wisconsin definitly will be eliminated when they meet at Madison Nov. 19 in the season's finale. The Badgers, however, have an opportunity this week to eliminate Northwestern.

Michigan actually is in the best position of all the contenders, for the Wolverines no longer hope for help from other squads. Michigan received the help it needed Saturday when Northwestern whipped Minnesota.

Michigan meets the Wildcats Nov. 12 and follows with Ohio State on Nov. 19. If victorious in both games, Michigan is sure to have no worse than a tie with Wisconsin [if the Badgers beat Northwestern and Minnesota], with Minnesota [if the Gophers whip Iowa and Wisconsin] or with Ohio State [if the Buckeyes beat Purdue and Illinois].

Michigan Entirely Responsible.

In brief, if Michigan can't come through, the blame rests with itself. By virtue of its thorough blocking and speed as evidenced in the victory Saturday over Illinois, 14 to 0, Michigan must not be underrated. Sophomores Tom Harmon and Paul Kromer are at least the peers of any pair of half backs in the conference. Both are hard driving runners, excellent passers, and Kromer's kicking is equal to that of Norm Purucker, Michigan junior, who did not play against the Illini because of an injured shoulder.

Michigan also has an aggressive line which, however, does not seem to have adequate replacements at center and guard. Ralph Heikkinen, guard, and Archie Kodros, center, two of the best linemen in the Big Ten, so far haven't needed relief in major games. They only have been replaced when the result was determined.

Second Half Assault Does It.

In beating Minnesota, the Wildcats came back with a furious second half assault which finally sent Bernie Jefferson over the goal line with three minutes left in the game. That touchdown, scored in three plays after Northwestern had recovered Larry Buhler's fumble, erased the Gophers' 3 to 0 lead gained in the second period when Horace Bell, Minnesota guard, place kicked from Northwestern's 24 yard line.

While Northwestern gave no such demonstration of continued power, as did Michigan when the Wolverines marched thirty-nine yards for their touchdown against the Gophers, neither did the Wolverines constantly batter at the goal as did Northwestern Saturday. When the Gophers finally faded, their collapse was complete. Twenty yards in three plays, the last an eight yard drive by Jefferson, left no question of Wildcat superiority.

Wisconsin Keeps Pace.

Wisconsin whipped Indiana Saturday, 6 to 0, although worried by the Hoosiers' closing air raid, to keep pace with the second flight teams. Purdue, conqueror of Wisconsin a week ago, never could get its attack under way against the aroused Iowa Hawkeyes, who were equally impotent on offense. The result, a scoreless tie, was a moral victory for the

Redskins Tie Dodgers, 6 to 6, on Two Kicks

New York, Oct. 30. — (AP) — Riley Smith made good on two field goal attempts today to give the Washington Redskins a 6 to 6 tie with a surprisingly improved Brooklyn Dodger eleven, but he missed by inches on another try that would have won the game.

Although the deadlock—the second played by these two clubs this season—was a disappointment to the Redskins, it kept them out in front in the eastern division of the National Professional Football league. A crowd of 29,913, one of the largest ever to turn out for a pro grame in Ebbets field, was on hand.

Scores in First Three Minutes.

Smith booted his first field goal from thirty yards out in the first three minutes of play. His second, climaxing a sixty-seven yard Washington drive, came from the 23 yard line early in the fourth quarter.

Until Smith's second field goal the Dodgers had been leading all the way, after scoring the game's only touchdown late in the first period. Beattie Feathers intercepted a pass on the Dodger 30 yard line and ran it back forty-nine yards to the Washington 21. Four plays later, Ralph Kercheval went over from the 2, but he missed the try for extra point.

Feathers Goes to Hospital.

Feathers was hurt shortly afterward and was taken to St. Mary's hospital for X-ray examination. According to his physician, Dr. M. T. Reynolds, he suffered a fracture of the frontal sinus from a kick in the head and there is a possibility that the third vertebra also is cracked.

After having gained ten yards Feathers was tackled and while on the ground an unidentified Washington player accidently kicked him full in the face. He will be confined to bed for several days at least, his physician said.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The Notre Dame-Army football series, which reached its silver anniversary at Yankee stadium yesterday, has arrived at the point where many Irish supporters are pulling for a West Point victory. . . . It has been eight years, two complete generations of Cadets, since Army last defeated Notre Dame. . . . It is a question how long the game can continue as the nation's greatest intersectional attraction when the result is almost a foregone conclusion. . . . The saving grace of the situation is the fact that while the tally sheet may be all Notre Dame, the competition on the field has been close enough to keep interest at what the boys in Oskaloosa like to call fever pitch. . . . This department has been watching Army-Notre Dame games intermittently since 1919, the year Knute Rockne first brought a team east as head coach, and we never have seen a one sided contest. . . . There certainly was no marked superiority for either team yesterday until the waning moments when the Cadets had to yield to the Army adage that victory rests with the side that has the stronger reserves.

When a young man is graduated from West Point he ranks as a second lieutenant, but your correspondent suggests they do something special about Harry Stella of Kankakee, Ill., who was listed as Army's left tackle, but who actually was a whole line in himself. . . . They ought to make him a major, at least. . . . From our nook of observation he was the best player on the field. . . . That covers a lot of territory, because there were some pretty fair linemen on the Notre Dame side, too, not the least important of whom was Ed Beinor. . . . The trouble with Beinor was that he didn't start to play until the third quarter. . . . Stella was in there from beginning to end. . . . He banged 'em and whanged 'em and scattered and slew. . . . It became almost monotonous to hear the voice through the amplifying system announce: "The tackle was made by Stella."

It is becoming increasingly apparent that this is the best team Elmer Layden has had at Notre Dame. . . . It plays smart, heads up football. . . . Its alertness in recovering its kickoff in the third quarter while Army players were trying to make up their minds what to do with the bounding ball is a case in point. . . . Steve Sitko is establishing himself as a quarter back who merits a place with the distinguished dynasty of Notre Dame field generals that includes Gus Dorais, Joe Brandy, Chet Grant, Harry Stuhldreher, and Frank Carideo. . . . It was his expert thinking that started Joe Thesing on his forty-eight yard touchdown run that definitly ended Army's chances for victory. . . . Sitko previously had called a play that sprang Ben Sheridan loose for a thirty yard sprint down the right side lines to the 1 foot line. . . . A few moments later he called a play that started similarly but wound up as a reverse from Sheridan to Thesing. . . . Before the Cadets knew exactly what was going on they were being mowed down by effective blocking until Thesing was in the clear. . . . That was Notre Dame football of the old Rockne type. . . . You can't win football games against teams like Army by the cerebral route alone. . . . You've got to have ball carriers who know how to step when opportunities develop. . . . Notre Dame has them. . . . You won't find many backfields this season equipped with niftier runners than Sheridan, Saggau, Thesing, Peipul, and Zontini.

Wayne, Toledo Relations Near Breaking Point

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Severance of football relations between Wayne and Toledo universities, rivals on the gridiron for seventeen years, was threatened tonight as a consequence of a dressing room incident involving Dr. Clarence W. Spears, Toledo's head coach, and Wayne coaches.

Coach Joe Gembis of Wayne, who said Dr. Spears tried to strike him during hot words over the officiating at yesterday's Toledo-Wayne game, asserted he feared the two schools might have to break relations "because we've always had trouble with Doc."

Accounts from the principals varied—Spears insisting he had made no hostile move and Gembis charging "Doc swung at me"—but it was agreed that fists had figured in a tense few minutes of dispute after the game.

How It All Started.

After the game, which Toledo won, 39 to 20, Spears walked across the field and entered Wayne's dressing room. Gembis said Spears began to quarrel over the officiating, charging "the worst bunch of homers I ever saw" had worked the game. Toledo had been penalized seventy yards.

"He started arguing about the officiating," Gembis said. "I asked him to leave and he said he'd leave when he 'got damned ready.' I opened the door and took him by the arm and he swung at me. I put my guard up and then one of the freshman coaches jumped in and let him have it. He swung back and then we separated them and got him out."

Says Spears Agreed to Officials.

Gembis said that at tomorrow's expected meeting with faculty superiors he would be ready to submit correspondence to prove that Dr. Spears had agreed to the engagement of the game's officials.

"I'm sorry it all happened," he said, "because it only hurts everybody. Football's only a game and we try to make it that here."

SPEARS DENIES STARTING IT.

Dr. Spears yesterday denied he was the aggressor in the dressing room brawl in Detroit on Saturday.

Spears, who attended the Bears-Lions game in Wrigley field yesterday, declared he walked into the dressing room to visit Coach Gembis and that the Wayne coach resented his presence after the Rockets had marked up the victory.

"Gembis told me to leave when I walked in," Spears said. "I said, 'wait a minute, Joe, I have no complaints about the game.' Then some one struck at me while I wasn't looking and I departed after swinging back—but I didn't hit anybody."

Spears added he left on his own accord when the attitude of the Wayne coach "took me by surprise."

HARTNETT HOME; HE'LL CHAT WITH BIG BOSS TODAY

There's That Question of New Playing Strength.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Gabby Hartnett, manager of the Cubs, and his muskie, which weighed thirty-four pounds when he pulled it out of Lake Tomahawk recently and slightly more in its present stuffed condition, arrived home from the north woods yesterday. This morning Gabby will hang the fish over his desk in Wrigley field, then go downtown to hold a conference with his big boss, P. K. Wrigley.

Attending the session, Gabby said between halves at the Bears-Lions game in Wrigley field yesterday, will be Clarence Rowland, Cubs' main flesh mart man, who will report on some stars he thinks Mr. Wrigley might be able to buy and more of the other kind, the ones not for sale at any price. At this season of the year, it is said, Mr. Rowland, a personable and beaming optimist, likes to group the attainable and the unattainable in one happy dream.

Leaves, Returns Unexpectedly.

Gabby hasn't paid much attention to baseball matters since he took to the woods two days after he got back from the world series. As the homecoming train pulled in from New York Gabby made a little speech which Mr. Wrigley though a bit too emotional. Gabby left much sooner than he had expected.

And Gabby returned as precipitately as he departed. He hadn't been expected for several weeks. He was going to get a moose and some other big game, but his trigger finger, one of the two that handicapped him in the closing days of the season and in the sad world series, was too stiff for the best in marksmanship. So Gabby decided not to take any chances at being tossed on a charging moose's antlers.

Knows the Answer Now.

While in South Dakota, you perhaps read, Gabby was made a chief of the Sioux tribe. The Indians were mighty fine to him, after dubbing him Chief Brave Cub. Gabby hung around with Indians for several days and, it is reported, pleased Owner Wrigley very much by taking lessons from the Sioux on restraining loquaciousness. Chief Wise Owl told Gabby that when interviewers ask him questions about rebuilding the Cubs the best possible answer, until he can check with the front office, is a pleasant but firm "Ugh."

Owner Wrigley, Front Man Rowland, and Manager Hartnett will have about five weeks to shadow box before the slave mart opens officially in New Orleans. There is no official rule which says it is necessary to wait for the winter meetings to make trades, but the nabobs usually wait until the minor league winter meetings early in December before they start revealing their swapping and buying schemes.

It's a Question of Publicity.

Football is pretty well out of the way by then and the deals—also the poppings off—can grab much space in the public prints and many cubic yards of radio ether.

Cameramen will be able to get something at the Wrigley building conference this morning, even if the baseball authors don't. Or maybe there will be something definite about the strange case of Tony Lazzeri.

TAXES TOO HIGH; HUBBELL MOVES TO FORT WORTH

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Carl Hubbell, New York Giants ace pitcher, has moved his residence from Meeker, Okla., to Fort Worth, Tex. Tom F. Carey, Oklahoma City accountant, blamed Oklahoma's income tax law and Hubbell confirmed the report in Fort Worth.

"I had thought of moving to Fort Worth last spring," said Hubbell, "on account of some oil interests down here. When they came to me last August with a big tax bill, just for living in Oklahoma a few months of the year, it clinched the matter."

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Detroit's hard running Lions brought the Chicago Bears' championship march to a halt on Wrigley field yesterday by kicking and running their way to a 13 to 7 victory in a National football league game.

Led by William L. Shepherd, of Western Maryland, who gained 152 yards in eighteen assorted excursions through a desperate Bear defense, the Lions took a six point lead on two field goals in the second period, dropped behind, 7 to 6, in the fourth and won out in the final minutes with a seventy-three yard march to the deciding touchdown.

Regis Monahan, former Ohio State guard, opened the scoring early in the second quarter with a field goal from a 45 degree angle after a Lion drive had come to grief on the Bears' 6 yard line. A few minutes later another Lion foray bogged down on the Bears' 11 yard line and Earl [Dutch] Clark, the Lions' coach, came in to place kick successfully, also from a sharp angle.

Sets Scoring Record.

Clark's kick gave him the all-time National league scoring championship with a total of 304 points, three more than the old record held by Verne Lewellen, former Green Bay star. It was the second time in his fifteen year career as a football player in high school, college, and the National league that Clark had place kicked. Famed as one of the greatest of all the drop kickers, Clark attempted his first place kick this season against Cleveland, and made it.

Detroit held the upper hand throughout the first half and the early part of the third period. Shortly before the end of the third quarter Ray Nolting, Bear half back, returned Vernon Huffman's punt six yards to the Bears' 37 yard line. Ten plays netted three first downs and fifty-five yards, placing the ball on Detroit's 8 yard line as the quarter ended.

The Bears extracted a measure of revenge on Shepherd for the show he made of the left side of their line throughout the game by victimizing him for their only touchdown on the first play of the fourth period.

On Fourth Down, Too.

It was a fourth down play. The Bears came out of the huddle into their regular T formation. Bernie Masterson slipped out from his place under center and took a position outside his right end. The ball was snapped to Ray Buivid, who, with a cordon of escorts, began to move to the left as if on a wide sweep. When Shepherd, covering up in the end

Lions Are Told to Win Game for Coach—They Do

The Detroit Lions heard a rather unusual dressing room pep talk yesterday before going out onto Wrigley field to defeat the Chicago Bears. This is why:

A radio reporter had said in a broadcast Saturday night that Jock Sutherland, coach at the University of Pittsburgh, would displace Dutch Clark as Detroit's coach next season. Owner Dick Richards of the Lions, in Beverly Hills, Cal., heard the report and wished to do something about it.

So he arranged for a long distance call into the Lions' dressing room and a loud speaker. Calling just before gametime, Richards explained that the story was untrue and that Clark would remain with the Lions. He also asked his team to go out and win the game for Dutch. It did.

CHICAGO RACING CLOSES TODAY AT SPORTSMAN'S

17 Are Named for 2 1/8 Mile Feature.

Sportsman's Park will close the Chicago racing season this afternoon leaving the stage set for track operators to argue over dates for the 1939 season.

With the running of the eight race program at the west side half mile track today the last bit of thoroughbred action until May 1 will be on view for Chicagoans. The action for the rest of the week, and throughout November, will take place in the offices of the Illinois racing commission. The six local tracks presumably will have filed their applications for next year's dates by midnight tonight to comply with the state law.

Get Answers by Dec. 1.

Some time between Nov. 15 and Dec. 1 the commission is to let them know the answers.

Sportsman's Park's final program features the track's most interesting race. The endurance test, at two miles and an eighth, a marathon that will bring the horses past the stands five times, is the feature this afternoon. Though other tracks may lament the lack of hardy thoroughbreds to race in such distance events, Sportsman's Park has no complaint. Seventeen were named overnight for the endurance contest.

Wanderobo, already a winner at Sportsman's at a mile and seven furlongs; Pennlist, Perfect One, and Salteo are included in the oversize list of nominees.

Run at Mile and 70 Yards.

The secondary feature, the Chicago handicap, drew the better horses, but over no such gruelling distance as the two and an eighth miles. In the Chicago handicap Mrs. A. M. Creech's entry of Gato and Shining Heels, Clarence Davison's pair, Chance Ray and Masterpiece, and Mo, Our Reigh, and Khar Fair will meet at a mile and 70 yards.

The National Jocky club winds up its nineteen day meeting with the figures all in black ink, blacker even than a year ago. A daily average of approximately $220,000 went through the new totalizator. Perfect weather helped swell the attendance totals.

Zale and Clark Meet Tonight in Return Bout

Tony Zale, member of the 1934 intercity Golden Gloves team, will return to action tonight in a rubber match of eight rounds with Jimmy Clark, Jamestown, N. Y., middleweight, in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

In previous meetings each scored a knockout, Clark winning the first in one round, Feb. 21, and Zale the second in eight rounds, June 13.

Don Swensen, St. Paul junior welterweight, will make his first Chicago appearance in another contest of eight rounds against Bob Tinsley.

In another eight round encounter Henry Schaft, Minneapolis middleweight, is paired with Jimmy Sheppard of Peoria.

Dick Kist, Danville welterweight, will try for his sixth victory in a row against Johnny Panek of South Chicago in the four round opening bout.

Jack Conley, Boston heavyweight wrestler, and Hans Schnabel will clash in the main event of Fred Kohler's mat card in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. They meet for one fall with a one hour and a half time limit. Jim Hefner meets Frankie Hart, Farmer Mack encounters Walter Palmer, Jack Hagen faces Roy Rickenbacher, and Otto Schnabel engages Stanley Pinta. . . . Scotty Withers, Detroit heavyweight, is to be substituted for Frank Kapinsky against Henry Wadser in a preliminary to the ten round bout between Tony Musto and Max Marek in the Park Casino on Wednesday.

Eight amateur boxing matches and two wrestling bouts will be included on the annual card sponsored by the Paulina and Grand Social club in St. Columbkille auditorium, Grand avenue and Paulina street, tonight. . . . Funeral services will be held this morning for Boxer Harry Dublinsky's father, Promoter Tom Gallery's mother, and for Marty Henderson, former featherweight fighter. F. M.

Chicago Riders Will Compete in Six Day Bike Race

Chicago riders who made their mark in the amateur ranks will be conspicuous in the six day bicycle race which starts in the Stadium Sunday night. The outstanding Chicago riders will be Jerry Rodman, Cecil Yates, and Charley Yaccino. Manager Harry Mendel also may use Mickey Rodak, but Mickey's entrance into the race is not definite.

The riders from out of town who made their reputations in Chicago are Bobby Thomas and Albin Jurca, both of Kenosha, Wis. Thomas was the national amateur road champion about five years ago. He turned professional and made good in the six day bike game, while Jurca won the national amateur road title last summer and is turning professional for this race.

Rodman and Yates are the outstanding Chicago riders. Yates is faster, but Rodman is a better jammer. They will be on separate teams and there is much rivalry between them. Yaccino is one of the best young prospects. He was a good amateur rider.

Rodak, brother of Leo Rodak, the boxer, may cause some of the stars some trouble if he rides in the race.

Pimlico Puts on Its Finery for Big Race

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Old "Hilltop"—meaning Pimlico—where many a thoroughbred has galloped to glory, was all primped and primed today for the greatest race of its long lifetime, the Seabiscuit-War Admiral duel with supremacy of the American turf at stake.

The hump in the middle of the field is there no longer. Time was when a body could stand at the rail and peer over the mound in the infield and get a marvelous view of the houses and trees beyond.

You could see everything but the horses then. But all is changed now. They've removed that hump which gave Pimlico its nickname, and now the promise is that each and every one of the 50,000 people expected to see the race will be able to follow the horses from start to finish.

Should Settle Arguments.

A goodly number of the faithful, lured by clear, crisp, sunshiny weather, and an ample amount of curiosity, turned out at the track today and watched Seabiscuit and War Admiral go through their paces.

It was only a preview today. But on Tuesday, with $15,000 and the recognized crown of racing at stake, the people will see the two greatest thoroughbreds of the present era matched in a duel which will settle, temporarily, at least, the Seabiscuit-War Admiral arguments.

Young Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, vice president of the Maryland Jocky club and a horseman both by heredity and inclination, engineered this match between C. S. Howard's Seabiscuit and Samuel Riddle's War Admiral.

Provision for Bad Weather.

His negotiations with the owners of the two fanciest steppers of the present day give promise that the most argued issue of the turf will be settled one way or another over a mile and three-sixteenths route on Pimlico's cushioned oval.

If the weather is bad on Tuesday, the race will be postponed until Thursday. Jervis Spencer Jr., chairman of the Maryland state racing commission, will act as weather man. He will look over the track Tuesday morning and announce early in the day whether the race will be run Tuesday or Thursday.

PIRIE CAPTURES TEMPEL SMITH DINGHY TROPHY

Lockwood M. Pirie won the Tempel Smith trophy in Belmont harbor yesterday. With Joe Haller as crew, Pirie raced his D class Dyer dinghy to a lead of 85 points. Six races were sailed and Pirie won two. Leeds Mitchell Jr. was second in the series Ed Schnabel Jr., third, and Fred Scott, fourth.

Mrs. Jerry Masek, with Jack Holbrook as crew, won the Columbia Yacht club's two opening races for the Baccarat trophy in her Frostbite dinghy Boots. The short course was sailed in Grant park harbor. Cadet, sailed by Miss Betty Ruth Friend, was second in both races.

Willis Ware and Jack Holbrook won the club race open to all skippers. They sailed the B class dinghy Mr. Big. Stan Thal, and Jack May, in Cadet, owned by Milton Friend Jr., was runner up.

ST. PAUL GETS NATIONAL FIGURE SKATING MEET

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The 1939 national figure skating meet has been awarded to the St Paul Figure Skating club, to be held Jan. 19, 20, 21, and the North American figure skating competition to the Granite Club of Toronto, Joseph K. Savage, president of the United States Figure Skating association, announced at the annual meeting tonight. Dates for the North American event have not been set.

A new perpetual trophy, donated by Bedell H. Harned of New York, will be put into competition at this year's national meet. It will go each year to the club winning the greatest number of points.

The Olympic committee of the U. S. F. S. A. announced that preliminary plans for the selection of the 1940 Olympic figure skating team had been approved and submitted to the American Olympic committee. No special trials will be held, but the result of the national, North American, and other important meets will be the basis of selecting a team.

HELEN MOODY TO TALK TODAY ON TENNIS YEARS

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody will describe her tennis career today when she speaks for the first time in Chicago at the luncheon meeting of the English Speaking union in the Palmer house. Privately made films of Mrs. Moody's outstanding tennis battles through the years from 1923 to the summer of this year will be shown.

She will stress the influence of sports in creating a better understanding among nations, in addition to relating her experiences with personalities of many countries.

Samuel M. Rinaker, president of the union, has announced the meeting will be open to the public as well as to members.

Low Water in Illinois Valley Slows Hunting

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Duck Hunter, here is further news about the duck situation in the Illinois river valley. On a recent trip into the Snicarte, Crane lake, and Stafford lake area below Bath, Ill., we found conditions as follows:

WATER LEVEL—Everybody along the Illinois is complaining about the low water which is making it doubly difficult for the hunters. On our recent visit to Fletcher and Stafford lakes, not far from the village of Snicarte, we found the water so low that you could walk across Fletcher lake.

Judging by the height of thousands of lotus plants, whose stems rise above the mud, the lake is down from two to three feet. Without heavy rains there isn't a chance to bring the lakes back to normal and good hunting levels. The same drouth condition prevails in many other small lakes, sloughs, and marshes.

NUMBER OF DUCKS—There are enough ducks along the Illinois to provide good hunting. But during the warm, summery days last week the shooting didn't keep one from taking a nap in the blind and getting a good case of sunburn. All the guides could talk about was a rip snorter of a storm to stir up the springs and mallards and get them to moving. There are still birds in the north that haven't come down. [Last year the Snicarte country saw a big flight of northern mallards around the middle of November].

When we shot on the weedy point between Fletcher and Stafford lakes a few days ago we saw thousands of pintails and mallards. Some were on the move, others sitting way out in the middle of the lake. Not many of them worked our stool of decoys, although we had a lot of fun with the greenwing teal which flashed past our blind with a 35 mile an hour wind behind them.

In addition to large flocks of pintails and mallards there were quite a few blackjacks, and a few gadwalls and widgeon. Spoonbills were in the air much of the time. Apparently this species is staging a real comeback. Just four canvasbacks went by our shooting place. But Ken Fletcher [in a blind on our right] didn't hurt them with any of his No. 5 shot!

Manhattans and Spartas Win Easily

BY OFFSIDE.

One of the largest crowds of the soccer season yesterday watched the Spartas, national champions, defeat the Swedish-Americans, 6 to 1, and the Manhattan Brewers rout Hansa of the International league, 10 to 0, in a double-header in Sparta stadium.

Neilson, with five goals, and Salcedo, who scored four times, led the Hansa rout. The Spartas were given more of a fight by the Swedes than the score indicates. For thirty minutes the champions were held scoreless. Vicek and Wolf counted near the end of the first period to give the Spartas a 2 to 0 lead at the half. They gradually increased this advantage in the last half, completely outplaying the Swedes in the final 15 minutes while adding their final three goals.

An upset took place yesterday in the major division when the German-Americans dealt the Olympias an 8 to 2 defeat. Lineups:

The Power House Candy Bars went into a tie for second place in the Classic Bowling league last night at the St. Andrews alleys. They bowled 1,008, 992 and 1,039 for a 3,039 total and won three games from the Prager Beers. Clarence Garant's 258 was high individual game for the night. The Monarch Beers, in winning two games from the Baby Ruth Candies, took the league lead by one game over the Pabst Blue Ribbon Beers, who lost two to the Ambrosia Beers. The Schlitz Beers defeated the Thompsons three times and are tied with the latter for third place. Scores:

Fenwick went into undisputed possession of first place in the north division and Mount Carmel took over the south section lead yesterday as each eleven scored its fourth straight Catholic High school league football victory.

Fenwick dealt Weber its first defeat, 13 to 0, before 8,000 in Mills stadium, while Mount Carmel, scoring once in the second quarter and twice in the fourth, whipped St. Mel, 18 to 0. Both Fenwick and Mount Carmel have held league opponents scoreless, meanwhile amassing 44 and 63 points, respectively.

Leo Triumphs, 20 to 6.

In other games the undefeated De La Salle eleven was beaten, 20 to 6, by Leo; St. Rita scored in the first quarter to beat Catholic of Joliet, 6 to 0; St. Ignatius routed St. Philip, 23 to 0, and Loyola triumphed over St. George, 13 to 0. A crowd of 33,000 saw Leo and De La Salle meet in Soldiers' field for the benefit of the Sisters of Mercy college building fund.

Both of the Fenwick touchdowns were scored by Capt. Johnny Barrett, the first on a three yard plunge which completed a seventy-five yard march in the first quarter, and the second on a four yard drive off tackle after another long march in the second period.

Hawkey Leads Leo.

Hall, Andretich, and McCallum went over for the Mount Carmel touchdowns, Andretich running sixteen yards and McCallum thirty to score in the final quarter. Norman Hawkey, who replaced McGowan in the Leo back field, was the hero of the Lions' triumph over De La Salle, scoring twice on an eight yard drive in the second period and on a fifty-three yard sprint in the last quarter.

LEAVES BENCH TO TACKLE RUNNER AS XAVIER WINS

Cincinnati O., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Xavier university defeated Providence college, 33 to 7, today in a game marked by interference from the bench.

A crowd of 12,000, largest of the season, saw John Barnini, Providence center, get too enthusiastic while sitting on the bench and rush out to tackle Tom Hogan of Xavier as the Musketeer quarter back headed for a touchdown in the second period.

The tackle was neatly and efficiently executed, but the officials awarded the touchdown to Xavier anyway, holding that the field was clear for Hogan to score. It was the Musketeers' fourth straight victory this season.

LIONS KICK PAIR OF FIELD GOALS AND BEAT BEARS

zone, drifted out and came up to stop Buivid's run. Bill Karr slipped in behind Shepherd and took Buivid's pass for the score. Joe Maniaci kicked the extra point.

Behind for the first time, the Lions began to apply the pressure in earnest, opening with a nineteen yard sprint by Shepherd, and a twenty-four yard reverse by Lloyd Cardwell, which brought the disappointing crowd of 24,356 to its feet screaming and the Bears' to their knees on their 25 yard line. A signal mixup in the Lion back field led to a loose ball on the next play and Stydahar recovered on the Bears' 37 yard line.

An exchange of the ball on intercepted passes kept the fighting, hard charging Shepherd in check for a few minutes, but after Francis had punted out of bounds on Detroit's 27 yard line he organized the winning assault. Lunges inside and outside of Stydahar netted him fifteen yards in two plays. Then, on his third thrust at this position, Dick Plasman came in from end to help Stydahar and Shepherd slid out over the vacant position for thirty-five yards, placing the ball on the Bears' 23 yard line.

They Keep Going.

Paul Szakash, Cardwell, and Shepherd moved it up to the Bears' 10 in three plays. Cardwell and Shepherd added three each. Dick Schweidler, the Bears' fastest back, replaced Maniaci at right half back to protect against wide reverses on the open side of the field. The Lions drew him in by sending Shepherd outside of left tackle for two more yards, then reversed Cardwell around the fleet but confused Schweidler for the touchdown that give them their first victory over the Bears in Chicago since they entered the league in 1930 as the Portsmouth Spartans. Monahan added the extra point.

Pitting their running game against the Bears vaunted powerhouse attack, the Lions relied largely on their defensive ability and the running of Shepherd and Cardwell, although they set a record for themselves by attempting eleven passes. Three were completed for nineteen yards. The defense met the test by holding the Bears to eighty-three yards and four first downs by rushing and Shepherd and Cardwell held up their end by contributing most of the eleven first downs and 214 yards the Lions made by rushing.

Lion Defense Is Rugged.

Pass defense, perennially one of the Lions' shortcomings, especially against the Bears' Masterson to Karr combination, again proved their only weakness, even though they were vastly improved in this respect over the team the Bears whipped twice last year. They broke up fifteen of the Bears' twenty-three attempts, intercepting three. The eight completions, however, went for 125 yards and six points. Statistical totals were: First downs, Bears, nine; Lions, fifteen; yards gained, Bears, 208; Lions, 233.

The excellence of the Lions' defense is reflected in the fact that the Bears crossed midfield only three times, including their touchdown march. Their only advance into Lion territory in the first half carried to the 9 yard line, from where Maniaci's attempt to place kick was blocked. In the third period they drove to the Lions' 30 yard line, but Maniaci fumbled and Huffman recovered.

RODEO CLOSES; ROBERTS TAKES THREE TITLES

Ken Roberts of Fort Smith, Ark., emerged as the all-around star of the eighteen-day world championship rodeo, which closed in the Chicago Stadium last night. Prize money totaling $18,000 was distributed.

Roberts had the best average time for the meeting in three events—bare-back bronco riding, bronco riding with saddle and wild steer riding. Oran Fore of Newhall, Cal., was second in the final standings with victories in the wild cow milking and calf roping contests, while Andy Curtis of El Reno, Cal., won the meet award for proficiency in steer wrestling.

Red Cross to Open Course in Lake Shore Pool Tonight

The American Red Cross will open a course tonight in the Lake Shore Athletic club swimming pool for licensed Red Cross examiners. D. Melville Carr, director of first aid and life saving of the Red Cross Chicago chapter, will be in charge of the six week course.

John Rahkonen Triumphs in 30,000 Meter Title Walk

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—John Rahkonen of the Finnish-American A. C. won the 30,000 meter national A. A. U. championship walk today.

Big Ten Title Battle Is a Free-for-All

Hawks and their answer to campus critics.

Ohio State won its intersectional game with New York university, 32 to 0. Chicago scored its first victory of the season over DePauw, 34 to 14.

Eighty-one thousand saw Notre Dame's fourth period rally whip Army, 19 to 7, in the twenty-fifth consecutive game between the schools. Army's initial drive provided a lead that withstood Notre Dame's attack in the third period because the Irish couldn't kick the tying point. Ben Sheridan's speed and open field running provided the opportunity for his winning touchdown and Full Back Joe Thesing's long run brought the last score.

The Irish Are Good.

By its victory Saturday Notre Dame has removed all doubt that this team has a splendid opportunity to continue to the best record since Elmer Layden took charge of his alma mater. Despite Navy's excellent record, including a scoreless tie with the revived Pennsylvania team Saturday, the Irish should beat the Midshipmen. Then come Minnesota, Northwestern, and Southern California.

Southern California, defeated only by Alabama in the opening game, remains unbeaten in the Pacific Coast conference race and is tied with California, defending champion. The Trojans whipped Oregon, 31 to 7, Saturday. California beat Oregon State, 13 to 7. Those leaders meet this week in Los Angeles.

Pittsburgh rallied in the fourth quarter to beat Fordham, 24 to 13, the first licking for the Rams. Pitt's final drives not only ended the three year cycle of scoreless ties, but offered evidence, if more proof was necessary, that the Panthers are one of football's all-time great teams. Tennessee marched oh undefeated and is undisputed leader in the Southeastern conference. The Vols beat Louisiana, 14 to 6, while Vanderbilt was dropping Georgia Tech from a share in the leadership, 13 to 7.

Baylor Goes Out.

Texas Christian ran over Baylor, 39 to 7, to remove the latter from the list of leading teams in the Southwest conference. Baylor previously had won one conference game and had been tied. Rice institute, which has won its only conference game so far, whipped Auburn, 14 to 0, in an intersectional contest.

Dartmouth made gridiron history in the east when the undefeated Green downed Yale, 24 to 6. It is the first time in history that Dartmouth has scored a sweep over Princeton, Harvard, and Yale.

Duke whipped North Carolina, 14 to 0, in the all-important battle for the leadership in the Southern conference.

Penn State's 33 to 6 victory over Syracuse was the upset of Saturday's schedule. However, Santa Clara, undefeated and boosted as one of the ranking teams in the nation, barely nosed out Michigan State, 7 to 6, the winning touchdown being made with the aid of a blocked kick.

Day Defeats Jackson to Win Match Bowling Title

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., won the world's match bowling championship tonight when he amassed a point score of 584.35 to 552.18 for Lowell Jackson of St. Louis. His margin was 32.17. Day won six of tonight's ten games after taking seven this afternoon. The total pin score was 25,935 to 24,918, a margin of 1,017. Day averaged 216; Jackson, 207.

Grange Will Address Michigan Club's Luncheon

Red Grange, former University of Illinois football star, will address the University of Michigan club of Chicago's fall football luncheon at 12:15 o'clock today. It will be held in Harding's restaurant in the Fair store.

ST. AMBROSE IS STILL UNBEATEN; PLAYS 0 TO 0 TIE

Davenport, Ia., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—St. Ambrose of Davenport and St. Benedict from Atchison, Kas., played a scoreless tie this afternoon before 8,000. St. Ambrose thus ran its string of games without defeat to twenty-nine. St. Benedict also was undefeated and untied this season before the game.

Neither team got within the other's 10 yard line.

St. Benedict got nine first downs to six for St. Ambrose, but the Davenport eleven led in rushing, 128 yards to 119. The Atchison team took the ball to the St. Ambrose 20 yard line in the second quarter, where a fourth down pass over the goal line failed.

In the second half St. Ambrose advanced to the 21 yard line before being stopped.

RUNYAN'S 282 WINS ARGENTINE OPEN GOLF TITLE

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., United States P. G. A. champion, today won the Argentine open golf championship with a record score of 282 for 72 holes. He took a prize of 1,500 pesos, approximately $385.

Andres Perez and Martin Pose, Argentine professionals, tied for second place, one stroke behind Runyan. Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., only other North American entry, had a score of 294 while Syd Brews of South Africa had 291.

Coaches Give Entire Purple Squad Credit

Coach Lynn Waldorf yesterday attributed Northwestern's 6 to 3 victory over Minnesota on Saturday to superior reserves which enabled the Wildcats to "keep the pressure on in the last quarter."

Waldorf refrained from singling out any individual for special commendation. He said he thought the outcome of the game hinged upon Northwestern's ability to carry the fight to the Gophers in the closing minutes.

"It was a real scenario finish, wasn't it?" he told well wishers. "It looked for a long time as if we weren't going to push that touchdown across, but our reserves proved too much for Minnesota."

Burt's Proud of Line.

Line Coach Burt Ingwersen said: "I was mighty proud of our line in the second half. We weren't charging as we should in the first half, but the boys really boomed all the way in the second half."

Bob Voigts, veteran tackle, who recovered a fumble to place the Wildcats in scoring position in the third quarter, praised the sportsmanship of the vanquished Gophers.

"They were a great bunch of fellows. It was a hard fought game, but a mighty clean game."

Paul Soper, sophomore half who did not get in the game, revealed the spirit of the Wildcat squad when he said, "I am as happy as though I scored the touchdown myself. We've got a great team."

No One Is Injured.

Aside from minor bumps and bruises, the Wildcats suffered no injuries from the game. Don Guritz, who was forced out of the game from exhaustion in the fourth quarter, quickly recovered in the dressing room.

Bernie Bierman of Minnesota was quick to hand credit to the Wildcats.

"They won on fight and breaks, but I don't want to emphasize the breaks over the fight. They clearly outfought us. Our gang got tired and Northwestern's subs kept putting pep into the team. When Northwestern got going in the second half, we couldn't stop them forever."

BULLDOGS GET EVEN; CONQUER BENGALS, 48 TO 17

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Running over a team that beat them out, 3 to 0, several weeks ago, the Los Angeles Bulldogs defeated the Cincinnati Bengals, 48 to 17, in a professional football game today.

The Bulldogs led, 27 to 17, at the half, with Gordon Gore, half back, scoring one of his three touchdowns of the day on a sixty-five yard gallop. The Los Angeles pros scored three touchdowns in the third quarter and the officials were kept busy quieting numerous squabbles among the rival players.

Mike Martinovich, Cincinnati back, kicked a field goal from the 38 yard line. A long pass from Warwick, half back, to Berry, Bengal end, good for fifty yards, brought one touchdown, and a fifty-five yard drive in seven plays accounted for the other Cincinnati touchdown.

North End League to End First Round Tonight

The North End Traveling Bowling league will wind up its first round tonight with the leading Joseph L. Gill team meeting the Michelobs at the Gold Coast alleys and the second place Fox De Luxe team taking on the Bowler's Record quintet at Sportsman's Recreation. Other matches:

Sid and Mikes vs. Westers at the Bryn Mawr.
Birk Bros. vs. Keeleys at Stack & Ryan.
Samuelsons vs. Pepsi-Colas at Milford.

Luckman Will Be Out of Game with Virginia

New York, Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Sid Luckman, Columbia's passing star who was disabled early in the Cornell game Saturday, had muscles in his right side torn, medical examination revealed today. Slight hope is held for his appearance in the lineup Saturday when the Lions meet Virginia, but he is expected to be ready to play against Navy the following week.

Hawks Arrive to Prepare for Season Opening

The Blackhawks, back in Chicago for final workouts prior to their 1938-'39 opening against the New York Americans in the Stadium Thursday night, will scrimmage in the Chicago arena today. Yesterday the Hawks returned from Cleveland, where they defeated the Barons of the International-American league, 2 to 1, Saturday, and indulged in a ninety minute practice in the arena.

Manager Bill Stewart was pleased by the showing of Paul Goodman, recruit goalie, who played the first period without being scored on. Goodman's work means that the position which caused so much trouble in last season's Toronto Maple Leaf-Blackhawk finals, now will be a matter of little concern. Mike Karakas and Goodman seem to be about on a par.

Tomorrow and Wednesday the world champions go into the Stadium for final workouts before their thirteenth hocky season gets under way.

President W. J. Tobin announced that Harold Jackson, Ab Demarco, and Phil Besler, three of the most promising youngsters the Hawks have uncovered in years, were farmed to the Providence Reds of the eastern division of the International-American league. They left for Providence after Saturday's game. The first named two have been loaned for the full season. Besler, who led all the scorers of the Pacific Coast league last season with twenty-five goals, is subject to immediate recall.

Retaining Jack Shill, who can play either center or left wing, and Roger Jenkins, who can fill in at right wing or on defense, the Hawks will be strong in reserve strength.

"Famed for Flavor"

PATRICK J. EGAN, RETIRED FIRE MARSHAL, DIES

Cited for Heroic Work in Many Disasters.

Patrick J. Egan, retired division fire marshal and department inspector, died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 4320 Kenmore avenue. He was 65 years old. Until his retirement two years ago Mr. Egan had witnessed most of the big fires in the city.

Mr. Egan was made a lieutenant in 1901, captain in 1907, battalion chief after the stockyards fire in 1910, and an assistant fire marshal in 1917. In later years he became first division fire marshal, and in 1929 was appointed head of the fire prevention bureau.

Patrick J. Egan.

Fought Elevator Fire.

His first big fire was the elevator blaze and explosion at Jefferson street and Grand avenue in 1896, shortly after he had joined the department. Eight firemen were killed in the blast. Three years later he helped fight the fire in the Ayres building, Wabash avenue and Adams street, in which fifteen persons lost their lives.

In the Iroquois theater disaster Dec. 30, 1903, in which 602 were trapped in the flames, Mr. Egan played a prominent part in rescue work. In 1907 he narrowly escaped death at the Apollo hall fire on Roosevelt road. The walls of the building collapsed and he was thrown fifty feet from a window in which he had been standing. He and fifteen other firemen were seriously injured.

Rescued Eastland Survivors.

As chief of battalion 1, Mr. Egan was the first to take charge of the rescue work in the Eastland excursion boat disaster in 1915. He received special commendation for his work.

He is survived by his widow, Margaret. The funeral will be held at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday from the chapel at 1353 Devon avenue to St. Mary's of the Lake church, Sheridan road and Buena avenue.

DAVID B. CARSE, ONCE ASSOCIATE OF MORGAN, DIES

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—David Bradley Carse, 74 years old, a widely known consulting engineer and former member of the advisory committee of the United States Steel corporation, died today of bronchial pneumonia.

As a consulting engineer for J. P. Morgan & Co. he was active in the organization of the International Harvester company, and when the United States Steel corporation was formed he became a member of its advisory committee. Later he formed his own firm and developed a number of New England water power projects, which later were organized into the Connecticut Light and Power company.

Mr. Carse was born at Jeffersonville, Ind. His father was a railroad executive and his mother was an associate of Frances E. Willard, noted temperance leader. He was educated at Morgan Park Military academy in Chicago and at the University of Illinois. Surviving are his widow, four sons, and two daughters. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the Carse home at Ferncliff-on-the-Hudson.

Leaps in Path of Garfield Park "L" Train; Killed

Gilbert Ferst, 27 years old, 1238 Roosevelt road, was killed last night when he either leaped or fell in front of a Garfield Park "L" train at the Kedzie avenue station, near Harrison street. Firemen and policemen worked more than an hour to remove his body. John Nelligan, 4826 Lexington street, the motorman, said that Ferst leaped from the platform as the train approached.

Gen. Degoutte, Commander of Rhineland Armies, Dies

LYON, France, Oct. 31 [Monday].—(AP)—Gen. Joseph Degoutte, former commander of the allied armies in the Rhineland, died today at the age of 72. Death came to the aged general at his home in the little village of Charnay near here. Despite his long retirement from active service he was a member of the general staf until his death. His military career covered a period of 40 years.

Nathaniel W. Lindsey, 101, Patriarch of Ozarks, Dies

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Nathaniel W. Lindsey, 101 years old and the oldest resident in this section of the Ozarks, died today in his home near Eldorado Springs. He served with the Union army during the civil war and later operated a large stock farm.

Kin of Rockefeller Dies in Childbirth; Twins Survive

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Geraldine McAlphin Webster, grandniece of the late John D. Rockefeller, died today at the medical center after the birth of twin sons, both of whom survived. Her husband is Dr. Jerome P. Webster, assistant surgeon at Presbyterian hospital.

LITTLE COLDS Often Lead to BIG TRAGEDIES

"A $60 Doctor Bill—and We're Broke!"
It was only a "light" cold to start it. (It nearly always is).
But it grew and grew—and it took doctors and medicines to save him.
Take no chances with any cold! It can turn into something else too fast.
Treat a cold's symptoms promptly. Treat them seriously.
Take famous Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets).
Bromo Quinine tablets don't "fool." They really treat a cold's symptoms. They really relieve the distress.
They relieve the headache and other pains that go with a cold. They help reduce the fever that accompanies a cold. They lift that heavy feeling of stuffiness with which a cold oppresses and depresses you.
Thousands swear by Bromo Quinine tablets. Get a package today at any drug store. They come in two sizes. Buy the larger size—the economy size—as it gives you 20% more for your money.
Ask clearly for Grove's Bromo Quinine Tablets!

OBITUARIES

Thomas McGlave.

Thomas McGlave, who retired in August after forty-three years of service with The Fair store, died last night in his home at 7843 Evans avenue. He was 75 years old. Surviving are his widow, Susan; three sons, Thomas J., Edward J., and Arthur F. McGlave, and two daughters, Mrs. Arline Sullivan and Mrs. Ruth Heil. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. in St. Francis de Paula church, 78th street and Dobson avenue. Burial will be at Mount Olivet cemetery.

SEEK AIRPLANE TO RUSH SON TO MOTHER'S BED

The family of Henry L. Walther appealed yesterday to Mayor Kelly for aid to obtain a plane for Walther's return from King Cove, Alaska, to the bedside of his mother, Mrs. Alice Walther. She is seriously ill in her home at 846 North Harding avenue. In behalf of the mayor, who is out of town, Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, said he would see what arrangements could be made. Walther, reached through the aid of amateur short wave operators, answered it would take more than a month to return by boat and land travel.

Henry L. Walther.

Lee Coleman, Republican Figure at Belvidere, Dies

Belvidere, Ill., Oct. 30.—[Special.]—Lee Coleman, 79 years old, active in Republican circles here for many years died today in St. Joseph's hospital following a stroke of paralysis. During the Hoover administration he was named inspector of Indian reservations by Roy O. West, secretary of the interior. For many years he managed a large Boone county farm owned by United States Senator Charles S. Deneen. Twice he represented the 12th district as a delegate to Republican national conventions. He leaves four sons and four daughters, all living here. Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Opera Singer Found Dead from Gas in Apartment

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Maxine Corbaley, 38 years old, described as a singer who had been in opera and motion pictures under the name of Maxine Castleton, was found asphyxiated in her apartment today. Police said they found a note and four gas jets open.

EDISON INCOME $1.68 PER SHARE FOR 9 MONTHS

Third Quarter Net Exceeds Year Ago.

The Commonwealth Edison company had net income equal to $1.68 a share in the first nine months of this year, compared with $1.73 a share in the first nine months of 1937. This was reported to stockholders yesterday by James Simpson, chairman. Indicated net income for the September quarter amounted to 46 cents a share, against 45 cents in the third quarter of last year.

Consolidated net income in the first nine months amounted to $13,262,690. Although this was larger than the actual consolidated net income of $13,901,300 in the first nine months of 1937, the per share earnings were smaller than a year ago, because the company had more shares outstanding in 1938 than in 1937.

Company Exchanges Stock.

As part of a recapitalization program, the Edison company this year issued its capital stock in exchange for the preferred stocks of a number of subsidiaries. As a result, Edison's outstanding stock has increased. The higher total net income for this year is explained by the fact that some subsidiary preferred stocks on which the company paid dividends last year before arriving at its net income have now been retired in exchange for Edison stock. Some Edison debentures also have been converted into common stock, thus reducing interest charges to be deducted.

Equal 56 Cents a Quarter.

The per share earnings for the nine months were equal to an average of 56 cents a quarter, or more than enough to cover the 40 cent quarterly dividend rate announced early this month.

The directors voted to boost the rate from 31¼ cents a share in the expectation that profits for 1938 will approximate the $2.45 per share earned in 1937.

The nine months' operating revenues totaled $102,911,740, against $103,541,279 in the 1937 period.

Zenith Head Doubts Advent of Television

Sale of television receivers at the present time is premature and "unfair to the public," E. F. McDonald Jr., president of the Zenith Radio corporation, said yesterday. He stated his views in a letter to stockholders.

E. F. McDonald Jr.

The statement referred to "recent publication of a statement that television receivers will be marketed before the opening of the New York world fair next spring." He said Zenith had received many inquiries as a result of the statement.

[David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, announced Oct. 20 that television receivers will be put on the market before the fair opens April 30.]

Warns of Replacements.

McDonald commented on "the present state of the art" and added that any "premature introduction of television commercially will result in loading the public with undue experimental replacement cost."

"The Zenith Radio corporation will, in a period of weeks, be on the air with its experimental television programs," the letter said. "It will also have ready television receivers. It, however, intends to make no sales of these receivers until, in our opinion, television is ready for the public. These receivers will be loaned to a limited group for experiments."

Problems Still Unsolved.

Citing technical problems still unsolved, McDonald said one is the interference caused by spark plugs in automobiles. Every spark plug in every automobile in the country, he said, operates as a transmitter and creates interference in its immediate vicinity.

McDonald also commented on Zenith's radio sales. In the six weeks ending Oct. 15, unit sales to dealers exceeded sales in the same 1937 period by 73.43 per cent, he reported. He estimated the company's profits in the first six months of the fiscal year will equal about $1.25 a share before federal taxes.

SIGN UNION PACT WITH AFFILIATE OF ARMOUR CO.

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers' union announced tonight an agreement with Armour and company. The union said the agreement was the first the company had ever signed with a union.

It affects about 800 employés of the New York Butchers Dressed Meat company, an Armour affiliate, and calls for a forty hour week, seven paid holidays a year, and paid vacations for employés of more than two years. The union had threatened to strike.

Business Activity in Chicago Shows Upturn in September

Business activity in Chicago during September showed the most encouraging signs of an upturn in many monthly industrial survey. Most indices still were below those for the same 1937 period.

Some figures were ahead of last year. The cost of contracts awarded on building projects amounted to $7,404,000, against $4,444,000 in September, 1937, and the number of contracts increased to 271 from 182. The number of building permits was 181, against 137 last year, but the money value slipped to $2,440,699, against $2,664,445 in September, last year.

Volume on the Chicago Stock exchange in September was 1,507,000 shares, or 50 per cent higher than a year earlier. Telephones in use and slaughtering at the stock yards showed a pickup from 1937 levels.

Indices still running below a year ago included electric power production, new car registrations, bank clearings, and Chicago Surface Lines operations.

Increases in September over August of this year were reported for employment and pay rolls in manufacturing, bank clearings, postal receipts, and carloadings.

The comparison of business activity in September, 1938, with that for September, 1937, follows:

WINTER WHEAT PROSPECT HURT BY LACK OF RAIN

Drouth Reported in Other Countries.

The winter wheat crop is getting off to a bad start. No rain of consequence has fallen in the North American wheat belt for several months. As a result the top soil is in a very dry condition. Winter wheat is reported to have made little or no growth over a considerable area. Much of the seed has not germinated, according to the government crop reporters.

Semi-drouth conditions are also said to exist in parts of central Europe, India, and Australia. The Australian crop has been seriously impaired. The recent rains were too late to be of appreciable benefit. Harvesting of wheat has started in the early districts in Australia.

Corn Withheld on Loans.

Harvesting of the corn crop has made rapid progress. A large part of the crop is now in farmers' cribs. Official reports indicate that more than 200,000,000 bushels are being submitted for government loans. The loan rate is expected to be 57 to 61 cents a bushel. This is 20 to 30 cents a bushel above the current open market price. Chicago corn dealers believe the sealing of corn will affect prices materially.

President Will Confer Today on Rail Crisis

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt will confer with representatives of railway labor and management tomorrow. He will attempt to find a way to avert a strike of 930,000 rail workers against the proposed wage reduction which his fact finding board has declared unjustified.

The White House gave no inkling tonight as to what the President would have to say to the deadlocked parties. There was some speculation, however, that an effort might be made to reach an agreement on recommendations to the next congress concerning liberalization of government railroad loans and other rail legislation.

Billion in Loans Foreseen.

Some executives in New York predicted yesterday that the government might offer the railroads about $1,000,000,000 in easy term rehabilitation loans. They saw this as a possible sequel to the presidential board's recommendation yesterday that the managements abandon their proposal to reduce wages 15 per cent on Dec. 1. The recommendation is not legally binding.

The managements have not yet indicated whether they will comply. Still up to the President, in the words of one member of the fact finding board, is the problem of averting the nation-wide strike which the workers have voted if the reduction is put into effect.

Pelley, Harrison Invited.

John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, and George M. Harrison, head of the Railway Labor Executives' association, have been invited to the conference with the President tomorrow.

The carriers' joint conference committee, composed of railroad executives who conducted negotiations with employés before the wage cut was decided upon, also is to meet here tomorrow.

H. A. Enochs, chairman, said this group probably would turn the question of reducing wages back to the individual railroads.

Niagara Hudson Power's Quarter Income $1,446,912

The Niagara Hudson Power corporation and subsidiaries yesterday reported for the quarter ended Sept. 30 net income of $1,446,912. This compared with $1,504,751 in the like 1937 quarter. After dividends on the preferred stocks there was a balance of $840,905, against $931,074 in the period last year.

Receivership Certificates.

When a corporation cannot pay debts which fall due and hence goes into bankruptcy a receiver is appointed.

The receiver is faced with the problem of raising funds to keep the company going. To get these funds he issues receivership certificates. These certificates have a prior claim over all other outstanding securities of the company. They are secured by the assets of the company.

Because in practice the certificates have proved to be reasonably safe investments they usually sell on a low interest basis. They may be refunded as they mature through the sale of other receivership certificates or, if the receivership is wound up, through the issuance of corporate bonds. The most common practice is to refund receivership certificates by the issue of prior lien bonds, with a claim prior to the company's other securities.

The receiver is not, of course, personally liable for the payment of the certificates. They are issued with court permission. The court must approve the amount to be issued, the selling price, and interest rate.

FIND INVESTING FIRM RULE IS FOUNDED ON SLENDER HOLDINGS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The Securities and Exchange commission reported today that affiliated interests of investment companies have been able to maintain control of the companies "even when such interests have only negligible stockholdings."

This conclusion was stated in an instalment of its report to congress on a study of investment companies. The study was undertaken to determine whether legislation was needed in this field.

Perpetuation of control by affiliated interests, the report said, depended "in no small measure" on the inability of the small stockholder to make his voting power effective.

The small stockholder was unable to make his voting power count, it said, either because of the inadequacy of the voting machinery, lack of funds or absence of sufficient stake.

AUGUST WAGES AVERAGE ABOVE LEGAL MINIMUM

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, said today that average weekly earnings of workers in manufacturing industries were higher in all states during August than the $11 minimum set by the labor standards act.

He released a compilation of these earnings, he said, to show that they averaged above the "modest requirements" of the wage law. This compilation showed the highest average, $33.61, in the District of Columbia, and the lowest, $13.71, in Georgia.

The compilation showed Michigan led the heavily industrialized states with an average of $30. Next came California with $26.35 and New York with $25.51. Other average weekly earnings included Indiana, $23.65; Illinois, $25.16; Wisconsin, $23.71; Minnesota, $25.58, and Iowa, $24.10.

Upturn in 1939 Is Predicted by U. S. Bureau

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics forecast today that 1939 would be a better business and industrial year than 1938, but not quite as good as 1937.

In an annual report on demand and prices for agricultural products the bureau said:

"Economic conditions in the United States are most favorable to recovery."

Farmers were advised not to expect much of a rise in prices of their products as a whole. The bureau said, however, that an expected increase in consumer income should broaden markets for agricultural products.

Expect Gain in Building.

Important industries which the bureau said were expected to contribute to a 1939 rise in production were automobiles, building steel and miscellaneous consumers' goods.

Improvement in production of producers' goods—equipment and materials for industrial plants and railroads—may be somewhat delayed, the bureau said. It based this view on relatively unfavorable situations in the railroad, utility and private nonresidential building industries.

More Competition Abroad.

[Material for the survey was prepared before fourteen large utilities announced a two billion dollar, two year expansion program last week.]

The outlook for foreign markets for American goods was described as less favorable than this year.

"Economic conditions abroad may show some improvement," the bureau said, "but competing foreign supplies will be much larger."

SILVER BUYING HELD A FAILURE; HALT IS URGED

New York, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Prompt repeal of the silver purchase act of 1924 and a halt in all silver bullion buying by the United States treasury was urged upon President Roosevelt and congress today. A resolution of the committee on finance and currency of the New York State Chamber of Commerce urged the step to prevent further "useless expenditure" of public funds.

A survey of the federal government's silver policy, made public with the resolution, held that the government's efforts to widen the use of silver as a monetary metal have failed completely; that the United States has been made the dumping ground for the world's unwanted silver; that the experiment already has cost the taxpayers upwards of one billion dollars, and that the silver policy is undermining confidence in the nation's currency.

TWO MORE FURNACES WILL BE PUT INTO USE BY CARNEGIE-ILLINOIS

Two additional blast furnaces will be put into operation at the Chicago district plants of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation this week, officials announced yesterday. One of the furnaces is at the South Chicago plant and the other at the Gary works.

Steel ingot production rose to 54.5 per cent of theoretical capacity last week, the magazine Steel estimated yesterday. This was a gain of 3 percentage points over the preceding week's production rate. It was the first time this year that steel production throughout the nation has surpassed the output of the corresponding week of 1937.

Last week's production boost was attributed mainly to increased purchases by the automobile industry.

Scrap markets showed a stronger undertone, but Steel's composite of scrap prices held at $14.04 a ton.

H. H. Holcomb to Retire as Burlington Official

Horace H. Holcomb, vice president in charge of trafic of the Burlington railroad, will retire tomorrow. He will be succeeded by Lawrence R. Capron, who he hired as an office boy in 1902.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Fall's Fickle Weather

Oct. 30, 1938.

FICKLE weather produced interesting foliage on trees in the woodland pastures at the Tribune's Du Page county farm this year. Although there have been a few killing frosts, some of the oaks and elms in the lowlands still are clinging to a fair crop of green leaves, while shagbark hickories and black walnuts on nearby slopes are completely denuded.

The frost has wilted the foliage on many trees. During the last two weeks the trees, especially on the high ground, have been shedding their leaves quite rapidly. Most of the trees that sent out a second crop of green leaves after the foliage was injured by a late spring frost have become leafless during the last ten days.

One of the men at the farm who has been particularly interested in the falling of the leaves has observed that foliage of trees on the higher ground with the poorer soil and less moisture are going first. He has noticed that where fertilizer has been used around the trees the leaves remain longer. One of the farm's big elms, given a special watering in September, has held its leaves better than neighboring elms.

Shed Leaves in Order.

His observations reveal that the different kinds of trees commonly grown in pastures on farms in this region shed their leaves in this order: Hickories first, elms second, and sugar maples third. He also noticed recently that the oaks, locusts and poplars seemed to be running an even race. Until hit by killing frosts, the foliage on catalpa trees appeared to be holding out best of all. Since the frosts appeared the catalpa leaves have wilted and are falling rapidly.

In the farm's woodland pastures on both sides of Maramy road that cuts through the farm from north to south most of the underbrush, small trees and shrubs were still quite green last week. A trip through the woods also revealed that leaves, some of them quite green, still were clinging to the lowest and highest branches of elms growing in low damp ground.

Up on higher ground the pin oaks are beginning to take on their typical fall color, a vivid red that "shoots" up in the timber like a flame. Leaves have wilted on a thorn tree that was completely stripped of its foliage by caterpillars during the summer and later sent out a second crop of leaves.

Ginkgo Tree Is Dead.

The farm's ginkgo tree is dead. The tree never thrived after the top line of the soil was raised several feet when it became necessary to add many tons of earth in grading the lawn. Although a concrete circular wall held the dirt back away from the trunk, the effect of raising the level of the ground was to kill the ginkgo tree. The grading also decreased the vitality of a bur oak. But it changed a somewhat sickly sycamore into a tree of tremendous vitality and growth this year. The head gardener believes this was because black dirt thrown around the tree greatly increased the feeding area for the roots. It is also believed that the increased blanket of black earth kept more moisture around the roots of the sycamore, which normally is a river tree.

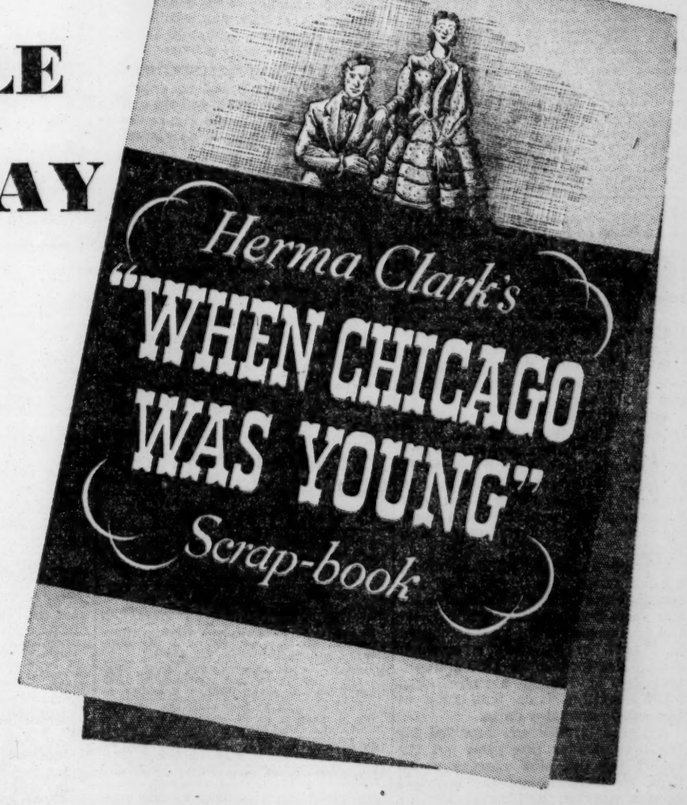
CIRCULAR "INCOME SECURITIES" ON REQUEST

ON SALE TODAY



IT goes on sale today—Herma Clark's "When Chicago Was Young" Scrap-Book—36 pages of anecdotes of early Chicago—a lively, readable medley of sprightly verse, quaint songs, pithy country sayings, nostalgic prose and amusing epitaphs!

You'll enjoy the lines to hoops — the ballad proclaiming the virtues of a farmer's daughter—the pen pictures of the village church choir, the village barber shop, "Doc Jim," the family doctor — the alphabet verse about Chicago's pioneer citizens—and the song of the famous Lumbard brothers who, as Union soldiers, crossed the line of battle to sing for the sons of the South!

Get your copy today at either of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan avenue. Price, 10 cents. By postpaid mail, 13 cents.

Investors' Guide

Chicago Venetian Blind.

Investors' Guide: Please furnish me with a report on the Chicago Venetian Blind company.—F. T.

Answer: This company makes and sells venetian blinds and the metal parts and accessories for putting them on windows. It was incorporated in January, 1936, under Illinois law, to take over the Chicago plant and business of the venetian blind division of the Central Architectural Iron Works.

Chicago Venetian Blind company did not report its sales for 1937 and has not reported any sales figures for this year. Sales in 1936 were $528,447 and net income for the year amounted to $74,097, or 74 cents a common share. Net income for 1937 slumped to $7,404, or 7 cents a share, after losses resulting from liquidation of two subsidiary sales units.

A loss of $13,406 was reported for the first quarter this year, but the report for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1938, showed the loss had been wiped out and profit for the period was $16,721, or 16 cents a common share.

The company has no funded debt. There are 100,000 shares of $1 par common stock outstanding. Dividends totaled 60 cents a share in 1937 and 17½ cents a share in 1936. None have been paid thus far in 1938.

Art Metal Works.

Investors' Guide: What does Art Metal Works, Inc., do? Will you please report on the company?—L. H B.

Answer: Art Metal Works, Inc., makes a variety of articles, many of which are patented and sold under the trade name "Ronson." More than 12,000 different articles are manufactured. They include cigar and cigaret lighters, smokers' sundries, lamps, chandeliers, ecclesiastical statuary, toys, clock sets, desk sets, razors, metal radiator caps for automobiles, and toilet articles.

The company's main plant is at Newark, N. J. It owns the Ronson Holding company, Dominion Art Metal Works, Ltd., and Ronson Products, Ltd., the latter a British company which handles its European business.

Net income in 1937 was $314,866, or $1.41 a common share. This compared with $345,669, or $1.54 a share, in 1936 and $308,886, or $1.38 a share in 1935. Losses were reported in 1931 and 1932.

There is no funded debt. The company has 223,494 shares of $5 par stock outstanding. Quarterly dividends of 20 cents are being paid. Regular payments totaling 80 cents and 25 cents extra were made in 1937, and $1.20 in all was paid in 1936.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Finance Docket No. 11336.
SAVANNAH & ATLANTA RAILWAY REORGANIZATION.

Notice of Submission of Plan of Reorganization.

The Interstate Commerce Commission and the District Court of The United States for the Southern District of Georgia, Savannah Division, have approved a plan for the reorganization of the Savannah and Atlanta Railway pursuant to section 77 of the Bankruptcy Act.

The plan is being submitted by the Commission to the holders of bonds [or certificates showing the deposit of such bonds with protective committees] issued by the Brinson Railway Company and by the Savannah and Atlanta Railway for their acceptance or rejection.

Holders of such bonds or certificates, who do not receive a ballot by mail may obtain one, together with copies of the Commission's report and order and the opinion and order of the court approving the plan, by writing to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D. C.

In order that a ballot may be accepted it must be filled out in duplicate and filed with the Commission on or before November 30, 1938, or bear postmark indicating that it was placed in the mail on or before that date.

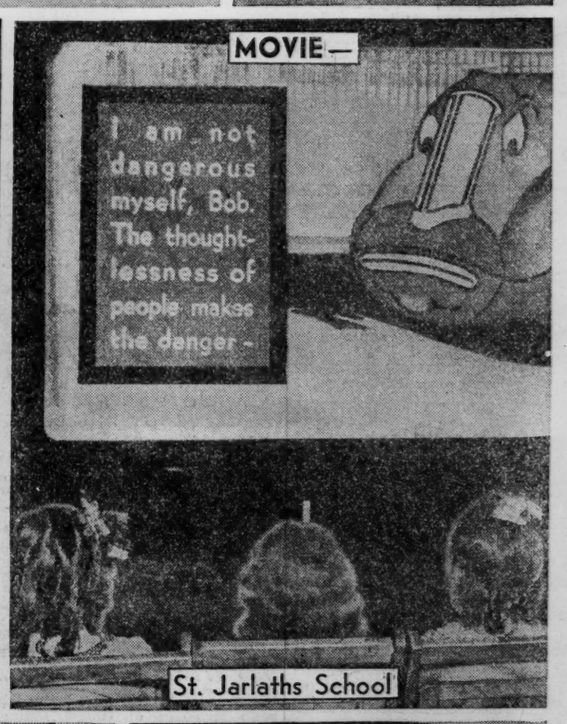
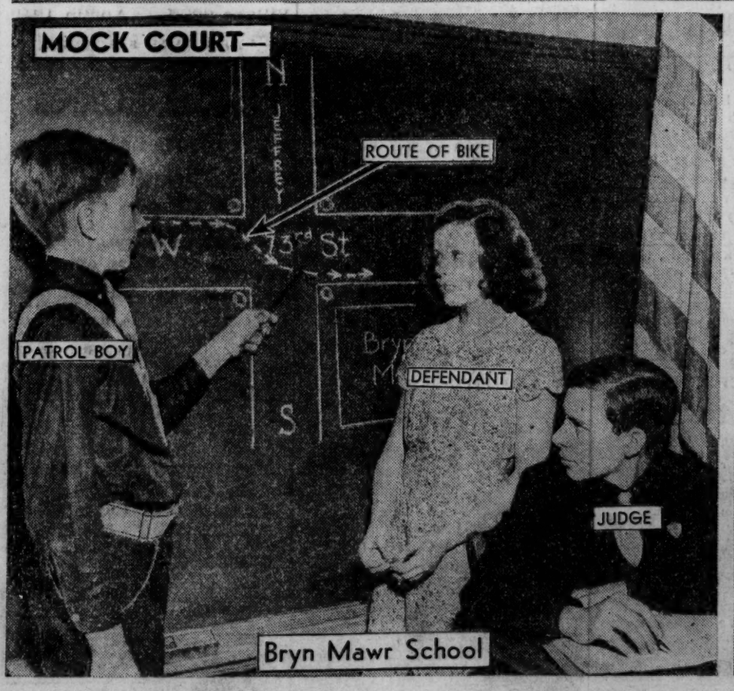
TEACHING TODAY'S CHILDREN TO BE TRAFIC WISE

From the primary grade to the high school, Chicago's younger generation is learning respect for trafic safety rules and the elements of good driving. The pictures below illustrate some of the methods of instruction used in these courses, which have become as important as the three R's in training the pupils to be tomorrow's citizens.





[TRIBUNE Photos.]
Effectiveness of this safety instruction has been proved by the statistics on Chicago's trafic massacre. Fatal accidents to persons of school age have decreased since the training was started. They have increased among adults in the same time.
